Dome Will Show Off Improvements, Beach Boys At Same Time

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Alan B. Shepard Civic Center will unveil its new modern furnishings and flooring for its first time Wednesday night and a sell-out crowd is expected to be on hand not just to see the new features, but to enjoy the Beach Boys in concert.

Under the sponsorship of WGH Radio, the Beach Boys, one of America's most popular vocal groups, will present two shows, at 7 and 9 p.m.

Their appearance here last January brought out one of the largest crowds the Civic Center has had and from early indications Wednesday night's shows promise even larger crowds.

The revamping of the Civic Center has provided a new seating arrangement that will eliminate the mad dash for choice seats previously experienced, Director Bill Lillyman said. The center now has reserved seats in addition to its reserved and general admission sections.

A WGH spokesman said that the Wednesday night concert will mark the first time the Beach Boys have made a return appearance in any city in their current concert tour, due, no doubt, to their amazing success there in January.

Since the shows fall on a Sunday night, the sponsors have arranged it so that the last performance will be over no later than 10:15 p.m. It was the only date open in their tour, the spokesman said, "and we took it rather than miss them altogether."

The Beach Boys have appeared frequently on "The Ed Sullivan Show" and "Shindig" and will make a repeat engagement with Sullivan shortly after leaving Virginia Beach.

Less spectacular than the Beach Boys, but equally as important to the Civic Center, are the improvements that have been made to the aluminum-domed building in its first face-lifting in seven years.

To provide more comfortable seating, the center has acquired $22,000 worth of new padded stack chairs and has installed a colorful Acronol seamless floor that is grey flecked with gold on the outer edges and jet black flecked with gold in an inner circle dance area. Mrs. Laura Lambie served as color consultant for the center's revamping.

An $8,000 air conditioning unit will also be in operation this week and the stage was recently raised 10 inches, which has already proved to be a valuable asset.

Before the summer season gets underway the center will have $4,000 worth of risers and $23,000 worth of new lobby furniture, Lillyman said.

All of these capital improvements were included in the city's operating budget for the coming fiscal year. It also allocated to the Civic Center a $15,000 revolving cash fund with which Lillyman can secure in advance headliner performers and programs.

This revolving fund has enabled the center to book an outstanding array of talent for its summer concert series, Lillyman said. The schedule will be announced in the near future.

Car Plunges Into Wall

LYNNHAVEN — A 59-year-old Virginia Beach woman smashed into the brick wall of a supermarket on Shore Drive Tuesday afternoon when she apparently hit the gas pedal instead of the brake.

The driver, Mrs. Ella Margaret Carter, 3117 Basin Road, was uninjured in the mishap, police said, but about $1,050 damage was done to the Be-Lo Super Market. There was about $800 damage to the car.

The impact dislocated a 2 x 4 foot section of the brick wall and caused the entire wall, measuring some 10 by 20 feet, to crack, police said.

Officer A. Sinclair said that Mrs. Carter was turning into the store's parking lot off Shore Drive and that "as the brake pedal was being depressed, her foot must have hit the gas pedal at the same time, causing the car to lunge forward into the wall."

No charges were placed.

Back Bay Pumping Project To Start

BACK BAY — The city's new pumping operation at Little Island Coast Guard Station is expected to start pumping salt water into Back Bay next Monday, according to City Treasurer V. A. Etheridge, chairman of the committee in charge of the project.

The pump is expected to maintain maximum operation, about 20 hours a day, for the next two months in an effort to raise the salinity in Back Bay. Officials and biologists believe that the introduction of salt water into the bay will help settle suspended silt which will allow more sunlight for plant growth.

The lack of plant growth in Back Bay has seriously affected hunting and fishing in the area since wildlife has little to feed on.

City Council last week appropriated an additional $12,000 for this project, raising its overall cost to $47,000.

The additional appropriation was for the purchase of pipe which the committee had first believed would be furnished without cost by the Army Engineers, Etheridge said. However, the Army Engineers did not have a sufficient supply of the type pipe needed by the city.

CITY HALL DAY WED.

VIRGINIA BEACH — "City Hall Day" will be observed Wednesday as part of "Know Your Government Week," being celebrated next week, with an informative and entertaining program for all interested citizens.

Costumed hostesses will conduct organized tours throughout the rambling complex of municipal buildings and various school bands will provide musical selections.

City Hall will be opened to the public between 4 and 8 p.m. with a special council meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. so that the public may observe the council in session and meet the city officials.

The city's miniature train will make periodic runs along Courthouse Drive.

Mrs. Nell Boggs, secretary to Planning Director Mason Gamage, is coordinating the special event with co-chairmen Frank Kellam and John Featres.

Nine Police Promotions

VIRGINIA BEACH — In one of nine police promotions made known Tuesday by Chief J. E. Moore, Lt. Richard C. Davis was promoted to captain and named captain of the 2nd Precinct.

Lt. G. C. Riley was also promoted to captain and will continue as administrative officer in Chief Moore's office.

Promoted to sergeant were Detective A. B. Smith, Juvenile Officer Floyd S. Krashenbill, Canine Patrolman Robert E. Sparrow and Detective Archie R. Nobles.

Lt. C. W. Shirley was named property clerk for the department.

Capt. Davis will succeed Capt. R. K. Halstead at the 2nd Precinct since he has been made acting night chief at the 1st Precinct.

No charges were placed.

Officer's Home Burglarized

KEMPSVILLE — Virginia Beach Detective E. L. Knowles is investigating a burglary case that has special significance . . . the burglary of his own home in Kempsville Colony.

The only item found missing was a grey metal bank with a combination lock in which the detective had been collecting quarters and half dollars for a long time for what he called his "vacation fund."

Knowles estimated that he had collected about $650, a sum that undoubtedly made the weight of the bank difficult to handle.

The detective has offered a reward for information leading to the recovery of the bank and its contents. Without the coins, it promises to be a long, hot summer for the Knowles family.

Cyclist Hurt, Driver Flees

PLAZA — Two young Navy men were injured Monday afternoon when their motorcycle struck a car at the intersection of Virginia Beach Boulevard and Rosemont Road.

Officer Louis Barlow said Newman was heading east on the boulevard and ran into the rear of a car stopped in the left lane. The car left the scene of the accident and the driver is unknown at this time, police said.

Newman was charged with following too close.

Two plays will be presented. The first is a romantic tale, written by Edna St. Vincent Millay while a student at Vassar. The musical theme of it was written by Deems Taylor, and was taped for this performance by Charles Hardin.

Dawn Burton plays the princess in this light and airy tale of a princess of long ago and her page, is portrayed by Maggie Biley. Others in the cast are Lindsay Shepherd as the King, Anna Harbin as the Chancelor, and Dana Masterson, Kathy Woodhouse and Liz Kemp as three soldiers. The play will be produced by special arrangement with Walter Baker Co.

The second play, "Drop of a Hat" by Dick Berg was produced with great success on television. It is the story of Mode Magazine and the continuous fight for editorial control that goes on among the staff.

The best marching bands and the best floats, in both the civilian and military categories, will be awarded prizes.

ROAD HEARING PROVED LIVELY

formal hearing on Independence Boulevard Monday afternoon at Shelton Park School drew a limited crowd with seemingly unlimited complaints and suggestions on the road's proposed route between Virginia Beach Boulevard and Shore Drive.

Maps designating the route were distributed and a panel of city and State Highway Department officials attempted to answer questions. Since the first hearing was informal, persons with complaints were told they must register their complaints at a formal hearing to be held by the Highway Department May 19 at Hermitage Elementary School at 10:30 a.m.

Most of the adverse comments concerned the crossing of Northampton Boulevard, the bridge-tunnel's approach road, and the by-passing of the business area at Robbins Corner.

It was explained that Robbins Corner had been bypassed because a school, Hermitage Elementary School, had been built on the site originally planned for Independence Boulevard.

Plans call for an overpass across Northampton Boulevard. One resident adamantly opposed this plan and suggested instead an underpass. Officials explained that going under the boulevard would put the new road beneath sea level and require pumps to keep it open during heavy rains.

Independence Boulevard will be constructed in two phases. The first will start near the entrance to Pembroke Manor on Virginia Beach Boulevard and extend north of Wishart Road. The second phase will start at that point and continue to Shore Drive, cutting through the fringes of Thoroughgood Estates and Lakeview Park.

Highway Department Engineer E. S. Coleman explained that each of the two phases will probably have a trouble spot. The spanning of Pembroke Lake, in the first phase, will possibly take a year because of the settlement of the overland in the lake's deep silt bottom. Construction will continue on either side of the lake during that period. The overpass and interchange at Northampton Boulevard is the anticipated trouble spot in the second phase.

The 4-lane highway will be divided by a median strip which could provide two additional lanes at a later date, if needed. It will be constructed with curbs, gutters and sidewalks.

Coleman said that plans for the acquisition of right-of-way could be ready by the end of the year, depending on how much opposition there is to the interchange and overpass. He predicted, however, that overall take time to four years.

City Manager W. Russell Hatcher took exception to this prediction and noted that "I think we should be riding in the first phase of Independence Boulevard by next spring. His comments brought a round of applause from the crowd."

Independence Boulevard will be constructed in two phases. The first will start near the entrance to Pembroke Manor on

Antique Show Committee Meet Often & Make Plans

VIRGINIA BEACH — Although the 7th Annual Antique Show and Sale will not take place until November, the Antique Show committee, under the capable general chairmanship of Mrs. J. James Davis, is holding meetings and making plans to assure that it will be bigger and better than ever.

A coffee was held previously by Mrs. Davis last month at the Golf Ranch Motel. The second meeting last week featured an oyster roast at Hurd's Restaurant on the beautiful shore of Lynnhaven River. The ladies were served oysters in season in all well-known dishes.

It was announced at the meeting at Hurd's that the Virginia Beach Antique Show and Sale has become so well known it is believed to be the biggest held in the State of Virginia. Even at this early date, applications for booths have been received from dealers from Maine to Florida, and there is a waiting list.

Last year's sale has been considered the best one yet and more than $8,000 was realized which will allow the Princess Anne Woman's Club, who sponsors the gigantic show and sale, to continue providing scholarships for worthwhile students.

The remainder is being held in a bank earning interest and will be used toward the construction of the proposed Mental Health Center.

Arrangements have been made by the committee to have an antique car in the Armed Forces Day parade which will help to stimulate interest in the forthcoming show.

Meetings are planned for each month forthcoming and will be held at the member's homes. Mrs. Edward A. Simiele will be hostess for the next meeting on May 12.

ROSE SOCIETY ENJOYS "MIRACLE OF THE ROSE"

VIRGINIA BEACH — Dr. M. I. Kricher, a member of the Tidewater Rose Society was commentator for the presentation of a color-slide showing of the "Miracle Of The Rose" held by the Society recently in the Administration Building of the Norfolk Botanical Gardens.

Shown on the screen was the "World's Fair Salute", a beautiful red rose in honor of the World's Fair.

"The Miracle of the Rose" combines all the wonderful color which can be enjoyed with the world's most universally-loved plant.

"Tropicana" was not only the All-American winner for 1963, but also the rose which has won 14 International Top honors in heavy competition in shows throughout Western Europe. It's a magnificent hybrid tea—vigorous and resistant to diseases.

Roses don't have to be grown in marshalled beds. They can be tied-in beautifully with the modern trend in garden design.

The hybrid tea is the best known and most popular rose. Floribunda roses is one of the new classes coming up in popularity each year.

Two new roses share the awards as All-America winners in 1965. "Camelot", a lush grandiflora, bearing large, 5-inch blooms in clusters of 2, 3 or more on long sturdy stems. "Mister Lincoln" is the other All-America winner for 1965—the new hybrid tea displays deep red, 6-inch blooms which have the look and feel of velvet. The foliage is unusually large, lustrous and dark green.

Another of the newest of select roses for 1965 planting is the wonderful tea rose named in honor of John F. Kennedy. The late President loved flowers and all the color they gave. Despite the immense burdens imposed upon by his office, he was responsible during his White House tenure for re-designing and revitalizing the famed Formal Rose Garden Adjoining his office.

Mrs. Arthur McKnight is visiting with her son, William McKnight, and his family at their home in Bay Colony.

WE BRIDGE THE GAP

When newcomers move to town, our Hostess greets them, and extends a welcome, with the personal messages of our friendly, civic-minded sponsors.

NEWCOMERS GREETING

Mrs. Margaret Lowman
Hostess

For exotic color, the newest and most interesting in roses is found in the variety called "Balinese". This is a most effective suffusion of brown and tawny orange.

The floribundas are a wondrous class of roses because each plant gives hundreds of blooms during the season. At the end of each branch are clusters of from 5 to 7 exciting blooms.

A test panel of 15,000 home gardeners acclaimed "Polynesian Sunset" as the Rose of the Year for 1965. The blooms are fragrant and huge, averaging 6 1/2 inches across, and the warm coral-orange tones reflect all the beauty of an authentic Polynesian Sunset.

Every now and then it's a wonderful lift to see something different—and that will be the experience in growing "Candy Stripe". Instead of a solid pink, it offers blooms of deep dusty pink with stripes and streaks at random. This effect gives a happy expression to the rose named "Candy Stripe".

Good roses start with good roots. When starting out with new rose bushes, be sure to check the root systems closely so that any bruised roots can be nipped off. The heart of a good rose bush is its root system—for healthy, strong roots can be developed only if all bruised and broken, tips are trimmed back a half-inch above the point of injury. Where the wiglets are mild, set the bud union 2 inches or a little above the ground soil level.

It pays to have all the soil ingredients handy at planting time. Don't let the rose bushes dry out. Keep them in a bucket of water so that the roots are moist if planting cannot be done immediately.

Set the rose plant on a raised cone of soil in the center of the hole. Fill in the soil slowly and spread out the roots fan-wise down the sides of the soil cone. This permits the rose to get off to a better start.

The rose needs 5 to 6 hours of sun, and should be placed in well-drained, fertile soil.

The above excerpts were obtained through the courtesy of J. Wiss and Sons Company of Newark, New Jersey who provided the slides and commentary with it.

The Tidewater Rose Society meeting was presided by Edward Tippo, president. Plans were formulated for a "Rose Show" to be held this October, date to be announced at a later time. Fred Wallace, treasurer of the club was appointed "Show Chairman" for this event. Charles Turrisi was appointed parliamentarian.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on May 23, at 3 p.m. at the Botanical Gardens.

The board will meet for discussion on the Rose Show on May 18, at 8 p.m. at the home of the Tippo's, in Birchwood Gardens.

A MOTHER'S DAY PRAYER

For mothers who have raised their children and wisely given love and guidance and have seen the fruits of their labors in the characters of their children

We ask a special blessing along with the happy peace which is already theirs.

For mothers who have raised their children, but who know now how unwisely they lead and how poor an example they gave

We ask a complete forgiveness and the courage to take what time there is left to amend their ways.

For mothers who are now pointing the way for growing minds and souls and who struggle with the decisions of every day

We ask Thy Answers to be communicated to their hearts that they may lead with assurance.

For mothers, about to be, who are in wonder and in awe of the responsibility before them We ask that they be made aware of Thy constant and loving hand.

For "mothers" who through their ministrations and work have mothered many We ask Thy continuing counsel and care.

We ask these things this Mother's Day of nineteen hundred and sixty-five.

Sorry, Wrong Number

We do not know the reason for it, but at our home we receive an average of five to ten wrong number calls per day. That is a rather startling number of calls. And it is becoming somewhat irritating, especially since many of them come late at night or in the wee hours of the morning. We have become slightly conditioned to this fact of life, and have learned to answer the ringing instrument rather pleasantly in the middle of the night without even waking up. We try quite diligently to inform the errant caller that we are not the party he is calling. But this is becoming a chore and our patience is stretching just a bit thin.

We admit our telephone number is quite similar to a City of Virginia Beach number, but the first three digits are completely different. And we admit that our telephone number has three of the same numbers of the Little Creek Amphibious Base, but the sequence is so different and the exchange is so different we can only wonder how we receive so many calls for the Amphib Base. If this had only happened a few times in the past two months, we could laugh it off, but it happens with alarming regularity.

Probably the major cause of our receiving so many wrong numbers is the caller's lack of memory. He thinks it sounds right, and merrily dials away, without confirming it. It only takes a moment to look up a number in the telephone book. It is there for all to use. And we heartily endorse its use. The telephone company has campaigned for years to have its expensive book that is distributed to all its subscribers used. We join the telephone company.

Wrong numbers are not only irritating to both parties, but time consuming. That same time could best be spent in looking up the number in the first place.

We have lived in a number of cities and in a number of different areas within those cities. We have had many telephone numbers over the course of the years, some similar to those of large installations, but we have never received so many wrong numbers before. Come on now, what's wrong with Virginia Beach? May we offer the suggestion that all of us use the telephone directory as a part of normal, everyday lives. After all, we can only be just so leasant to the wrong number caller in the middle of the night.

The Welcome Visitor

The following article has just come to our attention, and we feel compelled to pass it along. The article was unsolicited, and was sent to us by an independent service totally outside the newspaper field. Statistically, it backs up what we, inside the newspaper field, have been trying to say for years. In many ways it is a revelation. Not only does it show us exactly what our readers want, but it is also added fuel in the day to day sale of space to our advertisers. It tells the story much better than we ever could, and not sound like we were boasting idly.

Here is the article in its entirety, with no additions or deletions.

"What interests the readers of weekly newspapers?"

The Suburban Press Foundation conducted a survey to find the answer to that question, and Editor & Publisher has printed the results. They cast a revealing light on the wants of the millions of people who live in the small towns and the countryside.

As one would expect, local news led the field in readership, with 92.9 per cent of those polled saying they always read it. 6.5 per cent saying they read it sometimes; and only 0.6 per cent confessing they never read it.

Next — and close behind — came editorials and local columns. A mere 0.7 per cent said they never read these.

Third in reader interest was advertising. Only 2.7 per cent said they never read it. All the rest said they always or sometimes read it.

Actually, the whole weekly paper is very thoroughly read. Even the poorest read classification — sports news — drew a combined "always" and "sometimes" readership of 89.1 per cent.

The weekly paper is one of the most welcome of visitors to rural homes. It stays for seven days, not just one. And the whole family has a lasting and hearty appetite for just about everything in its columns."

There it is for all to see, read and digest.

We are even more proud than before to be a weekly newspaper. We always knew we were wanted. Now we know why. We are happy to remain in your homes all week. We hope we will continue. We promise to do our best in our continuing aim to bring you the very best of what you want. Incidentally, we are always looking for new homes too.

THE KEEP HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

Historic briefs about the area now known as Virginia Beach.

Grace Sherwood was not the only woman in Princess Anne County accused of witchcraft. Anne Byrd was charged with being a witch by Charles Kinsey who claimed "she rode him along the seashore and home to his house". In the year 1699 Anne's husband sued Kinsey for defamation of his wife's character. At the trial Kinsey told the jury that not only Anne but her husband, John, were in league with the devil "and did serve him". After a lengthy trial, defendant Kinsey seeking to prove Anne's familiarity with evil spirits, the verdict was: "We the jury do find for the defendant. Hugh Campbell, foreman."

What ever happened to the witch Anne Byrd after the trial is not told by the Rev. C. B. Bryan, D.D., who wrote the story in his "History of Lynnhaven Parish, Princess Anne County".

The Ninth Largest City

Two months and one day have passed since our association with the Virginia Beach Sun began, and since we became permanent residents of the World's Largest Resort City. We have now had a chance to travel to nearly every area of the sprawling metropolis, and to see first-hand the opportunities afforded here. We are amazed at the growth of the area during our eight year absence. Virginia Beach is no longer a little town, full of isolated small communities, but a thriving city. The isolated communities have grown so much and so quickly that their boundaries are meeting and growing together.

Now more than ever we are convinced that the time has arrived for each individual area to take stock of itself, to stop considering itself a wholly independent community, and to make a conscious effort to become a part of the ninth largest city in the United States. This can only be accomplished by the individual citizens residing in these areas. The time has long since passed when civic pride and civic accomplishment should have been evidenced. But even though this is overdue, there is no better time to begin than right now.

We are appalled at some of the comments we have heard. So many persons are only interested in their own residential community or their own business community, instead of the total Virginia Beach city complex. How is it possible for a growing city to prosper unless the overall importance of the entire city is the business at hand to be emphasized?

How is it possible that anyone who can rightfully call himself a resident of Virginia Beach would not be willing to exhibit pride in such a magnificent city? How is it possible that so many citizens can completely ignore the fact that Princess Anne County and the City of Virginia Beach were joined together more than three years ago by a vote of the people? Let us face the facts. Princess Anne County is dead. It has ceased to exist. That building, once called the Courthouse, is now the City Hall. The city limits signs have been moved all the way to the borders of Norfolk and Chesapeake and to the North Carolina border. Princess Anne County is only a fond memory now, but the cause of progress can only be served by keeping it that way — a memory. We now live in the City of Virginia Beach and it behooves all of us to consider it our home and our city. The Pennsylvania Dutch have a unique way of expressing themselves. They describe the man of the household as the head of the house by saying, "Papa is all!" It is time for us to borrow from these fine people and to say, "Virginia Beach is all!"

If some of our readers are still having trouble adapting to such an idea, we have a suggestion. There is a remarkable film, made by the City of Virginia Beach which shows off all the finer points of the city to the best advantage, but still tells a true story of all that we have here. We have been fortunate in seeing this film. At its conclusion we were ready to take pen in hand and buy the place, but our finances are limited. The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce has made and will continue to make, this film available to the general public. Any organization interested in seeing the film and interested in the realization that Virginia Beach is no longer a small town should contact the Chamber. If, after seeing the film, you still cannot fully understand the merits of your hometown, we can only assume you are living in the past and are not willing to accept your responsibility as a responsible citizen.

The center of the city is no longer on the waterfront. The city is too big for that. The sooner all of us realize this simple fact, and begin to pull together, the better all of us will be for it. We are glad to be living here, in the ninth largest city in the nation and in the World's largest resort City. Join us.

Sunday Is Her Day

In case you might have forgotten, Sunday, May 8, belongs to Mothers. Once a year, we finally get around to paying tribute to the gal we should have been paying tribute to all year. So be sure and don't forget Her day this year.

In most cases, on Mother's Day, it is the occasion that Mom gets to sleep fifteen minutes longer and Dad brings her breakfast in bed. The fact that he spills the coffee on the bed, necessitating the change of bed clothes by Mother is purely coincidental. And because dear old Dad makes such a mess in the kitchen while preparing breakfast, and it will take Mom an extra hour to clean up makes no difference at all. Sometimes, on Mother's Day, Dad will dress the kids too. That is a kind thing to do, except that when he dresses them in their very best for playtime, the laundry will be just a shade more difficult. And how come Dad doesn't know which shoe goes on which foot? It is also nice of Dad to attempt to keep the kids quiet so Mom can get that aforementioned extra fifteen minutes of sleep, but does he have to yell at them to keep them quiet?

Oh well. The thought is there, and that is what counts. This Mother's Day will be no exception in homes all across the land. There will be happiness in many, sorrow in some. In too many cases, Mom will have to make do with a letter, a card, a bouquet, or a telephone call from far away. But it is still her day this Sunday, and we pay tribute and homage to her. Happy Mother's Day.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

You are to be complimented on the improvement of the Virginia Beach Sun I have noted lately. I have been a subscriber for many years, and this is the first time I have ever written to any newspaper. Of particular interest to me has been the change in the editorial page. I do not always agree with everything you say, but I do enjoy reading the editorials. I would suggest that the use of an editorial cartoon on that page would add even more.

You are using many more pictures than before, and this is to my liking. We, who have lived in Virginia Beach for many years, like to see our "own" in pictures. It also seems to me that there is more news in the paper than there used to be. My family and I enjoy reading all about our friends and even about the folks we don't know. Thank you for continuing to give us a good hometown newspaper. I assure you I am a faithful cover to cover reader.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Calvin Mitchell
Virginia Beach

*Ed. Note. An editorial cartoon will become a weekly feature beginning next week.

Incidentally, we thank you for your complimentary words in the above letter. It is not often that anyone takes time out to say nice things. On the other hand, criticism is much easier for us to get. However, in defense, if that criticism is of the constructive kind, we are always ready to accept it and to abide by it. But thanks again for the kind words. We'll try to live up to them.

to patrol the Hampton Roads and Norfolk Harbor areas and offshore from beaches along the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay. These patrols are in addition to boat patrols conducted by the United States Coast Guard.

Sincerely yours,
F. B. PROCTOR
Lt Col. Corps of Engineers
Supervisor of the Harbor of Hampton Roads

With the summer season near at hand, our beaches in Virginia will soon be heavily populated by local citizens and tourists. I, therefore, wish to enlist your support in asking the public to take every precaution to prevent loss of oil during fueling operations and to utilize local facilities available for the disposal of oil and refuse. Masters of vessels who have no alternative but to deposit oil and refuse at sea should be urged to do so at a distance as far beyond the fifty-mile limit as practicable. Pollution studies indicate that, under certain wind and tide conditions, oil and refuse discharged overboard far out at sea are frequently washed ashore resulting in deplorable conditions at the various beaches.

As Supervisor of the Harbor of Hampton Roads, I am continuing day and night patrols by boat and car with a view to enforcing applicable Federal Laws which prohibit the pollution of our coastal and river waters. Commercial planes are also used at frequent intervals during the critical resort season

UTILITY SQUADRON FOUR

(Fourth in a series on Communism to be published each week)

All of those freedoms for which the Russian people had so dearly sacrificed were, at last, a reality — but there was still hunger and grinding poverty. The brave slogans shouted, with fervor before the revolution were now only timorous echoes in the cavernous hunger of the people.

IT WAS NOT yet six months since Tsar Nicholas II had abdicated, ending an era of cruel oppression, in favor of a democratic provisional government; and already powerful undercurrents of revolt were sweeping the land. A dreary, poverty stricken, miserable population strove vainly to make the transition from virtual slavery to freedom. But glub, persuasive men moved among them speaking of more food, of better jobs and true freedoms. The communist message of "peace and freedom" was couched in soothing terms which had a positive ring. Communism was dressed up as something like democratic liberalism or patriotic nationalism and words like peace, freedom and democracy were used liberally. In the end Russia, tortured, wasted and betrayed, succumbed, in piteous despair, to the "dictatorship of the proletariat."

Early in November, 1917, the Bolsheviks, led by Nikolai Lenin, overthrew the tottering provisional government and formed the Union of Soviets Socialist Republics. This, so called "revolt of the proletariat" was not something that had developed over night. For Lenin and his fellow Bolsheviks had been perfecting their plans for more than ten years.

LENIN, a man of towering intellect and great organizational abilities, had been a revolutionist all of his adult life. At seventeen he saw his brother hang for an abortive attempt on the life of the Tsar. This traumatic experience was to have a profound effect on young Lenin and, indeed, on the world!

He was to write later that as he stood, watching his brother's macabre death dance, he became convinced that only mass uprisings would ever quench the tyranny of autocracy. He saw the organization of the proletariat as a class, the only means of achieving this end.

After studying law, Lenin turned his back on everything and devoted himself totally to the preparation and implementation of the revolution. Although this devotion made him a marked man, doomed to prison and exile — he did not stop. He was a man of few morals and even fewer scruples but his dedication to the Communist cause was boundless. Any means was acceptable if the desired end could be achieved. "We... should not be measured by the narrow tenets of bourgeois morality," he proclaimed; "sometimes a scoundrel is useful to our party precisely because he is a scoundrel."

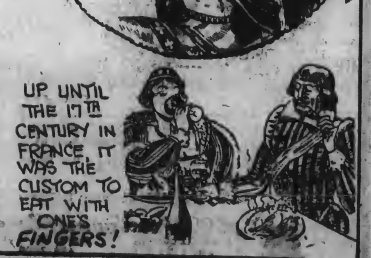

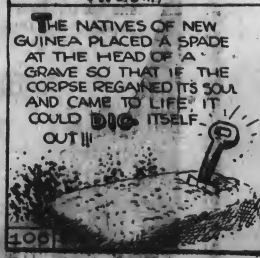

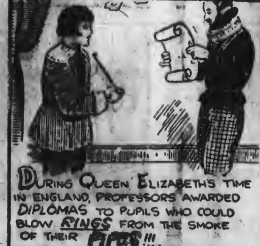

WITH A CONSTANCY to purpose, almost religious in nature, Lenin fearlessly carried out the Bolshevik program of "peace and freedom." Disregarding the international consequences, he fulfilled his promise of peace. Almost immediately he began negotiations with the Germans, much to the chagrin of the allies, and within a month concluded an armistice.

The same determination carried over in his promise to bring "true freedom" to the people. He seized all private and church property; and banks and bank accounts were to become the property of the state. The means of industrial production were handed over to the workers and the employment of one person by another was forbidden.

Every citizen was ordered to go to work for the new government and work quotas were established. For the moment Lenin concentrated on one task and one task alone — the growth and total success of Communism in Russia. He pledged an "open mass systematic terror against the bourgeois and its agents." The bourgeois being the opponents of Lenin and his "ideals."

The brief warming sunlight of freedom into which the Russian people had fled was setting. The "night of barbarism" of which Churchill had spoken was once again descending over the Russian people.

RED CROSS TRAINS YOUTH

VIRGINIA BEACH — Fifty young people spent last weekend camping in Camp Owalassa, the Red Cross Youth Leadership Training Center in Tidewater area.

To learn about the Red Cross and its services and to provide an opportunity for individual growth and development, thirty girls and twenty boys representing different Red Cross chapters got together under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. G. Middleton, Jr. High school representatives were Miss Pat Shumate and Miss Kykie Giannoutsos. Mrs. Liz O'Connor, R.N., Mrs. Myerl Parnell, R.N., and Mrs. Margaret Ware, R.N. were the nurses. The hospitality chairman was Mrs. Ada Mangano. For resources were Richard Dillingbeck, assistant field director American Red Cross, Ford Eustis, and Mrs. Hester R. Moore, director Red Cross Youth, Norfolk Chapter. Program consultant for the area was Mrs. Lois M. Nelson.

From Friday afternoon with the registration of these fifty volunteer members till packing to go home on Sunday noon, they had two days to learn new things about the Red Cross and its humane services. Between recreation and time for fun, they discussed topics about leadership skills, Red Cross international programs and the blood program. A water safety program on the beach was included on the Saturday schedule.

Going home on Sunday afternoon, they took with them not only a new knowledge about the vast field that is the Red Cross, but also new ideas that will serve for individual growth and development.

PRANK NOT FUNNY

VIRGINIA BEACH — What may have started out as a teenager's childish prank has developed into serious trouble for the father of one of the youngsters involved.

Donald Joseph Raher, 44, of the Mayflower Apartments was taken into custody about 9 p.m. Thursday by Police Sgt. Bill Simmons for having in his possession a number of city street signs.

Raher reportedly told police the signs had been taken by a friend of his teen-age daughter. Raher, an electronics mechanic at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, was charged with possession of stolen property.

Job Corps Speaker At League Of Women Voters

NORFOLK — Election of officers and an outstanding speaker for the Job Corps highlighted the annual meeting of the Norfolk - Virginia Beach League of Women Voters held last week at the Hotel Monticello.

Officers elected for two-year terms were Mrs. Robert Nussbaum, president; Mrs. Daniel P. MacLean of Virginia Beach, first vice-president; Mrs. Thomas W. Deason of Virginia Beach, secretary; Mrs. Dietrich Heyder, second vice president, reelected; and Mrs. H. W. Rogers, treasurer, also reelected.

Selected to serve as directors are Mrs. Eugene D. Kidd, Mrs. V. B. Tate of Virginia Beach, Mrs. James Curtis, Mrs. John M. Cockran of Virginia Beach, and Mrs. E. W. Abdill of Virginia Beach. Reelected directors are Mrs. H. W. Dusenberry, Mrs. A. A. Ohmsen, and Mrs. Bernard Westler.

Mrs. Alice Irby of Washington, D.C., assistant to Otis S. Sigletary, director of the Job Corps of the Economic Opportunity office, was the guest speaker, and she was introduced to the members and their guests by Mrs. Ephraim Spivek, outgoing president.

Mrs. Irby discussed the Job Corps, explaining the ten programs supported by the Economic Act and remarked that about twenty per cent of America's population lives in poverty. "Persons in poverty do not see themselves blessed by automation," she said. "Rather they are threatened by it, with a gap which seems ever-widening between them. Our pilot profile indicates three of every four enrollees in the Corps have been out of school for more than six months, they come from a family of at least six persons, and in one out of twenty cases, the enrollee is actually the primary wage-earner in the family. Poverty today is not just in pockets nor on the fringes of society—it pervades it. The Job Corps is the last source of dignity for the untrained."

The Women in Community Service (WICS) organized recently in Norfolk to screen young women for the Women's Job Corps, has opened an office at 904 Granby street in the Virginia State Employment Commission office. It is an interracial, inter-racial group.

Coach Switches Grid Formation

KEMPVILLE — Tony Katsias, Kempville Junior High School's football coach, would rather switch than fight—that is, fight what he calls the trends in high school football.

As a result, Kempville will switch from a wing-T to a pro-type in an attempt to gain a few more victories in 1965. Katsias said he has made the switch for two reasons.

"It is the trend because so many good teams last year used the pro-type and proved its value. We also have to try and find what's best for our personnel. This seems to be the pro-type formation," Katsias explained.

The coach has also announced the school's 1965 football schedule which includes:

- Sept. 18 Norfolk Academy JV 11 a.m. home
 - Sept. 23 Virginia Beach JV 4 p.m. home
 - Sept. 30 Kellam JV 7:30 p.m. home
 - Oct. 7 Norfolk Catholic 7:30 p.m. away
 - Oct. 16 Maury "B" 10 a.m. away
 - Oct. 21 Indian River Jr. Hi. 7:30 p.m. home
 - Oct. 25 Maury "B" 4:30 p.m. home
- Katsias pointed out, however, that this schedule is tentative at this time.

TENNIS LIGHTS GO ON

VIRGINIA BEACH — "Any one for Tennis?" Such a question is not out of place in Virginia Beach City. The number of public courts are increasing every year. Presently open courts are available at Princess Anne HS (5), Kellam HS (5), and Virginia Beach HS (3). These courts service the Varsity Tennis teams during the afternoon in the spring but the lights are turned on for public use until 10:30 p.m.

Additional courts are under construction at Bayside HS (5), Union Kempville HS (4), and Cox HS (6) and these courts should be usable by early summer.

With another 5 weeks still left for the Adult night play-offs, it is a fond hope that those citizens who haven't done so, will take the opportunity to enjoy a little "work out" and use the facilities provided at Bayside, Cox HS, VBHS and Union Kempville HS. Reasons from the individual Play-off Directors indicate that more and more husbands and wives are coming together and having a good time.

Monday and Tuesday nights at 7:30-9:30.

BASKIN IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

Just got back from Florida, where the air is soft and sunny, but the smell of orange blossoms is no longer normally associated with that fantasyland. The scent that you get as you stroll down Collins Avenue is M O N E Y, and it comes on strong. This is probably the only place left in the country where almost all the people there at any one given moment are spending money like it is going out of style. And — so what. Maybe it is.

Only stayed for a very few days, but I stayed long enough. By that I mean I stayed until my money ran out. With a sufficient bankroll, I might never have come back. I didn't even flinch when I had to pay a buck for a pack of cigarettes, making the price a nickel each. I'm really not surprised. When the Surgeon General can't make me stop by promising me lung cancer, why should I allow myself to be priced out of the market.

Don't get me entirely wrong. The sunshine state has a lot to offer. The golf courses are as lush that you wouldn't believe it. The greens really are like carpets and the fairways are even greener. I think they are painted every morning. The main thing is that the place is clean, and I mean really clean. No beer cans on the side of the streets and behind the shrubs, no trash or litter about. Just wide clean streets, flower beds and green, green grass. Makes you wonder why we don't do it up here. I think that if we started enforcing the laws against littering we'd look a lot better to the passer-by.

I can tell you a lot of things wrong with the place. But you can say that about any city. I'll just mention one. I went there expecting to believe that Florida contained the most beautiful women in the world. That's what they've been saying for years in their propaganda. Well, they're dead wrong, and I should know because I looked at them all. The loveliest woman in the whole state was on a visit there from Virginia, and you'd better believe me when I tell you that she made those Florida females look like ten miles of bad detour on wet night. It was a real pleasure to watch the Florida dames run for cover when she walked by.

Easy to see where my heart is. I've always been known as a man who is mad about women, and I had the distinct pleasure of seeing one of our products back the bikinis of the beach. It just naturally figures that I'm living in the right state.

Mother's Day Not A Recent Custom

While thousands of Americans will be sending flowers by wire to honor Mom on her day, few may realize how far back into history the roots of Mother's Day extend.

The Greeks and Romans chose the Ides (15th) of March to honor a universal mother—Mother Earth. Instead of a corsage or a boutonniere, every member of the family wore a garland of leaves as they danced in the streets.

Many ancient nations worshipped mother-goddesses; in fact, some scholars think this was man's earliest form of religion.

But the ancient Germans went a step further. They thought there was something divine—literally—about all women, and mothers were sometimes regarded as living goddesses!

Mom has been treated like a queen, if not quite like a goddess, on many occasions since. By old English custom, mid-Lent Sunday was "Mothering Sunday" when people went back to the "mother church" of their baptism and also visited their mothers with flowers and other gifts. Small rich pastries called "mothering cakes" were popular presents for mama.

But it wasn't till May 10, 1908, that mothers were formally honored anywhere in the United States. On that day, a Miss Anna Jarvis sponsored a church service in Grafton, West Virginia to honor her late mother and other mothers of the community. After an intensive letter-writing campaign, she saw Mother's Day recognized in every state in the union by 1911, and in 1914 President Wilson proclaimed it a national holiday.

Flowers have been connected with Mother's Day from the very beginning: because Miss Jarvis' mother had loved carnations, they became the official Mother's Day flower. But many people prefer their mother's favorite flower, whatever it may be. If they can't bring the flowers to mama in person, they send them by wire through their neighborhood flower shop. A new convenience for Mother's Day celebrants is a Flowers-by-Wire Selection Guide, available from florists who are members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. The pocket catalogue gives pictures of popular flower arrangements with their order numbers.

Though floral tributes are probably the most popular Mother's Day gifts, modern mothers receive everything from dahlias to dishwashers. On May 9, American mothers will collect an estimated one-and-a-quarter billion dollars worth of gifts!

Even ancient German mammas, "goddesses" though they may have been, never had it so good. But then, American mothers have earned every penny of this annual tribute. There are 63,616,058 individual mothers in this country—and they are raising, or have raised, 131,810,351 children!

These mothers include women of all ages: young marrieds pushing spoonfuls of pabulum, PTA mothers worried about the new mathematics, working women beating the rush hour home, and grandmothers who, going full circle, are back pushing pabulum to their grandchildren.

Most mammas of pre-school children find motherhood a full-time job. Those who work outside the home number only 11,182,455—as compared with 29,930,338 working marrieds who have either older children, or no children at all.

But whether or not she contributes to the family income, Mama is sure to be honored May 9 in almost every American household for the good job she has done. Whatever presents she gets, she is apt to feel like a famous mother of Roman legend, Cornelia.

One day a boastful lady called on her and displayed a flashy array of jewels—then asked to see Cornelia's jewels. Cornelia promptly sent for her two young sons and told the visitor, "These are my jewels—in which alone I delight."

VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

By DORIS PADRICK

Most mothers enjoy being mothers. And on Sunday, you will take your well-deserved bows and celebrate Mother's Day. Have you forgotten that motherhood is almost invariably followed by becoming a mother-in-law?

Most mothers-in-law are the butt end of rude jokes and cannot expect any plaudits. It is with this thought and with pleasure, that this column spotlights the forgotten mother with a tribute from one of our readers.

"To My Mother-in-Law — In Appreciation"

Mothers-in-law are reputedly awful. So snooty and bossy they should be unlawful. They're always quite ready to tell you what's wrong. Yet when something goes right, they are never along.

They're excellent cooks, and are anxious to test. If your eggs are too hard, or your coffee lacks zest. They will tell you that they know what Johnny likes most. That the jam is the wrong kind you've put on his toast.

She will note that the closet has dust on the floor. And that there are fingerprints inside the door. That the starch you've been using is decidedly weak. And your general housekeeping outlook is bleak.

In short, she has chosen as full time employment. To keep at a minimum all your enjoyment. And for this worthy talent, she's made quite a name. For I'm sure there are none unaware of her fame.

But mothers-in-law aren't all of a kind. And if you're quite lucky you might even find. A husband whose mother knows what not to say. And what not to do that could ruin your day.

She knows that your cooking is not what it could be. But doesn't start talking about what it should be. She sees that you're littered with papers and books. And says, "How attractive your house always looks."

No matter how battered you've been by the day. She'll always have something uplifting to say. "Your hair looks so lovely," or "You've lost weight!" (You'll be so delighted, you'll fall for the bait!)

Whenever you need her, whatever the reason. She'll come to the rescue, no matter the season. Equipped with her knowledge, her tact and her smile. You can bet that your problems will leave for a while.

It's really no wonder she's thought of as "mother." For somehow, she's different from all of the other. Such mothers-in-law who're so bossy and smart. I'd choose to ungain, you're so dear to my heart.

MARRIAGE PARTNERS ARE ACTING PARTNERS

by Doris Padrick

VIRGINIA BEACH — A marriage which includes the magic ingredient of mutual interest often grows to include community endeavors. . . Major (USMC) Don Wilson and his wife, Diane, have such a marriage.

Being a service family, they travel a great deal together, and wherever they land, they find an acting group within which they may mingle and contribute their talents.

In the Virginia Beach Little Theatre production "The Irregular Verb to Love" Don and Diane each have interesting parts. Don will play "Andrikos," the Greek waiter, and Diane is "Mrs. Cooter," a middle-aged housekeeper. (not type-casting!)

They have two sons, Mike who is 12 and Eric, 9. Now that the children are no longer babies, not require a sister, both parents may indulge in the fine art of acting together. Sometimes, in past productions, one or the other stayed on the sidelines to cheer the star while looking after the boys. But the few times they both obtained roles in the same play, Mrs. Wilson would take a job to pay for a sitter, releasing her to be with Don in the plays.

They have had the pleasure of creating roles in New Castle, Pennsylvania, and Jacksonville, North Carolina. Diane was in "Tender Trap" and "The Male Animal" in Jacksonville, while Don was in "See How They Run" and "My Three Angels." Both played villains in the classic melodrama, "Only an Orphan Girl," and both were in "Toward Zero."

The boys, while enjoying their parents' acting abilities, are more interested in sports, in particular, swimming. They are on the Neptune Swimming Teams at Little Creek. Don and Diane too indulge in the joys of swimming and are happy to be in an area where water sports are prevalent. Both learned to swim early in life and are experts on swimming and water safety.

Opening night for the final production of this season's Little Theatre group will be tonight. "The Irregular Verb to Love," directed by Bill Brinson, will run through May 8, and the following week on May 14 and 15. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. at the Courtyard Playhouse, 17th street off Atlantic Ave. As well as Don and Diane Wilson, the cast includes Angela Walker, Phil Uhler, Lee Cohen, Diana Harvey, Barry Meyerowitz, Susan Epstein, and Joanne DeCarlo.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach Aerie No. 3204, Fraternal Order of Eagles, assisted by Explorer Post No. 479, Boy Scouts of America will hold a flag sale in Virginia Beach May 3 through May 9.

The American flag will be made available to the public during this campaign at a special discount price in hopes that more people will display it on national holidays. The theme buy a flag, fly a flag will be publicized the entire week of May 3—through the efforts of the Virginia Beach Eagles and the Explorer Scouts—in several Virginia Beach Shopping centers and during a house to house canvas. Phone orders will be received at the Eagle Lodge by calling 464-9962 during the hours seven to twelve evenings during the week and all day Saturday and Sunday.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to help the Scouts finance a trip to the New York World's Fair and to various Eagle charity projects including a contribution to the new Virginia Beach Hospital and the Max Baer Heart fund—a national Eagle project that contributed more than $142,000.00 last year to medical schools, clinics, and research centers.

All the contributions to the fund, raised by local Eagle Aeries and Auxiliary sponsored programs are used entirely for coronary research. None are used for salaries, publicity or other promotional expenses.

The meeting will be open to other business and will be followed by the usual social period. All residents and property owners of Birdneck Point are invited. Chicks Hatch At Friends School

The wonder of seeing baby chicks hatching right before their eyes is creating excitement among the first and second grade students at Friends School as well as their teachers, Jane Arnold and Zada Singer. After fourteen days incubation the chicks began to appear. Nina had arrived when the photo was taken and more were expected. RESORT WAS SILVER LINING TO TOURIST

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Beman of Ottumwa, Iowa hadn't planned an extended stay in Virginia Beach. They only intended to spend the night here on their way to Florida. But an automobile accident can change the best made plans. It did for the Bemens. And they saw a side of Virginia Beach—the human side—that few tourists ever see. Now they have nothing but praise for the city and its people.

Not that they weren't already impressed with the resort. They admired its beaches, its cleanliness, its lovely oceanfront motels, especially the Thunderbird Motor Lodge, where they spent the night. But it wasn't until they had the accident a few blocks from the motel that they saw the city as it really is, a community of friendly, courteous people who are not too busy to offer a helping hand.

"I am a merchant in my home town," Beman said, "and I like for people to think of our city as a friendly and courteous place. But I could never ask for nicer, more courteous people than those I have met in Virginia Beach."

The Bemens have a special word of praise for Officer Joe Perez, who handled the accident they were involved in, gratefully acknowledging his assistance in ways that were "above and beyond the call of duty."

Officer Perez gave us many dollars worth of service as a personal favor," Beman said. "He cared for my wife, who was terribly upset over the accident, while I received emergency treatment and x-rays for a dislocated shoulder at Virginia Beach Hospital, he helped us get our luggage back to the Thunderbird, he saw that the car was off the streets and in a garage, he did so many things to help us. We will always be grateful for his assistance."

They also found a helping hand at the motel where the manager, Hoyt Capps, transported Beman back and forth to a doctor, gave him assistance in straightening out the many technicalities involving the accident and helped him make arrangements for a flight to Florida.

Beman has long been an active member of the Ottumwa Chamber of Commerce, which is probably one of the reasons he was so impressed with his treatment in Virginia Beach. He realizes the importance of courtesy to visitors in a city. So often a kind word, a friendly smile will be the lasting impression. It is something money can't buy, yet is worth far more than these assets developed with money. A few years ago Beman instigated a chamber-sponsored project in Ottumwa to promote more courtesy to out-of-state visitors. Cars bearing out-of-state tags were given a card-entailing them to 30 additional minutes on expiring parking meters. This goodwill gesture proved to be most successful. Beman said, and suggested a similar project for Virginia Beach.

The Bemens have now continued their trip to Florida but have promised to return here. And next time their extended stay will be planned, not imposed. "Some dark clouds have a silver lining," he said. "We are glad the delay, if it had to be, was in Virginia Beach, with nice people and lovely accommodations on the ocean, rather than in some of the inland cities we stopped in on the way down."

CONTACT CLUB

VIRGINIA BEACH — The regular monthly meeting of the Contact Club of the Chamber of Commerce met recently at the White Heron Motel with 14 members present.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Peggy Newman/Mrs. Jo Myers was hostess.

New member of the Chamber for the month was Colonel Group Insurance. The speaker for the meeting was Mrs. Patricia Bragg, who talked about her trip to Cleveland, Ohio, where she represented Virginia Beach and the Virginia Travel Council at the Home and Flower Show. Her booth was the only travel service represented.

Miss Bragg said there was no resort area in Ohio, and the people were most interested in Virginia Beach. All of the brochures were taken at the show.

The film, "Yours For The Choosing," was shown to many travel agents and editors, and was very well received.

CARNIVAL SATURDAY

ARAGONA — The Aragona Elementary P.T.A. will have a Carnival at school Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

There will be rides, bake sale, fishing ponds, dart games, food, and several more interesting games for the entire family.

A mother's thoughts

Always think of your children... reflect on the future of the world. How can we face the future with confidence when knowing that it is the very best of destruction?

There is only one way to be courageous and confident, and that is to be the man and woman of God.

This little girl, my own daughter, does not know what death is. She is not afraid of tomorrow... not yet! Tomorrow she will learn the ways of the Lord and how to live a truly Christian life. Through prayer may I lead her into His hands, to matter what the future holds in store for us!

Jaycee Clubs Sweep Region 1

VIRGINIA BEACH — The annual spring meeting of Region 1 of the Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce was held recently at the Cape Colony Club with the Virginia Beach Jaycees as hosts. A record 115 representatives from the thirteen chapters in the region were in attendance. Milton Clemmons of the Princess Anne Jaycees was elected to the office of State Vice-President to represent the region on the State Executive Committee for the year 1965-66. Andre Evans, President of the Virginia Beach Chapter, was selected the Outstanding Local President in the region and Virginia Beach was selected the Outstanding Local Chapter. The chapter was cited for its many worthwhile projects within the community during the past year.

Virginia Beach Jaycees received two other awards. Bill Gaspar was selected regional Speak-Up winner and Paul Vance the regional SPOKE winner. These men will represent the region at the Jaycee State Convention to be held at the Golden Triangle in Norfolk on May 21, 22 and 23rd.

Several candidates for other state offices were in attendance.

and spoke to the group. It was stated that several Jaycees from area chapters will be in attendance at the Jaycee National Convention in Buffalo, N.Y., during the week of June 20.

HUMAN RELATIONS COUNCIL MEETS

VIRGINIA BEACH — What the War on Poverty means to Virginia Beach was the topic at the recent meeting of the Virginia Beach Council on Human Relations. Present to hear Keith Williams, Associate Director of the Health, Welfare and Recreation Planning Council, were four of the six Virginia Beach representatives on STQP, (the Southeastern Tidewater opportunity Project).

Williams described the proposal which the Planning Council sent to Washington in order to qualify the Norfolk area for Federal funds. Copied from the East Ghent Plan (Norfolk), the regional proposal likewise centers on local schools as focal points for activities as neighborhood centers. In addition to a staff of professional people who will administer the program are a number of neighborhood coordinators or counselors, trained in an eight weeks course. The Virginia Beach delegates to STOP are C. I. Siler, J. J. Owens, V. A. Etheridge, J. W. Hairston, R. J. Webber, and R. F. Welton.

To illustrate how funds might be procured for Community Action programs, Williams spelled out procedures for setting up a day care nursery. Both the VBCHR and the United Council of Church Women have shown an interest in this project in collaboration with the Seateck Community Center.

Webber described the proposed Headstart Program to be administered to 200 preschool youngsters this summer in Virginia Beach. Initially the number of students will be around 200 for half-day sessions with both breakfast and lunch provided. The Seateck, Bettie Williams and Seaboard Schools have been chosen for Headstart.

The initiates, including graduate students, faculty, research staff and alumni, attended a banquet in their honor at Newcomb Hall.

Qualifications for election to membership in Sigma Xi must include worthy scholarship and the promise of achievement in research.

RICHMOND — Charles W. Helm, a schoolteacher in Virginia Beach, is one of the 48 young men and women who have been invited to enter training June 19 as the first missionary journeymen of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. The Missionary Journeyman Program is the Foreign Mission Board's new category of special overseas service for single college graduates who do not feel called to a missionary career but who have dedicated their talents and vocations to Christ and are willing to serve overseas for two years.

Mr. Helm, after an eight-week training in Richmond, expects to teach in a Baptist church in Trujillo, Peru for two years.

MISSION AT TRANTWOOD

VIRGINIA BEACH — Spurgeon Memorial Baptist Church, 5520 Tidewater Drive, began Mission Work on May 2 in the Trantwood Elementary School.

Morning worship is held at 9:30 a.m. with Rev. D. S. Moyers bringing the message, and at 10:45 a.m. following the morning worship, the Sunday School will be in session. Other services to be added as the work progresses are Training Union, Evening Worship and Wednesday night prayer service, and other organizations to cover the full program of Church Work.

Provision will be made for all age groups, nursery through adult, and each department will have qualified workers.

SOUTHERN PINE BEETLE CAUSING LOSSES OF PINES IN VIRGINIA BEACH

Attacks of the southern pine beetle on pines in Virginia Beach have reached epidemic proportions in some areas. This insect is considered the most destructive forest pest in the south. It attacks pines of all sizes. The adult beetle is yellow, stout, and about one-eighth of an inch long. The young adult is soft and yellow in color, but soon hardens and changes to the dull, dark brown color of older adults.

Beetles of overwintering broods emerge and attack trees in the spring—about the time dogwood is in full bloom—although they may be active during prolonged arm periods in the winter. They usually attack the mid-trunk of a tree first, and work both upward and downward.

The beetles are generally attracted to weakened trees. They bore through outer bark and construct "S" shaped, cross-cross tunnels throughout the inner bark. This boring girdles the trees, causing death, and introduces a blue stain fungus which may hasten death of the tree.

The earliest signs of infestation are numerous white, yellow, or sometimes red-brown pitch tubes (about as large as a wad of gum) scattered over the outer bark of the tree. Trees show yellowish-green foliage in 10-14 days following an attack.

Beetles that enter the tree deposit eggs in the inner bark, where they change to pupae and finally transform to adult beetles. In warm weather the life cycle is completed in 30 to 40 days and there may be as many as five to six generations in a year in the deep south.

New broods often leave the trees when the foliage is only slightly faded or yellow. When the crown of a tree turns red, the beetles have usually left, except during winter months.

Since logging is quite impractical on home sites, infested trees should be sprayed with benzene hexachloride, (commonly called BHC). To prepare the spray, mix one gallon of BHC concentrate containing one pound of gamma isomer per gallon with 50 gallons of No. 2 diesel oil. A coarse spray of this insecticide should be applied until the bark is wet and dripping.

One of the most important measures for successful control is to make a check of the treated area. Infested areas should be checked during the summer months for additional infested trees that might have been left.

It's important that individual landowners check the condition of their pine stands for possible beetle attacks. Infested trees can be spotted during winter by the color of the needles. Groups of red and yellowish topped pines are the best indicators of beetle attack.

Prompt removal of infested trees helps reduce future population of beetles, and lessens the probability of further attacks of epidemic proportions.

Orange-Date Muffins

It's so easy to make! Watch eyes light up when you pass a basket of piping-hot Orange-Date Muffins for breakfast. These fluffy little quick breads will bring out the cool deliciousness of a luncheon, too.

Muffin mix is a breeze with enriched self-rising flour. This dependable baking product already has baking powder and salt added for preparation ease and perfect baking results.

Serve muffins and other home-baked breads often. Your family will love you for it — and you'll be glad you're serving them treats that help round out their meals nutritionally. Everytime you bake with enriched self-rising flour you add three essential B-vitamins and the minerals iron and calcium to your family's diet.

ORANGE-DATE MUFFINS 12 muffins

- 2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped dates
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons melted shortening or oil

Grease medium-sized muffin pan. Preheat oven to 435°. Into medium-sized mixing bowl combine flour and sugar. Stir in dates and orange rind. Mix together egg, milk and shortening or oil. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown.

I'm sure your family will enjoy an "orange-date muffin" treat. I'm suggesting to the teenage members of the family to try the recipe and give Mother a treat for Mother's Day.

Why not plan "Sunday Brunch" for her. I'm sure she'll really enjoy such a thoughtful Mother's Day treat.

Here's a suggested menu and an easy one to prepare.

MOTHER'S DAY BRUNCH

- Tomato-Bouillon Cocktail
- Scrambled Eggs and Vienna Sausage
- Orange-Date Muffins
- Coffee — Hot Chocolate
- Peaches 'n' Pie
- Tomato — Bouillon Cocktail

Combine a No. 2 can tomato juice and a 10% oil can of beef bouillon. 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a dash of white pepper. Be sure you have put the tomato juice and bouillon in the refrigerator the night before so they will be thoroughly chilled.

- Scrambled Eggs and Vienna Sausage

Allow 2 eggs for each person. Beat eggs slightly with water or milk — whichever you prefer.

Here is a recipe for 6 persons.

- 6 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk or water
- (I prefer water)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper

Beat eggs slightly with milk and seasonings.

Melt shortening in skillet — when melted, add eggs and cook slowly, scraping from bottom and sides often. Do not overcook. Serve on warm platter and place Vienna sausages that have been sautéed in butter around eggs. Serve immediately.

For dessert — I suggested Peachess 'n' Pie — because it was made by a teenager in The Pillsbury Bake-off and won the $25,000 award — so if she can bake it so can you.

- PEACHES 'N' PIE

- 1/2 cup shortening

SALESMEN HONORED

WASHINGTON, D.C. — R. Lamar of Guy Stuart Motors and George H. Reiss of Lincoln-Mercury were named winners of a national contest for outstanding salesmen at a banquet in Washington Hilton Hotel on May 1. The contest was held by the National Automobile Dealers Association.

CDR. D. T. WILLIAMS, Commanding Officer of Utility Squadron FOUR, presents a squadron plaque to Mrs. Joan Marie RICHARDSON as her class of 8 and 9 year olds from the Friends School exhibit the proper way to salute the American Flag. The young gentleman in pilot's flight gear is Matthew HALE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle T. HALE. In the background is an F8C 1000 MPH Crusader Jet Fighter. (U.S. Navy Photo)

Friends Kindergarten Group Tour Base

OCEANA — Kindergarten II, a class of some twenty or so five and six-year olds from the Friends School at Virginia Beach were treated to Naval Aviator Survival displays, supersonic jet airplanes and ice cream and cookies on a visit last week to NAS Oceana's Utility Squadron

FOUR. They were greeted with the launching of a large hydrogen filled weather balloon and a display of pilots' distress and emergency equipment. With sirens wailing and lights flashing, the dream of most six year olds arrived on the scene, a large, red fire engine. All of the children were treated to a seat on the fire truck and given an opportunity to "sound the alarm" on the truck's siren.

After sitting in a pilot's rubber life raft and getting to put on Flight Suits, "Hard" Hats and Oxygen Masks, the children toured the two types of aircraft flown by the squadron—the F8C 1000 MPH "Crusader" and the US2C Anti-Submarine "Tracker".

Color photographs of the two squadron aircraft and a plaque bearing the squadron emblem were presented to the class teachers, Mrs. Joan Marie Richardson and Mrs. Reva Kelberg, by Cdr. D. T. Williams, Commanding Officer of VU-4.

The tour ended with a movie on carrier aviation, "Cokes", Cookies, Ice Cream, and a trip to the tower to see jets taking off and landing.

MISS BAMFORTH SELECTED

FREDERICKSBURG — Grace Marie Bamforth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Allan Bamforth of 5172 Overland Road is among the eighteen Mary Washington College juniors that have been selected for membership in the Mary Washington College Chapter of Mortar Board, national senior honor society.

The new initiates were tapped by senior members of Mortar Board during an annual ceremony recently held. Membership in Mortar Board is based not only on outstanding leadership and scholarship, but also in service to the college.

POLICE SEEK MAN, 30

OCEANA — Police here are looking for John Robert Ward, 30, and have a warrant for his arrest in connection with the loss of a large sum of money from the Food Town store at Oceana where Ward was the assistant manager.

About $1,558 was taken from the store's safe recently, police said, but there were no signs of forced entry. Ward reportedly has been missing since the loss was discovered. Detective A. E. Smith is investigating.

This is the third incident of loss of money from the store in recent months but police said there is no connection between the incidents.

McDANIELS IS WINNER

VIRGINIA BEACH — J. M. McDaniels, Virginia Beach representative of The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company and a member of Roy F. Mitte & Associates, has been named a winner in the company's recent three month Strike-O-Rama sales contest, according to an announcement by Henry W. Persons, senior vice president and director of agencies.

McDaniels received special recognition as a result of selling at least one policy over a specified amount, each week during the contest.

Most of us enjoy taking care of babies and children. Baby sitting is a wonderful experience, but if it is the first time you have cared for children and infants it can be a little frightening too. You, however, will feel more at ease when baby-sitting once you have learned how to understand children and how to care for them.

Parents employ baby-sitters since they want to insure their child's safety during their absence from home. In order for parents to enjoy their outing, they must feel confident in the baby-sitter's ability to protect the child's welfare in all situations. Consequently, baby-sitting is a job to be taken seriously.

One of the first things to remember when baby-sitting is that children need genuine love and affection. The love and care that most people automatically give a baby, helps make the infant secure and happy. Children also need this affection, although as they grow older signs of affection should be replaced with more adult expressions of approval. Growing up, along with a desire to do things for oneself, is often the cause for misbehavior in children. The baby-sitter should recognize this and when children misbehave you should remain calm and objective.

The good baby-sitter should also be safety conscious. Accidents can happen, and the best way to prevent them is to give the children your full attention. Don't ever let anything distract you from your job.

The good baby sitter should also recognize that differences exist between households. You should therefore be adaptable and learn to do your job in all family situations.

The main thing that parents expect from their baby sitter is job proficiency. If you have younger brothers and sisters you have the opportunity to learn child care at home. However, there are other places to learn child care, such as through home economics classes and classes offered by some youth organizations.

Once you have learned how to be a good baby sitter, success will be evident. A good baby-sitter is always in demand.

Day At School Remembered

KINGS GRANT — A preview of life at school is given to prospective first graders at King's Grant Elementary school each year, to help make the transition from home to school. Pre-school registration was held with 117 new students registering. It is expected that more will be counted by September when a new school year begins.

The children learned about the school and class from routines while the mothers were being briefed in the cafeteria on what they may expect from the school and its teachers as well as their own duties as parents of children going to public schools.

Phillip Mackins, elementary school supervisor, and Mrs. Akins, the school nurse, spoke to the parents as did Mrs. Ann M. Lindsey, principal of Kings Grant.

Mrs. Ethel Brewster, the school librarian, met with the children in the library where entertaining film strips were shown, after which the children were divided into groups and taken to the first grade classrooms of Miss Alliegood, Miss Caplan, Mrs. Kaufman, Miss Down, Mrs. Pace, and Mrs. Conley. Classroom procedures were explained by the "old-timers" to the prospective first graders. Some old friends were spotted and grins exchanged.

Upon their return to the library, Miss Alice Leon, music teacher, led them in songs after which ice cream was served.

Not every day will be like Reunion day, but the fun the children had will be remembered all summer and when September rolls around, most of the children who have been to school will be happy and without being afraid of the unknowns...

and the fun of having the children "go to school" on Reunion day, remarked Mrs. Lindsey.

Virginia Beach Spotlighted On TV Sunday

VIRGINIA BEACH — Baltimore's CBS station WMAR-TV and Salisbury's WBOC-TV will devote their entire half hour travel show "Going Places" to Virginia Beach on Sunday, at 4 p.m.

According to Laura Lamb, handling resort publicity and promotion for the city, the program will combine a showing of the new Virginia Beach movie from The Chamber of Commerce and fifteen minutes of interview with special guest from Virginia Beach, Ray Foulkes, local radio and TV personality.

Mrs. Foulkes, during the informal discussion with the program's director, will cover various informational facets of the resort's attractions, particularly its family appeal. Special events such as the Music Festival, The Boardwalk Art Show, Lotus Festival and Children's Week will be described.

For the interest of feminine viewers, Mrs. Foulkes will discuss the type of clothes to bring, and will model a typical "sunshine" and "starlight" outfit.

WMAR in Baltimore and its associate station WBOC in Salisbury have a combined audience of approximately 2,000,000 and cover the strong vacation markets of Baltimore, Washington area. The show was videotaped in WMAR's studio on April 29 for broadcast at 4 a.m. Sunday. The Salisbury station receives the program by relay.

Albin Mailhes, executive vice-president of The Chamber of Commerce stated that the 13 1/2 minute Virginia Beach movie will be shown on the NBC affiliate station in Washington, WRC, in early July.

Local Students To Be In Norfolk Concert

NORFOLK — The Norfolk Youth Orchestra will present its Annual Spring Concert at 8:15 p.m., Friday, May 14, in the Auditorium of Granby Elementary School. Two Virginia Beach students will participate.

Ranging in age from 10 to 19, the young artists will present a program of string music worthy of the finest string orchestra.

Four teenage artists will be featured as soloists. Eighteen-year-old Robert Wayne Moss, cellist, will play the second movement, Andante, from the Concerto for Violoncello by Digen. Virginia Poulos and Kenneth Crawford, violinists, both 18 and soloists for the second year, will play Concerto Grosso Opus 3 No. 8, the Christmas Concerto.

Under the baton of Denis Brown, conductor, the Youth Orchestra will feature the Suite for Children, Opus 18, composed for and dedicated to the Norfolk Youth Orchestra by Norfolkian Ludwig Diehn, internationally-known composer and for many years a strong supporter of symphony music in the Tidewater area. The Suite premiered here in 1962.

Additionally the Youth Orchestra will present Purcell's Suite (From the Dramatic Music) and Fletcher's Folk Tune and Fiddle Dance.

Soloists Virginia Poulos and Kenneth Crawford first found their interest in string music through the programs offered in their public schools. Miss Poulos has been a member of the Norfolk Youth Orchestra for seven years; Mr. Crawford for two years.

Now studying at Old Dominion College, Miss Poulos was an honor student at Maury High School and has participated in many theatrical productions including Old Dominion's "Archie and Mabel" and has played in the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra for three years.

Kenneth Crawford, now a senior at Woodrow Wilson High School, Portsmouth, has been a serious student of music since he was 11. Also playing in the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra for two years, he is equally dedicated to his school work and his music. Kenneth hopes to attend a music conservatory after completing his high school education.

Robert Wayne Moss, also 18, has studied cello for six years in the Portsmouth Public School's String Program and has been principle cellist of the Norfolk Youth Orchestra for the past three seasons. A freshman at Old Dominion College, Mr. Moss has been a member of the Virginia State String Orchestra for the past four years and principle cellist one year. His experience playing cello in string quartets and string orchestras rivals that of many artists twice his age.

Now in his second year with the Youth Orchestra, Christopher Hailey has studied piano for five years and violin for three. Last year he was a member of the All State String Orchestra.

Other members of the Orchestra are: First violins: Naomi Foster, Willard Junior High School, Albert Konikoff, Granby High School, Guy Weddle, Wilson High School and Elizabeth Kovner, Old Dominion College; Second violins: Rico McNeela and Lynne McNaughton, Larchmont Elementary School, Debra Reed and Marilyn Robb, Blair Junior High School, Katherine Outen, Norview High School, Susan Forbes, Princess Anne High School and Joseph Hoffenberger, Suburban Elementary School; Violas: Helen Bradshaw, Wilson High School and Gay Gregora, Kellam High School; Cellos: Diana DeVries, Carleton Oaks Day School and James Crawford, Wilson High School. Kyla Graybeal will play principle bass.

Tickets will be $1 for adults, 50 cents for students 18 and under and will be sold at the door.

LOCAL ART PICKED

Newbern, has just had two paintings selected by the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Two works, a collage and a pen and ink, were painted under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth D'Auria during art classes in Kempville.

The collage had received a blue ribbon from the Tidewater Federation March 10 at the Monticello Hotel and the pen and ink received an honorable mention in this same judging. This entitled both pictures to be sent to Roanoke to the State Convention, where the collage received the only cash award of $100.00 and the pen and ink took a blue ribbon.

These pictures will be sent to the General Federation of Women's Club in Washington, D.C., where they will be judged with others for higher honors. This contest will be sponsored by the Women's Club and by the Outdoor Advertising Association of America from Chicago, Illinois.

"The expectations of life depend upon diligence; the mechanic that would perfect his work must sharpen his tools."
Hello folks! One of the best ways to learn of the benefits of the program is to hear about it from those young people who have been in the program. Today, I am happy to present Johnny Moulton, President of the Courthouse Senior 4-H Club, and a Club member for six years, to tell you of his experiences in the 4-H program.

Well, since I have already been introduced, I would like to tell you about my 4-H work, at present, and a little of my past work. At present, I have a Heifer which I've had since September. I will show my heifer at the Chesapeake and Virginia Beach Pure Bred Heifer Show on May 8th. This show is held every year in May.

I am also enrolled in other 4-H projects. At present, I am taking Entomology, Crops, Wild, Life, Junior Leadership, and an Angus breeding project. There are many other things in 4-H besides these projects. There are many contests and other projects which I have been in and taken.

C. F. Lay
I am preparing now for a contest which is called Livestock Judging. I will, along with three others from Virginia Beach, judge sheep, cattle and hogs. On May 22, we will compete with about fifteen other counties from Southwest Virginia to see who is the best judging team and to see who will represent our District at the State Contest.

The State Contest will be held the last week of June at Blacksburg, Va. Our team from Virginia Beach hopes to win this contest.

During the summer, I will attend 4-H Junior and Senior Camps at Camp Farrar at Virginia Beach. At the Junior Camp, I hope to be a Junior leader and help with the Camp.

Since I have been in 4-H, which has been six years, I have received many projects and have been in many contests. I have won many awards and some money from these projects and contests. When I first started in 4-H, I was in the Public Speaking Contest and have been in it each year since.

I have been to a State contest once and it is a lot of fun. We had a week at VPI, where all State contests are held.

From 4-H, I have learned many things and had much experience in leadership. I hope to make the best better for 4-H.

STUDENT TENSION

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. T. M. Thatcher of "Child and Family Service" recently spoke to the Virginia High School Parents League about "Tensions of the High School Student".

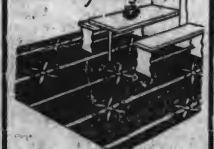

She emphasized the importance of praise rather than criticism of the child, and the importance of a welfare worker or counselor that can be more detached and objective than a parent can be.

On May 11, Mr. Gordon Turner, chief probation officer, will speak and election of officers will be held. This will be the final meeting of the year and all parents are urged to attend.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

'Heavy' Girl Doubts Compliments

FATHER AND MOTHER TEASE ME ABOUT BEING HEAVY...

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I likely that your parents tease you in a good-natured manner and you are not so heavy as you believe. If you are overweight, you can do two things about it. You can let your parents know that it disturbs you to be teased — if this is the case — and you can do something to lose some weight. The second item should also be discussed with your parents. If they believe you should lose some weight they will say so and will see that you lose it properly. Stop and think about it for a moment and you will realize that a boy has no real reason to compliment you 'just to be nice', unless he compliments you one moment and, then a second later asks you to help him with an arithmetic problem or lend him a dime until tomorrow.

Don't be self-conscious about being heavy, or about receiving compliments. Do be realistic. If you have a tendency to be heavy, you may need diet instructions from the family physician to avoid having a serious weight problem later on. Be realistic, too, in the matter of compliments and don't ask yourself why the compliment was offered.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to: ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND YOUTH SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Council Acts On Surfing, Apartment Units

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council has approved four rezoning applications that will pave the way for construction of nearly 3,000 apartment units in various sections of the city.

Council also has enlarged the surfing area at the south end of the beach and placed it under the direction of the Department of Parks and Recreation.

The city will provide an adult supervisor for the surfers during the summer months and officials have indicated that a second supervisor may be added at a later date.

A proposed surfing area within the confines of Fort Story fell through when military officials said that the area would be needed for amphibious training. The new surfing area will start at 1st Street and extend to 4th Street. It will be open to surfing after Memorial Day.

The apartment projects approved by council included a 700-unit development by the Georgetown Development Corp. on 30 acres near the proposed Wesleyan College site, a large complex in Pembroke Manor by Emilio and Armon Olivieri, Frederick Napolitano and Horace Costello, nearly 1000 units by Wickhuck Manor Development Corp. at the intersection of South Lynnhaven and Holland Roads, and about 700 units by George W. Halstead at the intersection of Oceana Boulevard and Dam Neck Road.

The Georgetown Development Corp. received its request for a rezoning of 75 acres but a use permit for construction of the apartments was limited to 30 acres until a more adequate drainage system could be worked out.

Council approved the Pembroke Manor construction but specified that two to three acres must be set aside for a library or fire station site. It is not known if the city will purchase the land or if it will be donated by the developers.

NAS OPEN HOUSE

OCEANA — Open House will be held at Oceana Naval Air Station in observance of Armed Forces Day Saturday. Gates will be open to all interested civilians from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

Displays of the U.S. Navy's latest jet aircraft will be on display as well as survival gear and other naval equipment.

An exhibition of Sky-Diving will begin at 2 p.m. by the members of the Oceana Sky Divers Club.

known if the city will purchase the land or if it will be donated by the developers.

It was also specified that the Wickhuck project must provide adequate parking space and a school site.

A use permit application for a service station in Princess Anne Plaza drew some opposition from a nearby church and the Plaza Civic League.

George Marthan, speaking for the Plaza Methodist Church, said that the church located across Plaza Trail from the station site, had paid $48,000 for its property, constructed a $60,000 building and paid over $17,000 for a parsonage with the understanding that the property in question would be used for an apartment building.

James Gibbs displayed a Plaza Civic League map showing that nine service stations have either been built or are scheduled to be built within the development and that there are 16 stations within a 1-mile radius of the Plaza.

He said that rezoning applications for stations are cutting deep into residential districts and that "past incidents of rezoning have indicated to Virginia Beach residents that they must take an active part" in curbing these applications.

Council deferred action on the application and Lynnhaven Councilman James Darden asked that other councilmen go with him to see the property before making a decision.

Three signboard applications were denied because they did not comply with the city's 30-foot height limitation.

The Acredale Nursery was permitted to construct a building for the sale of garden items but a change of zoning was denied.

A large group of Eureka Park residents were on hand to view plans of a proposed industrial development adjacent to their property but voiced no open opposition. Council approved the application.

TEEN-AGE DRAGGING PROPOSED

CREEDS — Plans are in the making for a Saturday schedule of drag racing for high school students designed to teach teenagers maintenance of their cars as well as the rules and regulations of racing.

The Virginia Beach Dragway at Croods has proposed the idea and is expected to present plans to school administrators in the near future.

A spokesman for the drag strip said officials hope that high school shop instructors might be obtained as authorized adult supervisors for the races and to conduct clinics during the week on car maintenance and care.

It is hoped that the clinics might be held in school shops but if this proves impractical arrangements might be made with local garage owners, the spokesman said.

The only cost to the students would be a $1 entry fee which would go to pay the teachers and operate the track. Trophies would be provided for winners in the various classifications.

Before each race, the cars would undergo safety checks, to see that seat belts were properly installed, the tires were sound, and verify other safety points.

Within two weeks the drag strip plans to have lights installed so that the teen-agers might race on Saturday nights. It will be the only drag strip in the state presently offering night racing, the spokesman said.

All rules and regulations set up by the American Hotrod Association should be strictly enforced and classes in these specifications would be held for the teenagers each Saturday morning prior to the races.

The pits would open at 10 a.m., the trials would be held between 12:30 and 3 p.m. and the eliminations would start at 3:30 p.m.

Further information may be obtained from Jack Moore at 464-6406 before 10 a.m. or after 8 p.m.

LADY ELKS TO INSTALL

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. William Carnes will be installed as president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the benevolent and protective order of Elks number 2268 at ceremonies opening the annual President's Ball at the Elks Lodge, 1805 Atlantic Ave., on Saturday at 8:00 p.m.

Mrs. David Rogers is outgoing president.

Better Save Those Coins

After standing quiet all winter, the city's parking meters started clicking away this morning and Patrolman F. R. Scarborough is already making his rounds. The meters are in operation from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. They are not in effect on Sundays and holidays. So between now and after Labor Day, you better save that loose change to feed the meters.

VA. LIONS TO MEET HERE

VIRGINIA BEACH — More than 1,800 Lions and their Ladies are expected to attend the 42nd Annual Convention of the Virginia Association of Lions Clubs, to be held at Virginia Beach May 20 - 22.

The Cavalier will be the headquarters and the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center will be the location for most business meetings.

Virginia Beach is host to many hundred conventions each year and will roll out the red carpet for the Virginia Lions and their families. The Hotel Association has promised first rate rooms for all those attending the convention.

On the lighter side of the program there will be a golf match, a bus trip across the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel to Cape Charles. Free transportation will be furnished from the delegates' (or guests) hotel to the Convention Center and to the Cavalier. Many activities are planned for the ladies other than swimming and sun-bathing.

The officers, committeemen and the entire membership of the Virginia Association of Lions Clubs are hard at work to make this convention one of the most memorable and enjoyable meetings of its kind ever held for the Virginia Lions.

Dr. Eugene S. Briggs, of Enid, Oklahoma, Past President of Lions International, will be guest of honor and principal speaker at the convention.

ART SHOW ENTRIES GAIN

VIRGINIA BEACH — If the early return of applications is any indication, the 1965 Virginia Beach Boardwalk Art Show promises to top all previous shows.

Mrs. Gordon Atwill, entry chairman for the sponsoring Virginia Beach Art Association, said that replies on the applications are coming in three times faster than ever before.

Mrs. Atwill sent out over 2,500 entry forms about three weeks ago.

Officials believe that one of the reasons for the early response is the association's "first come, first served" policy on placement of the art along the boardwalk.

Deadline for getting the forms back to Mrs. Atwill at the Mayflower Apartments is June 30. The show will be held this year July 15-19.

TARGET PRACTICE FATAL

VIRGINIA BEACH — A 21-year-old Norfolk man was killed Sunday when he jumped in front of a friend's gun during a target practice on Moore's Pond Road near Davis Corner. David Johns died in Norfolk General Hospital about 4 hours after the accident occurred.

The shot was fired by James McCullough, 20, also of Norfolk. Police said the two men, and several friends, were firing at targets nailed to a tree. Just as McCullough took aim and fired, Johns jumped up in front of the gun.

Investigating Officer Detective G. F. Roberts said no charges were filed.

SALES TAX BRIEFINGS SCHEDULED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach merchants will have an opportunity to get a final briefing on the city's two per cent retail sales tax, which goes into effect June 1, at two public meetings scheduled by city officials.

The meetings will be conducted by the Commissioner of Revenue's office and the City Attorney's office and will be set up so that questions on the tax may be answered.

The first meeting will be held next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center on Pacific Avenue and 20th Street.

The final meeting is scheduled for May 25 at 7:30 p.m. at Princess Anne High School on Virginia Beach Boulevard near Thalia.

The city mailed out over 2,500 tax forms this week so that merchants might have an opportunity to study them before the public meetings.

Miss Peebles is active in politics and civic affairs and is a graduate of William and Mary College at Williamsburg, and now serves on its Board of Visitors.

She was a former past president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs and has led a membership of some 25,000 women to purchase the "Maxitron Machine" which is now housed at the Medical College of Virginia. At present Miss Peebles is associated with her father in the real estate and insurance business.

Speaking on the various phases of education in the public schools she stressed the teaching of economics, and the importance of knowing government in our present day society.

She spoke of the new instructional guide for the study of Virginia and U.S. Government and that courses are now in the process of being distributed to the various school systems, to help instruct the teachers in the principles of the constitutional form of government and the U.S. economic system.

Attending the luncheon were Mrs. John Fowler, Mrs. Edmund Jones, Mrs. L. R. Moore, Mrs. W. E. Tolson, Mrs. Edward Tippo, Mrs. C. J. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. B. Beard, Jr., Mrs. William Ford, Mrs. H. A. P. A. GARDEN CLUB WINS deLACY GRAY MEDAL

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Princess Anne Garden Club has been named as the first recipient of the deLacy Gray Memorial Medal which was presented at the Annual Dinner of the Garden Club of Virginia in Staunton on May 5.

The deLacy Gray Memorial Medal was established in 1964 by the Dolly Madison Garden Club of Orange in memory of Garden Club of Virginia past president, Mrs. Leslie H. Gray. It is awarded to an individual member or an individual club of the Garden Club of Virginia as may be considered by the Conservation Committee of the GCV "to have rendered outstanding service in the dissemination of knowledge of the natural resources of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the conservation and wise development of such resources."

The Princess Anne Garden Club of Virginia Beach was awarded the medal for conserving the Seashore State Park.

When the park was closed in 1956, there was a movement to get the state to sell it for a subdivision. The Princess Anne Garden Club sent out the call for unity among all clubs in the area, and they themselves organized the Seashore State Park Study Group. With the cooperation of the State Conservation Commission, the group toured the closed park once a week for two years, to prepare themselves for the task of saving it.

Additional interest was created by exhibits of living plant life from the park by groups who botanized the rare flora and fauna and made blue prints and color slides of the treasures found there.

In 1961, the wilderness area was opened to the public. The example of the Princess Anne Garden Club has been an inspiration.

BROADWAY COMES TO DEY

GREAT NECK — John B. Mash.

Dey Elementary School looked like Broadway Friday afternoon with such notables as The Beatles, the Bread 'N Butter Girls and that famous ball player Casey on hand for the SCA Talent Show.

They weren't for real, of course, but the audience, both adult and student, didn't care. In fact, it was more fun to see fellow classmates assume the famous roles than if the real personalities had been there in person.

Under the direction of Miss Linda Fentress, a sixth grade teacher, the show was a sell-out days before it opened and the response of the audience was proof of its success.

The acts included: an authentic hula by Kerri Kay; accordion selections by Sharon Edwards; Piano solo by Colleen Shannon; a record accompaniment on the drums by Jason Cowan; a trumpet duet by Wesley and Gary Kitt with Gary coming back for a solo; and a vocal trio made up of John White, Don Mang and Gary DeAngelo.

Pantomining their acts were: Carol Foley, Susie Andrews and Sandy Kuehn as the "Bread 'N Butter Girls"; The Beatles; Jeff Phillips, David Conrad, Cliff Miller and Tommy Watkins; and Ginny Gurly and Nancy Longworth in "The Monster

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

A New Low

In the past several years, we, as television viewers, have allowed ourselves to be insulted by certain commercials. We have allowed this to go on so long now, that almost anything we get is very nearly our own fault. Too long have we not objected to little hammers in our heads, the glorification of post nasal drips, the problems of irregularity and the evils of Brand "X" and "Greasy Kid Stuff." We have been told all of the virtues of every tooth paste, deodorant, dandruff remover, laxative, and hair color. To hear it told in these sagas, each one is better than the other. Everyone cannot be right. One product just has to be inferior. But we watch these commercials and we spend our hard-earned money on the products of our choice. This is as it should be. We live in a magnificent country of free enterprise, and we are grateful for it.

However, upon occasion, we feel compelled to take issue with the timing of a particular commercial. Such an occasion has arisen. Last Saturday night we were watching the full length feature movie on one of the networks, not of local origin. We are absolutely conditioned to the break in the movie at the moment of most suspense for the longest word in history... the word from our sponsor. In fact, we, more often than not, take this time to rush to the kitchen to prepare enough food to tide us over for the next uninterrupted twelve minutes of story line. This we did, with regularity, last Saturday night.

The movie was a suspenseful thing, all about the tropics, and the problems thereof. The secondary plot involved two well-known movie stars and their struggle within themselves. Like we say, it was suspenseful. Apparently one of the most dread occurrences in this region is the onslaught, every hundred years or so, of killer ants, that travel across the land and eat anything in their path. In the movie, the birds and animals had enough sense to leave the area, but our stars chose to remain. Several supporting characters were literally eaten up, thus making for a most gory bedtime story. Somehow, or other, our strongwilled stars made it through the ordeal by drowning the little fellows, and all ended happily, regardless of the barren wasteland left in the paths of the little gluttons. It was a good movie. We enjoyed it.

But then it happened. No sooner had the words, "The End", flashed on the twenty-three inch screen, than a commercial message followed. And of all products to tout at this particular moment, it was a commercial for a well-known bug killer, known to do away with ants. We are not sure, but we have the feeling that we were being brainwashed by the network. Perhaps they were showing our stars that they should have simply sprayed the entire area with the product. The ants, obviously, would have fled in terror, or passed on to ant heaven immediately.

More than likely, the commercial for this particular bug killer was purely coincidental, but we wonder at the feasibility of the product sponsoring a movie about killer ants, in the first place. Coincidence or not, last Saturday night, to our way of thinking, television commercializing reached a new low.

But it did serve one purpose. Instead of going off to bed and having nightmares of being eaten by ants, we had the confidence that we could spray them right out of our dreams. In short, a good laugh was had by all.

National Hospital Week

This year at Virginia Beach, National Hospital Week has an added significance. We are all looking forward with great expectations to the dedication and opening of the much needed new Virginia Beach General Hospital. The dedication comes in a little over a month, and the opening about two weeks after that. It is a beautiful building, equipped with the most modern and efficient facilities. It is the end of the rainbow for those who have put in many long hours over a period of years to bring about this dream. Soon it will be a reality.

National Hospital Week, May 9-15, is a public education event sponsored by the American Hospital Association and observed by all Tidewater hospitals. It is imperative that the public be educated for better understanding of the function of a hospital and its services.

A hospital is a flexible and dynamic institution, responding and reacting to changing health needs of the community. National Hospital Week provides an opportunity for the community to learn more about the hospital services maintained to guard and restore health.

An average of one in every seven persons requires hospitalization each year. This means that every person in the community has a vested interest in the hospital and it behooves everyone to become familiar with the hospital, its services and its objectives.

Although patient care is the primary function of hospitals, they have many other activities which affect health care now and in the future. Many hospitals are training grounds for doctors, nurses, and other professional personnel.

Some hospitals conduct medical and administrative research programs to find better ways of caring for patients and better methods of hospital operation and management.

Hospitals are also concerned with the health of persons not hospitalized. Through health education programs and cooperation with allied health agencies, they promote better practices for the entire community.

Once an institution for custodial care of the very sick, the hospital today has developed into a complex health center with the means to treat all types of illnesses, including many once considered fatal. More than that, hospitals today take a responsibility for the health of the entire community by promoting better health practices and preventive medicine for all citizens.

There is evidence that the hospital is never satisfied with the status quo, that it continually looks for new ways of providing better care and of protecting the consumer's health care dollar.

The day when the doctor and nurse were the only people needed in a hospital has long passed. They are still needed in full measure, but they are assisted by many other specially educated and trained people who contribute to total patient care.

In some ways today's hospitals resemble small cities. They centralize in one institution many of the essentials of every day life and many of the services we regularly use. They provide not only room and board, but also, have a "drug store," a power plant, a library, and in many cases a "school" for budding professional personnel.

All of these facilities and services make the hospital one of the city's largest employers.

Today's hospital is really a hundred or more different kinds of people dedicating their minds, hands and hearts to the task of making others well. It is through their efforts that the city is able to benefit from the advances of medical science.

We urge you to visit a hospital during this week, (not necessarily as a patient). Then, although it's still a little over a month away, perhaps all of us will be able to realize the need for the reason why we are proud of the new Virginia Beach General Hospital.

BRINKMANSHIP

This is the first of the continuing series of editorial cartoons to be run each week in this space by the Virginia Beach Sun. We feel that the old saying is absolutely correct. "One picture is worth ten thousand words". Therefore these cartoons, for which we have been searching for more than two months, will be presented to save us from writing at least ten thousand words. ED.

It's Petunia Planting Time Again

Every year along about this time, petunia planting time rolls around at Virginia Beach. This year is no exception. Because we are relative newcomers to the city, "Project Petunia" is all new to us. But in checking into the background and into what has already been accomplished under the auspices of this worthwhile program, we are amazed. And we feel we owe it to the project's sponsors to urge them on and to urge all citizens of this city to take part.

Particularly this year when the Council of Garden Clubs is stressing beautification for the entire city of Virginia Beach, this project needs more emphasis. As we mentioned a couple of weeks ago, we have been appalled at the condition of the lawn areas of many of the finer hotels and motels along the waterfront. So little has been done by the majority of the proprietors to display beauty along what could be a magnificent boardwalk. There are exceptions, thankfully, and in the last two weeks we have seen evidence of a little more effort. We hope we have played a small part in this awakening.

But back to the problem at hand. "Project Petunia" began in a small way, with the planting of the colorful petunias along Atlantic Avenue. The project in recent years has spread out, to Pacific Avenue, to the Boulevard and to Route Sixty. But even more emphasis is still needed. Petunias are beautiful flowers. They grow fast and are most hearty. They are rather simple to plant and to care for. They require little time and a minimum effort for the ultimate result.

This is a grand citywide project, especially at this time of the year, when the entire city is sprucing up and preparing for the tourist season. Perhaps some of our summer visitors will be encouraged to stay a little longer in a beautiful city. They may even go home and praise the colorful growth along our streets and roads.

The program has already achieved a moderate amount of success, and the backing of many civic groups and business leaders, but it can be even bigger and better this year, if all of us take part in "Project Petunia". Our thumbs are not very green, but we're going to take a stab at it. Why don't you?

Everyone Loves A Parade

Well, let's hope so. A lot of advance planning and a lot of hard work has gone into the preparation of the annual Virginia Beach Armed Forces Day Parade. Many national and local dignitaries will be on hand to participate. It is a moving sight to see the many military bands and marching units, the floats and the clowns, and others parading down the Avenue. It serves to remind us of the freedoms we enjoy in this great land of ours. And when the colors pass in review, as they do so often in a parade, once again we feel the swell of pride in our heritage... the same heritage our forefathers felt in the early days of this nation.

It is well for us to pause a moment and remember that our very city of Virginia Beach was the first beachhead of what was to become the United States. It happened at Cape Henry. We must always be proud of that fact.

This Saturday, we pay homage to our Armed Forces, both here at Virginia Beach and in every corner of the world. Our American fighting men are in those remote places with strange, unpronounceable names today to protect that same aforementioned freedom and heritage. They are not here at Virginia Beach with us today for that reason. But those that are here and will take part in the parade deserve a special thanks for protecting our shores.

When the Stars and Stripes pass in review, pay homage to them. Show the reverence to the greatest flag in the whole world.

We are privileged this year to be a judge of the military bands in the parade. We look forward to this job with the excitement of a kid at his first parade. We know of nothing that makes us any prouder to be an American than to watch a parade and to hear the march music of a military band. It will probably be a tough job picking the winners, but we shall try our best.

In the city of Virginia Beach, where there are so many military personnel and dependents, we often lose sight of the significance of armed might. This Saturday, Armed Forces Day, should best serve to remind us all of the importance of the defenders of our flag, wherever they may be. We hope you'll come to the parade. It has promise of being a great show. Line the streets and watch it pass. Have fun. But stand erect and pay homage to the flag of the United States of America when it passes you. You'll be glad you did.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir:

I thank you for publishing my letter in the Virginia Beach Open Forum, (see V.B. Sun, April 8, 1965) and for your reply. I wish to comment as briefly as I can, but more directly, upon the matter under discussion in that letter, and I hope you will, once again, allow space in the Forum for my comments.

The science book in use in my son's seventh grade science class was "Exploring Science for the Space Age" by Victor C. Smith, published by J. B. Lippincott Company. On page 47 of the companion Teacher's Manual and Answer Key, for the use of the teacher only, the following paragraph appears, was the first sentence in italics:

"Warn children that under no circumstances should they attempt to make rockets using fuels or explosives of any kind. For several years, when this activity was popular, many injuries and some property damage were caused by explosions of home-made rockets. Rockets are not for children."

The manual takes less than 90 minutes to read, in its entirety.

In spite of this warning, the principal of John B. Dey school succeeds in dismissing the entire matter as "a very tragic and unfortunate accident, but not one that the school was responsible for." We find even more appalling his statement, made some three and one half months after Jonathan's death, that "if (the teacher) had come to him and asked permission to fire these rockets at school as part of the science class, that he probably would have given his consent."

This is the same school system which released to the press a photograph of our son without our permission, accompanied by an incorrect statement designed to protect themselves at the expense of the children entrusted to their care, and which they were subsequently forced to retract two days later (see Ledger-Star, May 6 and 8, 1964).

Apparently, the higher one goes, however, the greater the negligence. Governor Albert Harrison, upon review of our correspondence in July, 64, found it necessary to forward it to the Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Virginia, "in order that he may be apprised once again of the warning it holds."

If Dr. Wilkerson had already been apprised of this danger, why had he not used his knowledge for the protection of the children in his state? Never-the-less, in a memo issued by the State Board of Education, dated September 18, 1964, certain aspects of the science program are brought to the attention of all Division Superintendents, in which, under the heading, "Rockets and Rocket Fuels", the "science of rocketry..." is strongly discouraged. Presumably, the protection that this statement affords them from any admittance of negligence, and in view of the convenient immunity which school systems enjoy, it is not necessary to mention that such rockets are lethal and their operation is illegal.

Schools enjoy an immunity from liability which is so unfair that it is even criticized by those who uphold it.

What has happened to our democratic form of government here? There is no democracy in any ruling which has its foundation in the Divine Right of Kings—or, to be more accurate, in "the right divine to do wrong."

Since the school boards of the State of Virginia have been held to be a function of that State, and are accordingly immune from suit, there is no possible chance of recovery against them. Damages for the death of a child would be extremely low, anyway, and even at their maximum would not cover the costs of bringing such an action against a governmental agency protected by this immunity, even if a lawyer could be found who was willing to conduct this action for the sake of justice and the law rather than dollars and cents. The ratio of "decided cases" against those cases never brought to court must, therefore, be negligible. Any legal conclusion drawn upon review of such a small minority is not worth the paper upon which it is written.

What of civil rights for our children—"nor shall any State deprive any person of life, libel-ty or property without due process of law"? Is age less important than color simply because it is not motivated by the same self-interest? Are our children expendable? What of our future citizens and scientists? Are we to destroy the first by example and the latter by experiment?

It is necessary to have excellent curriculums and well-built schools, but these are mere back-drops to the more necessary requirement of an adequate medium through which our children may be educated. For the most part, our teachers are fine, dedicated people, who perform their duties assiduously and conscientiously, sometimes without the guidance of curriculums or the luxury of modern school buildings. Much of the pleasure in Jonathan's short life was attributable to those who were his teachers.

The parents and voters of Virginia Beach must concern themselves with the protection of their children, since, morally, the school system there seems unable to act responsibly. Our personal efforts have been directed against those circumstances which were responsible for our son's death for the protection of other children, and the deliverance of parents from the agony of what must surely be one of life's most cruel blows.

We have had only three children, and we do not take our responsibilities lightly. We have lost a dearly-loved son... the school system merely lost a pupil.

"The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

—Thomas Jefferson.

Ed. Note—

Your letter is printed above, exactly as it was received in this office, with the exception of three instances. I personally made those deletions, based upon my right as an editor and as a human being. I am quite certain you do not wish to engage in open combat with those involved through the medium of our newspaper, and that the facts contained in your letter can be substantiated. The only deletions that I have made were statements of conjecture and assumption made by you, and were what I must consider highly inflammatory remarks based on your own conclusions, not facts.

In your letter you state that your personal efforts are directed against those circumstances responsible for your son's death for the protection of other children. I believe you. But I fail to see what further purpose the perpetuation of the controversy can serve. Your personal efforts have already accomplished your aim. You have made everyone painfully aware of the circumstances and of your loss. Obviously those efforts have already served as a future warning to others.

I am also aware that your personal efforts have reached high places, but have given you little or no personal satisfaction. Perhaps, however, satisfaction can be attained in the fact that your personal efforts have reached high places and have been duly noted.

One year has now passed since the death of your son, but of course you can never forget. You cannot be expected to forget. The incident will never be forgotten by anyone involved, or by a great number not involved.

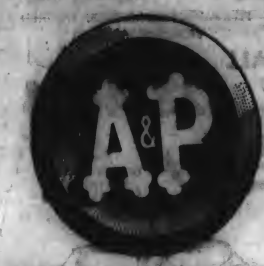

Since that is your stated aim, I can only thank you for bringing the facts to my attention, and for writing such fine comprehensive letters to our newspaper. Beyond this, I can do no more. I again extend my personal sympathy on the loss of your son. But as far as the Virginia Beach Sun is concerned, I must now consider the matter closed. There is no more to be gained by continuing the controversy through this media, since your stated aim has been achieved.

Club Requests Speaker's Return

NORFOLK — The Seaside Club of Norfolk has asked Commander John A. Fahey USN (Ret.) of Virginia Beach to return on May 19, 1965 to provide additional background on the Berlin question.

Fahey addressed the Club at the Lafayette Yacht Club on May 5. The retired Commander explained the past and present legal status of the Berlin occupation by Western and Soviet forces and gave the audience a greater insight into the scope of the Communist effort at the wall, including the effort and manpower requirements to maintain line-of-sight personnel coverage and materials for twenty-two rifles between East and West Berlins and additional barriers of eighty-eight miles between East Germany and West Berlin.

Members of the club expressed a desire for a return address during an enthusiastic question period following Fahey's half-hour colored slide program. One member remarked that the talk was a comprehensive educational lecture of the highest quality.

Commander Fahey, a Russian linguist, was assigned to the Soviet Army for a two-year period, 1960-1962 and now teaches European and World History at Norfolk Academy.

Complaints On Crab Pots

NORFOLK — Complaints about illegally placed crab pots in the fairways of navigable channels are being received by the Army Engineers in increasing numbers, according to Lt. Col. Fred B. Proctor, Norfolk District Army Engineer.

One complainant reported that he collided with a crab pot in the channel fairway of Back River, near Langley Air Force Base. Approximately $100 damage was inflicted on his boat.

Col. Proctor stated that all complaints are investigated, and in each instance many crab pots have been found that were illegally placed in the channel, and synthetic lines used instead of cotton lines to attach the floating marker.

The Army Engineers removed 36 such crab pots from Back River, 34 from Lynnhaven Inlet, and 17 from the restricted area off Fort Story within the last several days. All have been taken to the District Headquarters at Fort Norfolk, 803 Front Street. Col. Proctor said he would surrender the crab pots removed provided the owners proved ownership and furnished their names and addresses.

The Engineers' patrols will continue their vigorous campaign against this hazard to navigation as long as crabbers persist in placing their crab pots illegally in the rivers.

GOLFING THIEVES

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two separate reports on the theft of golf clubs are being investigated by the police department.

A complete set of women's golf clubs and bag were taken from the Saxony Motel at 2116 Atlantic Avenue. They were valued at $205.

'WE WILL BURY YOU'

BY LT. EARLE T. HALE
NAS OCEANA
UTILITY SQUADRON FOUR

(Fifth in a series on Communism to be published each week)
An ugly drizzle was still falling as a tall young man mounted the podium. He was no more than thirty, but his intensity of manner made him seem much older. A crowd of about two hundred and fifty had gathered, sipping, appreciatively, the hot coffee that had been distributed.

"I bring to you the message of the living Christ," he began, "of hope . . . of jobs . . . of food for your families! I bring to you your stolen manhood."

"THEY SAY that I am a communist! And I say to them proudly, Yes, I am a communist. I am a communist, as Jesus Christ was a communist. I look upon your poverty, your hunger, your jobless and I weep as Christ did."

"It is not that I am less democratic in my views than those who oppose me! It is, rather, that I have more compassion for your suffering. I don't offer you words! I don't offer you charity! I don't offer you handouts! I offer you opportunity and a share of this dream of freedom and democracy!"

"Is it wrong to stand with your head held high? Is it wrong to want to work hard for a fair wage? Is it wrong to want a decent home for your family? Is it wrong to want food on your table and milk for your children?"

"Yes, I am a communist! And if wanting a decent life for you is wrong, then I am also wrong. They say that I seek to enslave you, but I offer food and jobs, not chains. It is not slavery I speak of—it is freedom! I offer you freedom from the exploitation of the rich! I offer peace and freedom . . . freedom . . ."

THE PEACE is New York and the year is 1960. The crowd is Americans—very poor Americans. What they are hearing is what countless thousands have heard before in Russia, Poland, Hungary, and China. They are being confronted, for the first time, with truth, half-truth, and unequivocal falsehood. They are basically good, religious people who want a decent wholesome life. They lack, however, the only genuine defense against communism—education! Whether, in the final analysis, they will resist this fallacious appeal is the test of our republic.

Peace . . . Freedom . . . Democracy—all words that are commonly used in every-day conversation. To us these words have precise meanings, but to a communist definitions need not be so fragile. When the communist speaks of freedom . . . well, freedom means whatever he wants it to mean. To the communist the spoken and written word is used to mislead and deceive rather than to inform.

Peace is defined, not as the absence of war but rather, as the absence of capitalism. Lenin said that "until communism has shoved capitalism off the face of the earth, peace will be impossible and will not be permitted." The "peace-loving peoples" that the communists are wont to refer to, would appear to be nothing more than hordes bent on our ultimate destruction.

CONSIDER THE WORD "freedom." To Americans this means being left alone to do as we please. But to Nikolai Lenin the word had an entirely different connotation. Lenin said, "the flag of freedom will be waved against us . . . but every freedom is a fraud." The only real freedom is in the liberation of the working masses from exploitation, unemployment and poverty.

Freedom then, in the eyes of the "RED WORLD," is the state's custody of all the people's civil rights in exchange for protection from "EXPLOITATION."

In the lexicon of the "western world," democracy means self-government with elected representatives enacting laws which have survived genuine debate. But communist dogma states that " . . . democracy is in no way incompatible with the dictatorship of one person."

"Peace" is war, "Freedom" is protection, and "Democracy" is dictatorship! It was with these twisted words and equally twisted men that Lenin began his "world conquest."

BASKIN IN THE SUN

Just read a book about the rise of the individual being the only thing that has saved every culture and nation since the beginning of time. The writer says that America is long overdue for the rise of a few people with the strength of character to go against the tide of "togetherness" that has boosted us along over this last generation. I couldn't agree more. I'm sick to death of committees which convene to decide nothing, and the effort that is made at all levels of family and nation to just "get along with everyone and everything will be wonderful!"

Over a period of the last few years I have said and written about my dislike of this emphasis on the part of most people to keep up with the Joneses, not only about things but about ideas. Nobody—at least very few people—will venture an opinion about anything any more. They stand around with their hands in their mental pockets and wait to see what is the proper line of thought for the moment.

Doesn't seem to bother folks when you tell them to think for themselves. They seem to have sunk back into a nice, fat cushion of "non-opinion" and they don't even want to think about anything that is at all different. That's bad enough, but when they run for cover and shuffle their feet over a controversial matter, it is enough to make you weep.

I always look forward with pleasure when I know I'm going to be able to spend some time with someone who has some solid, flat-footed opinions about anything. They—or someone with this strength—just might make the difference in this silly world. Next time you feel in good shape, mash a friend against the wall and try to get him to express a nice hard view about something. It doesn't have to be a matter for the United Nations, just something to see if he'll take a firm stand. If he does, try to talk him out of his position. If he won't budge, then never lose him as a friend. You can't afford to write him off for any reason.

Easiest way in the world to find out if you've been wasting your time with people who'd drop you like a hot potato if you happened to express an opinion contrary to what all the nitwits expect.

Grudge Run Sunday At Dragway

CREEDS — There will be action galore for dragstrip fans at the Virginia Beach Dragway this Sunday.

Hank's "Trader," a 1964 Dodge Hemi Super Stock, has challenged Mayo Ross and the WNOR Go Go Number One, a 1964 Plymouth Hemi Super Stock, to a grudge run.

Hank, who spent $10,000 and a year and a half building "Trader," said he put all the work into his car just to beat "Go Go Number One," the fastest Super Stock in Virginia, according to authorities.

This challenge also includes Pop Whit and his 1964 Plymouth Hemi Super Stock "Sly Fox." Last week "Go Go" took its class with "Trader" coming in second and "Sly Fox" third.

Also appearing for the fans will be the Sawyer Brothers' Ford V-8 powered Go-Cart which has turned up 110 miles per hour in the quarter mile.

In Virginia, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

The official flag of Virginia Beach was conceived at the plant of a fairly new business in Virginia Beach. TIDEWATER EMBLEMS at 1816 Potter Road is the "baby" of John Huenenberg, and has been in operation for almost three years. Huenenberg, with his wife and two employees, has been producing by Screen Process Printing an amazing array of printed and flocked items.

Screen printing is a unique process which goes back to the ancient Egyptians who used the method to decorate their fabrics and the walls of their buildings. But it took modern industry to discover the tremendous scope and versatility of today's screen printing process.

Brilliance of color, together with original designs, make screen printing one of the most economical and efficient printing processes. An amazing array of printed and flocked items, from to any surface, and on any shape.

In addition to the official flag, TIDEWATER EMBLEMS's screen printing process is used to make display cards, posters, novelties, reflective traffic signs, metal name plates, self-adhesive labels, pennants, personalized polo shirts... you name it — it can be made... screen process printing can be used to print on anything, even water (if you should happen to have some use for it).

Flocking is a raised nap effect which is accomplished by the application of flocking material to the wet paint design which has been screened. It sticks tight, is clearly defined, and will not wash off.

Just a few of the items available at Tidewater Emblems. Owner John Huenenberg holds two of the necessary "tools of the trade" which make screen printing possible. The squeegee (in right hand) applies the paint or dye to the patterns on the framed screen (in left hand).

Whatever the shape or form or whatever the markings required, screen process printing can do the job. TIDEWATER EMBLEMS is a busy place and rather baffling to the uneducated eye. But the way John explains it, it is amazingly simple and effective. It is unlikely that you could find any item too complicated for him to reproduce, enlarge, reduce, or a design that couldn't be made. And the fine detail work will be clearly defined to your complete satisfaction. Whether it is one emblem for an individual, a dozen shirts for a club, or hundreds of posters for an organization, TIDEWATER EMBLEMS can do the job—any job—you want and need.

And proving that a new business can work with an older established company for mutual benefits to an entire city, the official flag of the City of Virginia Beach was presented to City Council by John Huenenberg of Tidewater Emblems and Charles Terry of the U.S. Flag and Signal Co., as the joint effort. The screen process printing was done at Tidewater Emblems and the flags were made at U.S. Flag and Signal Company.

LOVE EXPLORED IN LITTLE THEATRE SHOW

Love was explored in all its facets for an evening of entertainment and fun at the Courtyard Playhouse last Thursday evening as the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach presented "The Irregular Verb to Love."

The first-night audience greeted each actor and actress with applause as he or she came on stage, and enthusiastically applauded each particularly amusing speech or action.

The story evolves around "Hedda Rankin," who as a dedicated animal lover, returns home to her waiting family after spending a year in prison for blowing up fur shops. Finding her family in various stages of emotional disturbance, she fully expects to be able to take over the reins and smooth out all difficulties. But it doesn't work out that way.

Angela Walker is a thoroughly enchanting "Hedda," and she plays with each emotion with convincing reality. When she is on the stage, it is more like eavesdropping on a neighborhood family argument than observing a play... she absorbs herself completely in the role.

Her daughter, "Lucy Beckit," is played by Diana Harvey, and as the immature girl who has one disolved marriage behind her, she seeks to find love with or without marriage. Her indecision and all-wrong philosophy are expertly played by the young actress who makes her first appearance with the cast of Virginia Beach Little Theatre.

Lee Cohen, plays her lover who wants to be her husband, "Michael Vickers." His is a familiar face to Little Theatre audiences and he gives his usual fine performance.

"Andrew" is Hedda's beatnik son, and he appears on the scene with "Fedra," a young Greek girl who speaks no English. Barry Meyerwitz makes his stage debut in this production and his talented portrayal is amusing

WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE — Floating on a cushion of air provided by airplumes from its underside, the "Hydrohopper," an experimental landing craft, is usually at home over water or land. It is currently being tested by the Navy and will be on display for Armed Forces Day open house, Saturday and Sunday at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base.

Little Creek Open House Sat. & Sun.

LITTLE CREEK — The public will be able to see the school's Amphibious Museum with ship models, Marine combat exhibit, ship characteristics trainer exhibit, and an amphibious terrain board.

Tours of an amphibious ship will begin at 1 p.m. and last until 5. As part of the ship tour the movie "Seapower" made by Warner Brothers and narrated by Glenn Ford will be shown.

Another open house special is an exhibit and periodic demonstration featuring the "Hydrohopper," an experimental landing craft. This mile-a-minute vehicle floats over water and land on a cushion of air. Nearby, four different types of landing craft will be beached with their ramps down, plus displays of equipment used by amphibious beach groups.

In another open house activity, "Frogmen," known formally as Underwater Demolition Team members, will take to the water for cast and recovery demonstrations at 1, 2, 3, and 4 p.m. Their equipment will also be on display. Continuous tours of the amphibious transport submarine USS Sea Lion, which often carries Frogmen at sea, and another amphibious force ship will be offered. UDT swimming demonstrations in a tank will begin at 1:15, 2:15, 3:15, and 4:15.

Salvage diving demonstrations sponsored by the salvage ship USS Windlass will begin at 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, and 4:30. The Windlass will give underwater cutting and welding demonstrations in a tank at 1:45, 2:45, 3:45 and 4:45.

ART SHOW AT COX

VIRGINIA BEACH — The first Art Show, which is planned to be an annual affair at Frank Cox High School, was held last week at the school.

Judges were Mrs. G. M. Jefferson, Mrs. L. W. Anderson and Vance Mitchell, and they awarded the Frank R. Ford Trophy to Karen Huxter for her painting, "The Day's Catch," as Best in Show.

The Art Exhibit featured three categories in which prizes were awarded. For Sculpture, Karen Overmire received first prize; Terry Flowers second; and third prize went to Ricky and Scotty Richards. For Painting, Glynn Humphries was awarded the first prize, while Fred Rudiger got the second, and Julia Potter the third. For Mixed Media, the first prize went to Glynn Humphries, the second to Fred Rudiger and the third to Jan Saxon.

An open house featuring actual training sessions and exhibits of training equipment will be sponsored by the Navy Marine Corps and Coast Guard Reserve Training Center. It begins at 1 p.m. and lasts until 5 p.m.

For those who like a picnic, Virginia Beach is planning an Armed Forces Day picnic Saturday. Most Tidewater area military installations are planning to participate, with flowers, marching units and bands. The parade begins at 10 a.m.

Parking space at the Amphibious Base is plentiful. As visitors arrive at the gates they will be given a welcome aboard pamphlet containing a map of the base with the display and demonstration and parking areas clearly marked. Refreshments will be available from mobile canteens during the open house periods both Saturday and Sunday.

MARCH FROM RICHMOND PLANNED FOR UCP

NORFOLK — The Air Force Recruiting Service will make a dramatic march from Richmond to Norfolk, starting on Armed Forces Day, May 15, to help raise money for cerebral palsied children and adults in the Tidewater Area.

In a joint announcement from the Air Force and United Cerebral Palsy of Metropolitan Hampton Roads, Sgt. "Buz" Sawyer and UCP Campaign Chairman, John M. Birch, said, "Air Force Recruiting personnel will march so that cerebral palsied children may walk."

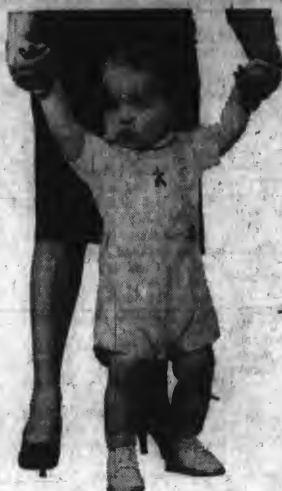

"This special event will begin mid-way in the annual Campaign which UCP is conducting, May 1-31," said Birch. Other activities include: Teen Tag Day, and Teen Gas-A-Thons, Business & Professional Canvass, the Residential Drive, plus coin containers and appeal mailings.

Sgt. Sawyer indicated that a goal for the March has been set at approximately $100 per mile — 50 feet per $1.00 — for a total of $10,000. "We will keep going from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., every day until we have received that amount of public donations, no matter how long it takes, although we would like to end our March successfully in Norfolk at least by the end of the UCP Drive, May 31," stated Sgt. Sawyer.

A number of activities are being developed to stimulate public donations and pledges along the highway from motorists, and from residents through the mail, telephone and events staged in communities.

LITTLE FEET
WHAT PATH?

The future holds the secret, and it's anyone's guess! He may be a great statesman some day... or maybe a world-renowned athlete or actor... or perhaps a scientist... but most likely, just Mr. Average.

Of course, a lot will depend on his opportunities, his God-given talents, his character, and his training.

Anything could go wrong along the way — poor health, bad examples set by his parents and associates, a broken home, neglect, and false values. But why make a list? The possibilities for this child's failure in life are so numerous that it makes us shudder — and the worst of it, we can guarantee him nothing. But we can give him hope and faith.

Standing ready and anxious to help him in the Church and the precepts which it teaches. It is our duty and our privilege to help spread the spiritual principles of Christian living in practice as well as in word so that the youth of our nation will find some meaning to the path of life which so strangely twists and turns toward some hoped-for goal.

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

WHAT SIZE DAIRY HERD?

Many dairy farmers are asking themselves if they should increase the size of their milking herd. Here are some ideas on this subject.

Situations differ widely, and the answer to one farm is not necessarily true for another. A summary prepared by agricultural economists at VPI shows the average number of cows per dairy worker (for the 126 Grade A dairy farms surveyed) was 19. The highest income-producing 30 percent of these farms had from 21 to 26 cows per man.

It should be remembered that this includes not only the dairy work on these farms, but the other regular farm work as well. Probably the average—if handling cows only—would be about double this number.

Under average conditions, a dairyman would probably need 18 to 20 additional cows to employ an extra man handling and milking cows and growing at least part of the feed for them.

If the dairyman is figuring on one man to do dairy work only, he would probably need a minimum of 35 to 40 additional cows. This can serve as a guide and each individual can check out a little more closely what can be counted on in the way of returns from the extra cows and what it would cost to have the extra man.

NITROGEN USE ON CORN IS OUT OF BALANCE

Many Virginia Beach farmers are not using the right amount of nitrogen on corn to balance the phosphate and potash being used.

The proper use of nitrogen on corn means rates of 100 to 175 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre—depending on the soil on which the corn is produced. This would be five to nine bags of a 20-10-10 fertilizer.

Too many farmers are using grades such as 5-10-10 or 10-10-10 when the ratio should be 2-1-1, which gives twice as much nitrogen as phosphate or potash.

Even with the proper ratio, it may be hard to apply the right amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium with just one grade of fertilizer. Getting the right amounts of each nutrient may involve bulk spreading where the ingredients are mixed in the spreader or the use of a particular grade of fertilizer plus the application of additional nitrogen from a straight nitrogen material.

SLEEPY DRIVER HURT
VIRGINIA BEACH — A 38-year-old Virginia Beach man was injured recently when he reportedly fell asleep at the wheel of his auto and crashed into a telephone pole.

Police said that Kenneth W. Young of 18C Magnolia Street suffered a lacerated chin when he was thrown into the windshield as the car hit the pole.

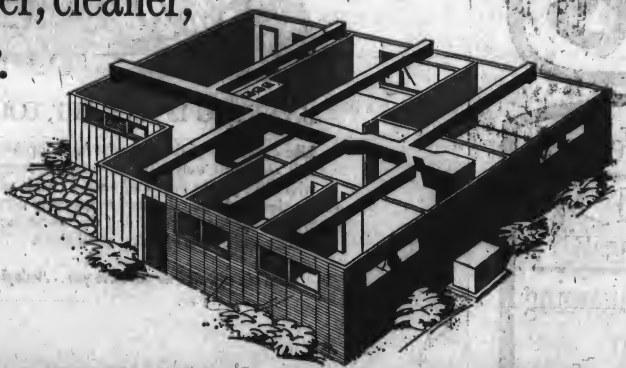

The accident took place on a feeder road along Virginia Beach Boulevard about 50 feet west of Rose Marie Agnew. The impact broke the pole off at the base and caused about $600 damage to the vehicle, investigating officer Larry Montgomery reported.

POSTAL OFFENSE
THOROUGHGOOD — Noble Williams, 19, of Wishart Road has been arrested by Virginia Beach Police and turned over to postal authorities for reportedly taking mail and checks from a mailbox in Thoroughgood.

Williams was picked up by Officer Hughes a short distance from 4313 Thoroughgood Drive where a neighbor reported seeing a man answering Williams' description open the mailbox.

Williams allegedly had several letters and checks in his possession when taken into custody.

Bulldozer Riders Charged

SANDBRIDGE — Two young Norfolk men who took a wild ride along Sandbridge Beach early one Sunday morning on a confiscated bulldozer have been arrested by Virginia Beach Police and charged with unauthorized use of the heavy construction equipment.

The youths have been identified as James Redmond White Jr., 18, of 1334 Suckley Gardens and Thomas Haynes Bullant Jr., 21, of 1001 Gates Avenue. Bullant was operator of the vehicle, police said, and White was a passenger.

According to police reports, the two took a bulldozer belonging to John Braughton of 104 Linkhorn Drive, Virginia Beach, from its parking place at the east end of Sandbridge.

They drove it about a mile up the road on the sand and crossed Sandpiper Street at two different spots, causing considerable damage to the hard surface road. The bulldozer was abandoned about a mile from where it had been parked, police said. It was undamaged.

By Carolyn R. Pettibone

Just when you least expect it, your mealtime manners "tell on you." They say, "She is thoughtful of her family." She is thoughtful of her friends and hosts. Sometimes they say, "She is uneasy because she doesn't quite know what is right to do."

You have a chance every day to learn and practice good table manners at home. And when you go to a party, or a friend's home, or out on a date, you know how to be sure of yourself because you are sure of your manners.

Many people do things differently, in their homes. Manners do not mean that everyone must do everything in exactly the same way. But, they do mean being kind and considerate. Here are some manner reminders for mealtimes.

In many homes, and at banquets, a "blessing" is offered before the meal. Wait to see what your host or hostess does before you start to eat.

Use a napkin as a common practice at home. If you do not learn this accepted way of doing things, you will forget sometime when the occasion is very important to you.

Hold your fork, knife and spoon correctly. Never slouch or lean over the table, or reach in front of someone else to obtain food. Don't talk about unpleasant things at the table, or criticize the food or someone else's manners. Finally, be sure to ask to have food passed to you. Always be courteous and say "thank you", and "Please".

If you remember to practice your mealtime manners at home, you will know how to act under all situations and you will enjoy your outings more.

The pesky, almost invisible "no-see-ums" were a pest to the itching red men and, playing no favorites, are just as pesky for the white man. Their small size and persistent attacking habits make them unwelcome guests at outdoor functions over a wide area of the United States, notes the National Pest Control Association.

PESKY "NO-SEE-UMS"

A biting insect so small that the Maine Indians long ago dubbed them "no-see-ums" is still raising king-sized lumps on hapless victims in many states of this country and in countries around the world.

The pests are the biting midges of the genus 'Culicoides', to use entomologists' terms, but they have a variety of local names that included sandflies, punkies, black gnats and in the far Pacific, Palau gnats. In Arizona and New Mexico, they are called the valley gnat and in the far west, the Bodega black gnat. The Indians name for them, although admittedly unscientific, is as descriptive as any.

These pests, notes the National Pest Control Association (whose members often get hurt calls to wipe out attacking hordes of the villains) are far fiercer biters than mosquitoes. Their bites frequently cause lesions that are more painful and longer-lasting than even the biggest mosquito. Only the females bite.

The painful bite is out of all proportion to their size, since different varieties of the midge range from one to three millimeters in length.

During World War II, soldiers and sailors suffered misery from these biting gnats on Pacific islands and in the Caribbean. The bites not only cause painful welts, but scratching of the bites often led to secondary infections and ulcers.

The heaviest infestations of the variety which prefers brackish salt water areas for breeding occur along the southeastern Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Their depredations have often been sufficiently serious to drive a seaside resort out of business.

There has so far been no evidence in American cases that the insects have transmitted any human disease, but research by entomologists in Africa, India and Mexico have levelled suspicions that they may be hosts to certain filarial worms that affect farm animals.

There has been much experimentation on control methods, both large and small scale, notes Dr. Philip Spear, Technical Director of the National Pest Control Association. Since the pest requires water for breeding, ditching and diking of salt marshes, similar to that employed in mosquito control, has been used successfully in coastal areas.

Some inland and upland species use water-filled tree-holes as breeding places. Other inland species prefer the muddy banks of ponds and small streams.

All varieties, however, emerge in great numbers after a short incubation period, the females aggressively seek out a blood meal, required in order to get the next generation under way. The life span of the adults is seldom as long as five days.

Householders, who have learned to their unhappiness that the tiny gnats can literally walk through the standard 16-mesh screen, have found that spraying or painting screens with DDT or other control chemicals such as malathion is helpful. Fogging and spraying of large areas has sometimes proved effective, notes Dr. Spear, but it is seldom economically sound.

Dr. Spear warns that some of the chemicals which once were effective—among them, lindane, dieldrin, chlordane and heptachlor, were found by the United States Department of Agriculture to be losing their effectiveness as resistance was bred into the survivors of each generation.

Light and warmth both attract the gnats, Dr. Spear points out, and chemicals should be applied to light fixtures and tight-colored ceilings. Since men working outdoors are a favorite target, he also recommended use of standard insect repellents, which provide protection for several hours.

Professional pest control operators, notes NPCA, can control infestations around the home by spraying lawns and shrubbery with chemical agents, painting screens with long-lasting chemical formulations, and in a word, do quite a bit to turn "no-see-ums" into "no-bite-ums."

Young Man In A Hurry May Spoil Things

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am sixteen years old and do not go out with any girl. I would like to go out with a very beautiful girl in my school. I asked this girl to dance with me a few times, but she refused. I love her very much and I would like to date her. I look at her as much as possible. She will look at me, but if she sees me looking at her, she'll turn around and pretend she didn't see me. I have never told her that I love her. Should I write and tell her that I do, or should I wait until she gets to love me?"

OUR REPLY: It isn't wise to tell a girl that you love her when you really do not know one another. And, you cannot just wish for something to happen and expect it to happen.

The girl is certain to know that you like her. This does not guarantee that she will like you as well as you like her. She may even object to the fact that you look at her so much.

Makes another start. If you have never been formally introduced to the girl, arrange it through a mutual friend. Get to know her and give her the opportunity to know you. You might spoil your chances of getting to know her at all if you continue to be such a young man in a hurry.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an interesting story, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY FRANKFORD, KY.

WOMAN INJURED

PRINCESS ANNE — A 30-year old woman suffered cuts and bruises Tuesday afternoon when she lost control of her car on a curve on Holland Road and ran into a ditch.

Officer H. J. Thomas identified the driver as Mrs. Mary T. Bamford of 3037 Ferry Farm Lane, Princess Anne Plaza. There was about $300 damage to the car.

The officer charged Mrs. Bamford with reckless driving and not having an operator's permit in her possession.

NEW BUS SERVICE

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Manager W. Russell Hatchett announced this week that beginning June 1 a new bus service will be inaugurated in certain areas of the city.

The new service will be run daily from Virginia Beach through via the Trailways Bus Station on Pacific Avenue and Sea-tack to Oceana and the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach near Hilltop.

One of the round trips will be to and from 89th Street via the bus station over the above route. A second trip from 89th Street via the bus station will be available by transfer at the bus station.

There will also be two trips daily in each direction between downtown Norfolk and the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach. The Norfolk service will add new stops to all points along Great Neck Road and First Colonial Road between Seaview Beach and Oceana.

Another new service will be operated from Knotts Island, N.C. over Princess Anne Road via City Hall at Princess Anne Station to both Virginia Beach Borough and the City of Norfolk.

Information on the times and schedules concerning the new service may be obtained by calling 428-2002.

'SHINDIG' COMES TO CIVIC CENTER SUN.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The largest produced stage show to ever be presented in Virginia Beach will be held at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center Sunday for two performances.

ABC's top-ranked teen-age show, "Shindig," will be presented at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. under sponsorship of WNCN Radio.

Gerry & the Pacemakers, one of the most popular singing groups from Liverpool, England, will headline the two hour shows.

Other well known acts will include Shirley Ellis, Roosevelt Grier, the Dixie Cups, Willy Nelson, Linda Gail, Jim Doval & the Gauchos, Joey Paige and the Shindig Dancers, Singers and Band.

Although the Virginia Beach performances will not be taped for television showing, the shows will follow the pattern of the weekly national network presentations.

Jimmy O'Neill, who hosts the television shows, will be on hand Sunday to host both performances here.

To make it even more authentic, several truckloads of the equipment and scenery used on television will be brought in and assembled on the Civic Center stage.

The Shindig Dancers, Singers and Band are headliners in their own right and have a large following among the teen-age fans.

4-CAR WRECK INJURES TWO

LYNNHAVEN — Two persons were injured in a 4-car collision on Lesner Bridge at Lynnhaven Inlet Sunday about 5:35 p.m.

Carmen Pascorosa, 52, of 3301 E. Oceanview Avenue reportedly suffered back and neck injuries and his wife, Rose, 49, received injuries to her right arm.

Patrolman D. A. Wallace said that three cars had stopped on Lesner Bridge when a fourth vehicle came up from the rear, failed to stop and plowed into the last car, causing a chain reaction of rear end collisions.

Russell Vernon Waymire, 26, of Fort Eustis was charged with following too closely, the officer reported.

Drivers of the other cars were Judith B. Isham, 23, of Norfolk and Richard E. Moon, 24, of Hopewell. There was several hundred dollars damage each to the Moon, Pascorosa and Waymire vehicles.

TEEN-AGE DRAGGING SUPPORTED

Proposed Saturday drag races for teen-agers gained momentum this week and early response to the preliminary plans indicate a big turn-out the first season.

The new club will be called the Tidewater High School Dragway Association and Virginia Beach Dragway officials have named Jack Moore as its director.

Membership cards and automobile decals will be issued to members in four classes: apprentice, novice, amateur and professional. Groups, and sponsorship of various automobile dealers, will be formed in Chesapeake, Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News and Hampton.

Each group will be under the supervision of a shop or mechanic teacher, or other adults who wish to work with teen-agers in each Tidewater community.

A small membership fee will be required to pay for instructors, upkeep of the track and timing equipment and the cost of printing decals and membership cards.

The car dealers, many of whom have already asked to serve as sponsors, will open their shops at a prearranged time so that high school students might work on their cars. Parts will be supplied at a low cost.

Students in the amateur and professional classifications will be allowed to run Saturday night and Sunday in regular competition at half price, if they wish.

However, apprentices and novices will not be allowed to compete in regular competition.

Classes will be held to teach students all aspects of the rules and regulations of all types of dragging and racing and each member will be given American Hot Rod Association rule books.

ART AUCTION AT FESTIVAL

BAYSIDE — An innovation at St. Pius X Summer Festival this year will be an "art auction." Mrs. Elizabeth D'Auria, well known artist at Norfolk and Virginia Beach (her studio is at Sylvan Beach) is in charge of the auction. She is appealing to artists in the area to donate a picture. The pictures must all be originals in either oils, watercolors or drawings. Sculpture is also acceptable.

She is asking the artist to write name, address, telephone number, title of picture, price and media on the upper left hand corner.

The pictures will be on a display and if they are not sold, they will be auctioned off. This is a first in Tidewater — the artist will receive 25% of the sales price. Heretofore, at art auctions, the organization has received the full price.

Pictures not sold will be returned. St. Pius X Festival will be held on the church grounds, May 22, from 3 until 9:00 p.m. and on May 23, from 4:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m.

Mrs. D'Auria and Mrs. Martha Fanning Taylor will both be on hand to do quick 15 minute portrait sketches at special "Festival Prices", $1.00.

GARDEN CLUBBERS ENJOY TOUR

by Douglas Arnold Barnes
The Spring Fever of adventure caught some twenty members and guests of the Linkhorn Park Garden Club as they gathered together at the Princess Anne Country Club to meet their Trailways host, D. F. Buchanan, for the annual pilgrimage to the spacious, historical gardens and estates of the Berkeley and Shirley Plantations.

The plantations, the original homes of the Harrington and Carter families, are located between Williamsburg and Richmond on the James River.

The day of touring was one of fun, fellowship, girl talk, and unsurpassed views of Virginia's natural Spring Beauty.

Berkeley has no peer among Virginia's plantations as a beautifully restored example of our state's golden era. It was the home of two presidents—William Henry Harrison, who returned home to write his inaugural address; and Benjamin Harrison, third Governor of Virginia. It was plundered in 1861 by Union troops, under Benedict Arnold. During the War between the States, McClellan used it as headquarters after his withdrawal from the Battle of Malvern Hill. "Tape" was composed here in 1862.

Today, offering a guided tour of a home rather than a museum, was built in 1723. Anne Hill Carter was married here in 1793 to "Lighthorse"

The 'Y' of It

"In Christ There Is No East Or West." This 'theory' was lived out in Norfolk at the YWCA International Workshop on May 10-12. Now we know that a new spirit of building bridges from man to man really works! The 'team' came from Ceylon, Taiwan, Zambia (Africa), Hawaii and Canada like a breath of fresh air, breaking the barriers of color and custom and challenging us to be a part of this WORLD IDEA. Dr. Kitagawa (Japan) spoke of our divided world and for the need of concern and personal involvement for all mankind. We realize that in the YWCA all women can unite with the common purpose and start where we are to 'communicate' with others, in our homes, our communities and our nation—that the seemingly least important among us has something great to do in this great healing process. Is Virginia Beach "on the fence or in the fight?" And how about me?

Party Line BY OLGA EDWARDS

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond H. Johnson, Miss Jean Polissos and Jack B. Prince

With the busy and exciting summer social season just a few short weeks away, Virginia Beach party-goers will be treated to a preview of things to come this weekend with several special events.

The Bay Harbour Club's annual luau becomes more popular each year and the program planned Friday night will surely make this year's luau one to be long remembered.

For those who know true Hawaiian music, the name Johnny Pineapple stands out above all others. He and his authentic band have appeared many times on Ed Sullivan's television show and other national network programs and have appeared in top night spots from coast to coast.

This famous group will provide dance music and an outstanding floor show, featuring lovely Polynesian dancers, for the Bay Harbour's luau and, from what I'm told, the decorations will make an ideal tropical setting for the program.

Although the Cavalier Beach Club will not officially open its 1965 season until May 28, members will enjoy a pre-opening dance on the Starlight Deck Saturday night with John Dierieux and his orchestra providing the music. Weather permitting, the first Sunday afternoon tea dance will be held this weekend, too.

In the weeks to come, the will feature such famous bands as the Larry Mack Quintet (May 28-June 10); Ray Herrera and "Alley Cat" Char (June 11-24); Carroll Kay & the Kayettes (June 26-July 1); Chuck Laskin and his orchestra (July 2-8); those Virginia Beach favorites, Don Glasser and his orchestra and lovely vocalist, Lois Costello (July 9-22); Jack Golly and his Florida orchestra (July 23-Aug. 5); Russ Carlyle and soloist Patty Clayton, recently seen on Jack Paar's TV show (Aug. 6-19); Freddie Lee and singers Norma Carroll and Rusty Nichols (Aug. 20-26); and Pat Dorn Beach Club outdoor bandstand and his society orchestra, who played at President Johnson's inaugural ball (Aug. 27-Sept. 6). John Dierieux will round out the season from Sept. 6-19.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Thank You, Mr. Smith

The city of Virginia Beach asked for and received a consultants' report concerning roads and highways. We realize that the engineers were only paid to tell us our problems, not to tell us how to pay for them, but the question does arise . . . How will we be able to finance the approximately $69 million network of roads the consultants say we need within the next fifteen years? The city fathers have a tough task ahead of them in the next few weeks, analyzing the report, and trying to determine what course of action will be taken on the recommendations. They will then meet with the Southeastern Regional Planning Commission at a hearing on the highway system. The traffic of 1980 will be the main topic up for discussion.

So we say, "thank you," to Mr. Smith of Wilbur Smith and Associates for telling us where our problems lie. Most of them we are already painfully aware of. The engineers say that by 1980 the western end of Shore Drive, Virginia Beach Boulevard, Great Neck Road, First Colonial Road, Bay Shore Road, and North Witch Duck Road will reach the stage of "critical overloading," and that Kempville Road and Holland Road will reach the stage of "overload." So the firm has recommended a way out, and it is an expensive one. It calls for 120 miles of improvements, to include ten new arteries, a freeway, as well as widening of 20 existing roads. To ease the cost factor, this is all recommended in a four stage program. The Federal Government will pay part of the bill, but not enough to remove it from the realm of probability of toll roads or new bond issues. And we might point out that neither the recommendations nor the cost include the $27 million Norfolk-Virginia Beach Toll Road or the proposed Sandbridge to North Carolina toll road.

The most immediate steps that we can look for to be taken will include the construction of Independence Boulevard from the Shore Drive to Virginia Beach Boulevard and to the Court House, and the extension of Rudee Boulevard over Rudee Inlet. Those two projects are already in the works anyway, and nearing the construction phase.

The shame of the entire matter, however, is that the needs are so great. So little in road improvements has been done in Virginia Beach in the past ten years. It has been practically impossible. All that has been able to be done is to keep up with all the new subdivisions and new streets therein. But here we are now, faced with critical needs and an astronomical price tag, just to meet the needs of anticipated traffic up to 1980. What then? Your guess is as good as ours. But we believe it is time now for the City to begin the planning stages for traffic patterns to 1990, 2000, and beyond. It would be a sad state of affairs if we are ever again faced with a mammoth need, such as we face now. Anyone who drives an automobile or is a passenger in one has seen many of these needs for years. But now we have a consulting engineer's report telling us all about it. Thank you, Mr. Smith . . .

More Pay For Teachers

We are proud to make note of the increase in the salaries of teachers in the city of Virginia Beach. A report released recently by the Virginia Education Association places Virginia Beach eighth in the state in the category of minimum starting salaries for the next school year. The $4600 figure is equal to that of Chesapeake and Portsmouth, and $200 above that of the City of Norfolk. In the metropolitan Tidewater area, only Hampton ($4800) and Newport News ($4775) are higher. The maximum that a teacher in the Virginia Beach school system, who holds only a Bachelor's Degree, can receive is $6650, (above Chesapeake, and just slightly below Portsmouth and Norfolk) Virginia Beach will be 11th in the state.

Our neighboring City of Norfolk has not seen its way clear this year to enact a pay hike for teachers. All of the other Tidewater Cities have.

Considering the number of years necessary to prepare a teacher for the classroom, and the additional study necessary to remaining a good teacher, the salary is still remarkably low. But lest we forget, great strides have been taken in the past ten years. In 1955 the starting salary in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach was $2650. In just ten years, the starting salary has nearly doubled. With the increased demands on the City school system, with the increase in the number of schools, and with the additional teachers needed to operate such a large school system, we find it doubly remarkable that the salaries have increased so much. With the salary reaching such a plateau, it becomes easier for the school officials to hold teachers in the profession, both men and women, and to continue to train an excellent staff for the schools.

We wish it were possible to say that Virginia Beach ranked first in the State in the minimum starting salary, but such is not the case. Nor will it be for many years to come. But, all facts considered, we are proud to rank eighth. All of the metropolitan areas of Virginia are facing many problems in keeping up with demands, and salaries must necessarily suffer for it, but we feel that Virginia Beach has taken another step forward in raising its starting salary for teachers $200 this year. And we feel that the school system in the City of Norfolk will suffer from its lack of increase and its falling behind its sister cities.

For More Painful Taxes

This year a great many income tax payers were stunned and angered by the fact that they owed more than they had expected when April 15 rolled around. The reason lies in the recent tax cut. As passed by Congress, the cut was spread over a two-year period. But the entire reduction in withholding was made at once. So, in innumerable instances, the sum withheld was well below the amount of the tax.

Now it is planned to readjust the withholding percentage, in order to make the income tax less painful. That may seem like a fine idea. But the Birmingham, Alabama, Post Herald views the matter very differently. It thinks the tax should be made more painful, rather than less so. Here is its reasoning:

"When taxes are withheld at the source, the money never really seems to belong to the individual involved. It is just a book-keeping transaction, in which funds pass from the employer directly to the Government."

"Taxes paid in cash, however, represent real money out of pocket. They stand for trips not taken, clothes not bought, appliances purchases postponed. And they tend to make a man look at what the Government is doing with his tax dollars."

"We have nothing against the withholding principle as such. But if Uncle Sam's tax bite doesn't hurt a little bit, you'll never realize it is YOUR money he is spending and you should."

The Post Herald might have something there!

--- AND IT'S JUST AROUND THE CORNER!

Graduation Time

Graduation time will soon come again. Armies of young people will venture out into what they hope will be an exciting and receptive world.

It will, for a certainty, be a world which is vastly different from that their forebears knew. It is troubled, complex, and restive. Its demands are enormous and implacable. Change takes place at a dizzying pace. The challenges are all but endless.

Yet, at the same time, it is a world of marvelous opportunity. New frontiers are constantly being opened — in industry, business, government, medicine, the physical sciences. In the space of a few years, more material progress has been made than in preceding centuries. And the future will bring more and greater wonders — all the way from homes of virtually incredible comfort and convenience to the landing of human beings on the moon.

The world will welcome the young people who will soon leave the schools and colleges. In return, it will ask much of them. It will, often, require skills that didn't even exist a comparatively short time ago. Above all, it will demand a willingness to keep on learning. For formal education is a beginning and not an end in itself.

One more thing may be said. Surrounded as we are by material abundance and achievement, it is easy to lose sight of the old spiritual virtues. But, without them, the world is essentially meaningless and empty. This is a truth that never changes — and a truth that, one profoundly hopes, our young people will not forget.

The high schools of Virginia Beach will be turning out another record number of graduates this year. Statistically, the city has an excellent record for the number of high school graduates who will go to college, stay there and graduate. This is a record we are most proud of. But what then?

After graduation from college, the majority of these young people can return to Virginia Beach. This is something that was not so even ten years ago. But today, Virginia Beach offers so many new opportunities in business and industry that it is no longer necessary to leave Virginia Beach, even for close-by cities, to seek fame and fortune. This is bound to improve even more in the years to come, through normal growth and attrition. The opportunities in the ever-growing large city of Virginia Beach are becoming more unlimited all the time.

To those soon to be graduates, both of high school and college, we wish you much success in your chosen fields, and hope that you will venture into the exciting and receptive world right here at Virginia Beach.

Now It's All As Clear As Milk

A few short weeks ago, when the Milk Commission and its price fixing controls were coming under fire from many quarters, we simply asked that a public hearing be held, promoted by an area-wide cooperation committee. We asked that the inner workings of the Commission be brought to light, and that citizens and organizations be allowed to express their wishes on the continuation of the Commission, both pro and con. We said at that time we were not at all certain that the State Milk Commission should continue to exist, and that all we wanted to know were the facts, so that all of us could make the decision . . . abolish or continue.

Well, the hearing was held under the auspices of the cooperation committee, and citizens and groups did present their views. Some of the inner workings of the Commission were told. We got what we asked for, but that's all.

Now that the pros and cons have been presented, the subject is just as clear as milk. Some want to do away with the Commission. Some want to continue the controls. Others want it modified. Several proposals were presented, ranging from complete abdication to stricter control. And we still do not know how we feel about it. Probably the major reason we still cannot make up our minds is that it is now up to the commission to decide whether they will get out or not. This we do believe is wrong. If the majority of citizens and informed groups and organizations say the Commission must go, we feel it should go. When all the facts are presented and the consensus is that the Commission is no longer needed, we feel it should be up to the people who have established this public opinion. But the way it is now, the State Milk Commission has the final say. It has now gone back to Richmond to deliberate, and will eventually make up its collective mind whether it will leave Tidewater or not. If it does not choose to go, it does not have to. This we believe is wrong in a capitalistic society in a democratic republic, based almost completely upon the right to compete.

But as far as the question of controls is concerned, to us, it is still a question. Some excellent arguments were presented at the public hearing, on both sides. Some were extremely biased and without foundation. But it is still completely impossible for the general public to make up its mind on the subject. Not enough of the facts of the need for the Milk Commission have yet come to light.

As a post script, however, we have made up our minds on one part of the question. It did come to light at the hearing that more than likely some sort of control is going to remain in effect, be it State or Federal. So, if it must remain, we would prefer that this too, does not become another function of the Federal government. If controls must stay, thank you, we'll take them from the State.

COMMUNISM — THEIR DEFINITION!

It is more than nineteen hundred years since Jesus of Nazareth was cruelly scourged and his tortured body nailed to a cross of wood. And yet, the message of Christianity, in a driving dynamic faith, it possesses all of the passion and fervor that we normally associate with the early Christian church. Men, equally dedicated to their "religion," fill the ranks of the Communist legions and their belief in the "holiness" of Communism closely parallels, the faith of the disciples. But Communism's fundamental tenet, its first principle, is atheism.

The eventual victory of Communism over the "decadent forces of Capitalism" is a foregone conclusion to the Marxist. He firmly believes that Karl Marx, the modern day founder of Communism, proved this beyond any reasonable doubt in his "doctrine of opposites." This doctrine, simply stated, attempts to prove that everything contains two main opposing forces. Marx called one the thesis and the other antithesis. The thesis and the antithesis are in a constant state of conflict and eventually destroy each other. Out of the destruction of the opposing forces a new force arises which is called the synthesis. Eventually the synthesis splits into opposites and new thesis and antithesis is born. From the clash of the new opposing forces, a new synthesis arises.

Using history for an example we can turn to societies where the King was the supreme law of the land. Let us call him the "thesis." The men held by the King in bondage or slavery are the antithesis. The conflict between these two opposing forces leads to the formation of a synthesis or a new form of government—in this case feudalism. Feudalism, then divided into two opposing forces, the suzerain (lords) and the serfs; and the synthesis of this struggle led to the creation of capitalism. In our time, the Marxist claims that employers and workers are the thesis and antithesis of modern day capitalism. From the synthesis of this struggle will be born a new society—Marxian Communism.

The Communist argues that each new society is the superior of its predecessor. This "class struggle" will cease only when Communism is the dominant society. For under Communism there is only one class—the proletariat or working class. In this classless society the state will wither away as man's "fundamental goodness" will preclude the need for centralized authority. All the means of production will be owned collectively by the "people" and the "individual" will be rewarded, for his endeavors, on the principle "from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs."

Next Week: Communism—In Reality!

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

PARENTAL IMAGE

Throughout the ages, the young ones have looked to their parents for guidance and direction in choosing their way of life. Too often this pattern followed has done little to improve the behavior pattern of some members of the succeeding generations. "A chip off the old block" and rings a bell. It either dolefully peals out a conviction or jubilantly announces a great event.

Must we be told, that the parents and grandparents are the very ones who are responsible for the interpretation of the bell's message? How often have we taken a retrospective view of the past and discovered our head-aches right in our own image? We can, if we will, do something to improve on the past of the bell. We can help nourish youth's spiritual being.

"If a picture is worth a thousand words, an example is worth a thousand lectures. Let's give youth wholesome examples to live by. They can't be fooled; but they can be trained."

Dear Sir:

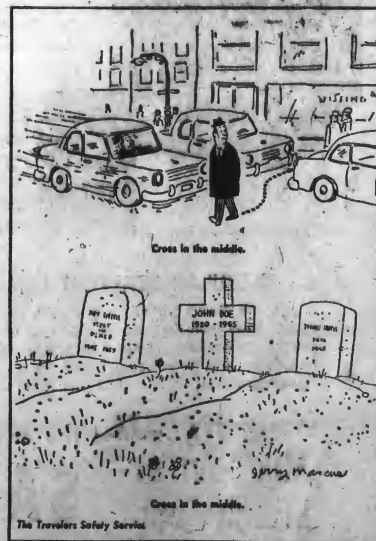

The article, "Resort Was Silver Lining to Tourist" in your issue dated May 6, 1965, was, indeed, a tribute to Mr. Capps and his capable staff at the Thunderbird Motel, as well as to Officer Perez.

It goes without saying that this sort of courtesy and friendliness is what builds up a community and helps bring in the tourist dollar which is so vital to the economy of our city and to our state.

The Virginia Travel Council has advocated this among their members and have crusaded for this sort of visitor treatment for years. It is hard to measure this act of consideration in dollars and cents, but it travels the length and breadth of our land and as time goes by, may mean the difference between success and failure.

Sincerely yours,
H. J. Jaffe

By GORDON BASKIN

I go to the movies from time to time, but not as often as I once did. This lack of attendance has nothing to do with time available, since I used to go to the flicks when I was supposed to be doing something else, like working. What keeps me away from the popcorn factories nowadays is the kind of movies I see all too often.

Lots of critics state that the movies are too full of sex, sadism and satire. I do not buy this, but not the middle. I don't go because I'm sick and tired of getting a worm's eye view of poverty and the hard life after I've paid a buck to be entertained. I've had enough of having too little money and I sure remember that poverty bill, having been brought up during a time now referred to as the "great depression". Thanks a lot, Mr. Zanuck, but spare me the story with the moral about the value of hard work and saving your money.

Over the year, I'd rather spend my time in the movies being entertained by pictures of a very large number of pretty girls, as scantily clad as the local bluesmen will allow, cavorting about in a plot that only pretends to take your cares away for a couple of hours.

Very few people remember the weekly serial. Things like the "Perils of Pauline" are even a few days before my time, but I still get the chills when I remember Tarzan swinging through the jungle to rescue Jane from some fate worse than death. I saw them on Saturday afternoons for a dime, and lemme tell you I wouldn't have missed one for the world.

Easy to see that I was born a little late in this century, since I am not one for paying money to get a social message about the cares of this cruel world. If I need to bleed a little, all I have to do is read tomorrow morning's front page.

Understand me? Next time you've seen a movie without a message aimed to reform me and that was made late one afternoon by a bunch of kooks merely to entertain the people, call me up. I'll appreciate it the most. If it really swings, I'll spring for the tickets.

The date was July 17, 1639. The order came from the Justices of the County Court which met at Linhaven. The reason was to march against the Nanticoke Indians. The order stated that each man was to be provided with 2 lbs. of shot, 2 lbs. of powder, 40 lbs. of bisquette and half a bushel of peas. HUNTING SEASONS AND LIMITS

RICHMOND — The Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries made only minor changes in the proposed hunting seasons and limits for this fall and winter following their final hearing in Richmond May 7. The most pronounced change was the reinstatement of the Route 29 — Route 151 dividing line for deer season in Amherst and Nelson Counties. The original proposal that both counties be included in their entirety in the two-week western season prompted vigorous protests from land owners and sportsmen in the eastern half of these two counties. Dropping these from the season and bag limit proposals restored the east-west season dividing line of last year, and the eastern half of the two counties will have last year's bag limit of two deer per license year, either sex on the last 5 hunting days.

The deer season west of the Blue Ridge and in Amherst, Campbell, and Nelson Counties will be November 15 through January 31. East of the Blue Ridge, the season will be November 15 through January 31. The bag limit will be one deer per license year, either sex on the first day only with the exception of Montgomery County where bucks only may be taken.

The remaining east of the Blue Ridge Counties will have a November 15 through January 5 deer season except in the Dismal Swamp Area where Legislative seasons prevail. The bag limit will be two deer per license year, one of which may be a doe in Caroline, Essex, Isle of Wight, King George, King and Queen, King William, Lancaster, Namewood, Northumberland, Richmond, Southampton, Surry, Sussex and Westmoreland Counties and in Chesapeake and Virginia Beach cities.

The northern counties of Albemarle, Culpeper, Fairfax, Fauquier, Greene east of Route 29, Loudoun, Louisa, Madison east of Route 29, Orange, Prince William, Rappahannock, Spotsylvania and Stafford will have a bag limit of one deer per license year with either sex shooting permitted on the first day only. The remaining eastern Virginia counties (except Northampton which is closed) will have a bag limit of two bucks per license year.

Small game season west of the Blue Ridge will begin November 1 and end January 31. East of the Blue Ridge, the season will be November 15 through January 31. The bag limit will be one squirrel per license year, either sex on the first day only with the exception of Montgomery County where bucks only may be taken.

The statewide bear season will be November 15 through January 5 with Legislative Act seasons in Southwest Virginia and in the Dismal Swamp Area remaining as they were last year. Bear hunting will not be permitted on the National Forests or on Commission owned lands until November 15 and does may not be used to hunt bears on these lands until November 29.

A turkey season beginning November 1 and ending December 15 was approved for Alleghany, Augusta, Bath, Botetourt, Craig, Frederick, Giles, Highland, Montgomery, Roanoke, Rockbridge, Rockingham and Shenandoah Counties. A December 15 — January 15 season will be in effect for counties of Albemarle, Amelia, Amherst, Appomattox, Bedford, Brunswick, Campbell, Caroline, Charlotte, Chesterfield, Cumberland, Dinwiddie, Fauquier, Fluvanna, Goochland, Halifax, King and Queen, Louisa, Lunenburg, Nelson, New Kent, Nottoway, Orange, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Prince George, Prince William, Spotsylvania and Stafford Counties. The bag limit will be one turkey per day, two per license year, either sex except that only gobblers may be taken in Cumberland and New Kent Counties, the latter having a one per season limit. Pittsylvania will have its usual November 15 — January 31 Legislative season with a bag limit of one gobbler per day, 2 per license year.

The Commission proposed at this meeting to further amend the regulation relative to hunting deer with dogs to make it unlawful to hunt deer with dogs in Fairfax County. They also proposed that the new 1,143-acre John Flanagan Reservoir in Dickenson County be closed to fishing until July 1, 1966, to allow newly stocked fish to reach desirable size. Threadfin shad, white bass and walleyes have been stocked to date and additional stockings of largemouth and smallmouth bass and muskellunge are planned in June and July. Both of these proposals will be given final consideration at the next meeting of the Commission at the Americana Inn, Virginia Beach, on June 19 beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Would you like to learn how to make pretty things? Are you secretly envious of persons who seem to have a special talent or ability to make unusual and original decorative items for their homes and for parties? Virginia Hendrickson found the answer for you on the West Coast during a duty stay with her husband, George, who has since retired here after 25 years of service with the U.S. Army.

"Anything they can do in California, we can do here in Virginia Beach!" is her vowed explanation and reason for opening VIRGINIA'S HOBBIES-CRAFTS & GIFTS shop on 25th street, next door to the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce office.

Living near Los Angeles was a stimulating experience, and the fifteen months spent there were filled with places to go, things to be seen, and the learning of new hobbies and crafts. One in particular, the floral crafts and resin hobbies, fascinated her with its wide range of possibilities, needing only simple tools and ordinary materials to make unusual and original creations. Day and night she and George attended classes learning everything possible about this art. Now they are prepared to pass this knowledge on to everyone who is interested — young or old, male or female.

Classes will be given at VIRGINIA'S HOBBIES-CRAFTS & GIFTS shop both during the day-time hours and at night. You will learn the innumerable ways resins (a liquid which hardens to make a glass-like plastic) may be incorporated with dried marbles, petrified woods, gravel, and other materials to make beautiful lamps, unusual wall plaques, hot plate stands, or any decorative item. Life-like flowers may be made from ribbons, paper cups, feathers, and for very little expense.

"Creative talent is not required," explains Virginia, "learning how is the secret" . . . and she has booklets and pamphlets with patterns and instructions on ways to make just about anything. She keeps a good supply of all necessary materials on hand also.

Virginia wants you to learn how satisfying making your own personal items can be. But her desire for you to have pretty decorations whenever the occasion demands goes beyond teaching. You are often faced with the problem of creating special decorations and centerpieces for birthdays and showers and parties. And after all your worry and your hard work, you have no further use for it after the party is over! She can lift this burden from you. In her shop you will find available for renting any type of decoration or centerpiece or party favor you may need.

Blanko hand-blown glassware is on sale at her shop as well as other gift items you may desire.

VIRGINIA HOBBIES-CRAFTS & GIFTS will take care of everything . . . you may learn from Virginia, you may rent from Virginia, and you may buy from Virginia.

Her shop is open now. Stop in to see her, or give her a call at 428-1355. She is an old friend with all sorts of new ideas for you . . .

CARRIERS SELECT CANDIDATE

VIRGINIA BEACH — Miss Brenda Hope Hatroll, 16-year-old student at Kellam High school, has been selected to represent the National Association of Letter Carriers, Branch 2819, as a Lotus Queen candidate in the annual Lotus Festival scheduled in July.

George Main, vice president of the local branch, has announced her picture will be displayed throughout the area along with the penny-vote boxes.

Field Day Stresses Speed . . . Speed . . . More Speed

The Olympics could scarcely cause more excitement than John B. Day Elementary School's annual Field Day last Friday at Cox Stadium. SPEED was the key word as youngsters strained to win for their class in various events. Sometimes they were almost a blur as they ran the 50-yard dash (as in the first picture); sometimes they ran right out of their shoes in the shuttle-run (see circle in second picture); and sometimes it took the very last ounce of strength to get over the line to win the 600. But it was fun. This was one of many eliminations that preceded today's city-wide Field Day at Cox Stadium, sponsored by the City Recreation Department. (Photo by Phillips)

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

The other day Grandad read an account in our newspaper about the miraculous speed of a B-58 bomber. He contrasted this accomplishment with the experience in his youth when he spotted his first airplane five miles outside of town—and then rode a bicycle into town in time to see the plane circling the capitol building.

It seems incredible the technological advances mankind has made in the past fifty years. Men who rode to Sunday School by horse and buggy as boys, today follow the flight of astronauts on TV. Their wives do the family laundry with the twist of a dial, and their grandchildren learn Algebra from programmed textbooks.

One unchanging fact remains. Man still needs God as the center and circumference of his life. And the Church, as God's expression, remains constant in the teaching of His Truth.

ALL FOR THE CHURCH THE CHURCH FOR ALL

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are five sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

GARDEN TRANSPLANTS

Transplanting of tomatoes, peppers, and eggplants is under way in Virginia.

Stems of tomato plants should be thick as a lead pencil, about eight inches tall, and have a good deep green color. Spindly, top plants break easily and become sunburned after setting in the field.

If flowers are already present, or if some fruit are set, the plants will not grow rapidly when put in the field and overall yield will be reduced. Removal of flowers and any fruit present eliminates early fruiting, but will increase late yield. (You may wish to set a few plants with fruit already set to try for a few early tomatoes.)

When setting transplants, dig your hole deep enough so the soil level is just below the lower leaves. A cupful of water containing starter solution should be poured around the roots, and if cutworms are present, chlordane can be included with the starter solution. You can make starter solution by dissolving two tablespoons of 10-52-17 or 10-40-10 fertilizer in a gallon of water.

Newly set tomato plants are often attacked by flea beetles and potato bugs. All transplants should be dusted or sprayed immediately after setting to obtain maximum protection from these pests.

Field setting of transplants should be done in the evening to obtain best results. Plants set during the heat of the day may survive, but do not become established as rapidly as those set in the evening—because of being exposed several hours to hot, dry conditions before roots become established.

Gardeners are offered cucumbers, muskmelon, and watermelon transplants in peat moss pots. If grown correctly, these plants produce early and heavy yields and are worth the cost of the plants. Most vine crops should be two to three weeks old when transplanted.

Care should be taken to use and store pesticides safely. Read the label, and follow directions for best results.

CENSUS TAKEN

VIRGINIA BEACH — Information on the extent to which workers in the United States hold more than one job will be obtained in the Bureau of the Census Current Population Survey in May, according to Joseph R. Norwood Director of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte, N.C.

The Census Bureau interviewer who will visit families in this area is Mrs. Audrey L. Hayden.

BROTHERHOOD FORMED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Formation of a Lutheran Brotherhood local beach at Emmanuel Lutheran church has been announced by Carl F. Granrud, chairman of the board of directors and chief executive of Lutheran Brotherhood, fraternal insurance society.

Members from the church council have been constituted as the branch. Officers are Wade J. Duke, Jr., president; F. K. Stone, vice president; Donald J. Beck, secretary and John M. Hands, treasurer.

The Rev. A. Price is pastor of the church.

Total Inquiries Break Record

VIRGINIA BEACH — A record-breaking annual total of 62,202 inquiries from prospective travelers were processed by the Ocean Hiway Association during the fiscal year ending April 30, 1965.

The 1964-65 mail count more than doubled the inquiry volume for 1963-64, according to Roy A. Stevens, president of the non-profit association that promotes travel on the north-south Ocean Hiway.

The 62,202 inquiry total included 39,506 keyed responses traceable directly to specific advertisements placed in newspapers and other media. The remaining 22,696 inquiries resulted from news stories and miscellaneous promotion efforts, including advertising responses that could not be pinpointed to specific media.

A preliminary survey made through random sampling contacts of prospective travelers who wrote to the Ocean Hiway Association indicate that a large percentage of the inquiries actually traveled the Ocean Hiway during the 1964-65 season. A large number of the inquiries since January 1 also represent prospects who plan to vacation during the summer and later in 1965.

"The 62,202 mail count includes only the servicing of requests for map folders and other Ocean Hiway literature that came from individuals," Stevens said. "It does not account for hundreds of bulk literature requests that were serviced by the Association for a u.t.o.m.o.b.i.l.e. clubs, travel bureaus, and other agencies. Neither does it include releases to news media, membership newsletters, or correspondence other than answers to tourist inquiries."

"The 1964-65 advertising and promotion campaign was the most successful in the history of the Ocean Hiway Association," according to M. Bishop Alexander, chairman of the organization's Advertising Committee. "While advertising rates have continuously increased through the years, the Ocean Hiway advertising for 1964-65 produced a lower inquiry cost than in any previous season during the past 17 years."

MISS HALL SELECTED

BLACKSBURG — Elizabeth Hall, a student at Frank W. Cox High School, is among the successful applicants for Virginia Tech's six-week summer mathematics program for high school students.

The program will cover the field of mathematics, statistics and computers. It is designed for students who will return to high school this fall as seniors.

The Mixing Bowl

It's Fun To Cook

CELEBRATE 'MAY IS SALAD MONTH' TOSS A SALAD

In spring and summer months, appetites are sparked by thoughts of cool, crisp salads. This western iceberg lettuce and tarragon French dressing salad is a French favorite. Served with a good "soft" cheese and crusty bread with fruit for dessert, it forms the basis for a family-style meal. The simple dressing of three parts oil to one part vinegar, a soupcon of salt, pepper, and tarragon is perfect for western iceberg lettuce. The French recommended rubbing a wooden bowl with garlic before putting in the dressing and lettuce, and then adding a light sprinkling of fresh tarragon leaves. Serve crisp western iceberg lettuce the French way. You'll like it.

Lettuce With Tarragon French Dressing (Makes 6 servings)

- 1 medium head western iceberg lettuce
- 2 clove garlic, split
- 1/2 cup corn oil
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar

One lettuce; wash in cold water and drain well. Place in plastic bag or wrap in transparent plastic wrap; refrigerate. Rub wooden salad bowl with garlic. Add oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, and tarragon to bowl. Let stand one hour, or longer, at room temperature. Tear lettuce into bowl; toss to coat with dressing.

SPICED PEACH SALAD

- 1 large jar whole spiced peaches (drained)
 - 1 pkg. lemon gelatin
 - 1 cup hot water
 - 1/2 cup peach juice
 - 1/2 cup cream cheese
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup nuts, finely chopped
- Dissolve gelatin in hot water; add peach juice. Let cool. Mix cream cheese with cream, lemon juice and nuts. Remove seeds from peaches and stuff them with cheese mixture; place in individual molds. Fill molds with gelatin. Chill until firm.

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALAD

- 2 pkts. lime gelatin
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1 cup pineapple juice
 - 1/2 cup crushed pineapple (drained)
 - 1 pint sour cream
 - 1 cup miniature marshmallows
 - 1/2 cup maraschino cherries, cut
 - 1/2 cup nuts, chopped
- Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add pineapple juice and cool. Add drained crushed pineapple and sour cream. Fold in marshmallows, cherries and nuts. Chill until firm.

TOMORROW'S SALAD

- 2 eggs, beaten
- dash salt
- 1/2 cup sugar

The low-headed youngster is visiting this area on his way to New York City, where he is making the march; Sgt. Sawyer is being escorted by a U.S. Marine. TEEN TOPICS

By Carolyn R. Pettibone

Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

Most people will agree that beauty is more than skin deep. Nice looking skin, however, can contribute greatly towards making you look more attractive. Fifteen minutes every day devoted to your skin will add to your complexion beauty. You should remember, though, that complexion beauty comes not only from good care of the skin but also from correct eating, the right amount of physical exercise and rest, from plenty of fresh air and sunshine and from a happy, contented frame of mind.

In order for your skin to be lovely, you need to regularly clean, oil and protect it. Skin is usually classified in four categories — dry, oily, combination and normal. The different types of skin require different care.

If you have dry skin you should wash your face every night with warm water, using a mild soap and clean cloth. Avoid using very hot water. One the first soaping, use your hands to work up a lather into your face and neck. Rinse this off and apply a second soaping, then rinse the second soaping off with your hands or a clean cloth. Rinse your face for at least 1/2 a minute, letting the water grow colder and colder. Then dry your skin well. After you have washed your face, cover it with dry skin cream. Face cream removes dirt and make-up and it helps to soften the skin. Use a light, upward motion in applying the cream, since the message you use will help stimulate and tone your skin.

If you have oily skin special care is needed to keep your skin fresh and feminine. Excess oil on the face looks dirty. Each night before bed scrub face with lukewarm water and a soap with astringent qualities. Work up a lather, and then rinse with as cold water as you can stand. Wash your face frequently and apply you should treat each area separately. Use a soap lather on the face make-up every four hours.

If you have combination skin, some dry and some oily areas, oily areas several times a day but only once daily on the dry areas. Sponge your entire face with warm water and rinse with splashes of cold water.

If you have normal skin you should use a creamy cleanser to float away make-up. Wash your face with a mild soap when getting up and going to bed. Then rinse and pat dry.

If you combine proper skin care with correct eating, physical exercise and rest, you can look forward to having a more beautiful complexion.

CITY HOSTS VISITING DEEJAY

VIRGINIA BEACH — The city played host Friday to a top New York radio personality who will extol the virtues of Virginia in daily spot announcements over a 13-week period.

WMCA Disc Jockey Joe O'Brien and his wife, Margaret, took a tour of Virginia Beach, and other Tidewater areas, so that he would have a more complete picture of the word descriptions he will give over the air.

His trip was hosted by James Barnes III, advertising and public relations director for the Virginia Department of Conservation & Development, and the City of Virginia Beach.

The O'Briens were met at the airport Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Laura Lamb of the city's News Bureau, and Chamber of Commerce President A. B. Crews.

The group first visited the Norfolk Botanical Gardens then out to the first island on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Their next stop was at Cape Henry where they viewed the Memorial Cross, marking the site of the first landing by English settlers, and the oldest government built lighthouse.

After checking in at the Americana Motor Lodge, the O'Briens motored down Atlantic Avenue, through various residential areas and made stops at the Norwegian Lady Statue and the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center.

They were entertained Friday night at the Bay Harbour Club. O'Brien will turn the spotlight on Virginia with 60 second spot announcements during his 4-hour morning show over WMCA, five days a week for 13 weeks.

LITTLE THEATRE PLANS AMBITIOUS NEW SEASON

VIRGINIA BEACH — Ambitious plans for the 1965-66 season were unveiled at the annual membership meeting of the Virginia Beach Little Theatre held last Sunday evening at the Courtyard Playhouse.

The Playhouse, for the first time in its history, will open the season in October with a Broadway musical, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off." The production will play for twelve performances on four weekends in October.

The four remaining shows will play for five performances on two weekends and have been scheduled as follows: "Silent Night, Lonely Night"—Dec. 3, 4, 5, 10, 11; "Night of the Igloo"—Feb. 4, 5, 6, 11, 12; "Life with Father"—April 15, 16, 17, 22, 23; and "See How They Run"—June 3, 4, 5, 10, and 11.

The Theatre will continue to use the talents of guest directors. Selected for the new season are Penny Martin with Bill Boyd, Liz Sills, Angela Walker, Bill Britton, and Chi Chi Lively.

A view of the progress of the past two years in the Little Theatre's new location was given by Anne Henry, membership chairman.

The following evening, Monday, the new board of directors elected the officers for the new season to be Charles Warburton, president; Anne Henry, vice president; Chi Chi Lively, corresponding secretary; Shirley Fentress, recording secretary; and Herbert Harrell, treasurer. Serving on the Board for the coming year in addition to the officers are past president Bill Britton, Sam Hakim, Tom Parker, Foy Shaw, John Haffling, Maynard Allen, Neal Thomas, Ruth Drew, Bob Furniss, Angela Walker, Penny Martin, Anne Penington, and Gwen Kiser.

A city-wide telephone campaign to solicit season and patron subscriptions will be held on May 24 and 25. A season ticket for the five performances will be $9.00; a pair of patron's tickets will be $25.00. These may be purchased through P. O. Box 1053, or at Hofheimers on Laskin Road.

NEW PASTOR

KEMPSPVILLE — Father Flavian Velinko became pastor of St. Gregory the Great Catholic Church Tuesday. He formerly was pastor of Queen of the World Church in St. Marys.

SEASIDE PARK OPENS FRIDAY

VIRGINIA BEACH — Seaside Amusement Park will throw open its gates on Friday, for its 62nd consecutive season. One of the South's oldest seaside amusement parks, it will present a face which, while not entirely new, has been uplifted for 1965.

For one thing, the ballroom and the bathhouse will have separate entrances (in the past one combined gateway has admitted both the devotees of terpsichore and Neptune). The ballroom will accommodate more dancers than ever before. The dancing space has been doubled in size, and there is more room for spectators.

The ride area has undergone some attractive improvements; two of the lesser kiddie rides have been eliminated in favor of a new whip ride for both children and adults, with eight cars and a capacity of 16 persons per ride.

When the park opens Friday, it will be on a full-scale basis, with bathhouse, ballroom, rides, amusement and refreshment concessions all open, and another big schedule of free acts soon to be announced.

It also will be under the direction of an experienced staff of veterans. Miss Eleanor Duquet, general manager, is beginning her 23d year at Seaside Park and Herbert Gallop, general superintendent and ride foreman, also boasts a tenure of similar length. Herbert Wolf, superintendent of restaurants, refreshment stands and the ballroom and bathhouse, has been with the company for a number of years.

There is no admission charge to Seaside Amusement Park.

Evans Again Ad Club Pres.

NORFOLK — NEWPORT NEWS — At a luncheon meeting held at the Monticello Hotel in Norfolk today, the Advertising Club of Norfolk elected James W. Evans as President of the organization, the first time in the history of the Advertising Club that a president has been asked to serve two terms.

"MASQUERADE" SPY THRILLER AT PRINCESS

"A fast-moving spy thriller with hilarious comic overtones" is the way Victor Canning's novel "Castle Minerva" is described, and when the celebrated team of Michael Relph and Basil Dearden set about to make the movie version of it, called "Masquerade," they kept those same enjoying qualities in the film.

"Masquerade" co-stars Cliff Robertson, Jack Hawkins and

GREAT NECK — This Friday and Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Frank W. Cox High School Auditorium the Broadway musical "Once Upon A Mattress" will be presented by the combined talent from the drama and music departments. This modern interpretation of the age old fairy tale of the "Princess and the Pea" includes humorous satire on contemporary society.

The scene is laid in a medieval country ruled by a talkative queen and a mute king. Marianne Andersen plays the amusing role of Queen Aggravain, a domineering wife and mother. Mike Rasnick is well cast in the comic role of the mute King Sextimus the Silent. Vicki Bartusik plays the lead role of Princess Winifred, the "Weebegone" who travels to the castle to sue for the hand of Prince Dauntless the Drab. Rik Sullivan portrays the prince who is shielded by his mother.

To complicate matters, the lovers, Lady Larken and Sir Harry, have problems keeping their marriage a secret. The lovers, Jackie White and Fred Behning, are aided by the Minstrel and the Jester. Hugh Williams displays his singing and

THE THREE RING CIRCUS is a rather rundown group, the star of which is the gorgeous bareback rider played by Vienna's sparkling Marisa Mell. Miss Mell was particularly well adapted for the role because she is, in fact, a noted horsewoman.

The young Arab prince in "Masquerade," whose kidnapping leads to the high jinx in the picture, is portrayed by England's Christopher Witty, a fourteen-year-old who is already a veteran of nine years in pictures.

PUGGY

MAY I HAVE THE TWO APPLES IN THE REFRIGERATOR, PLEASE?

YES, PUGGY.

I'M SO GLAD YOU SAID "YES!"

WHY? ARE YOU HUNGRY?

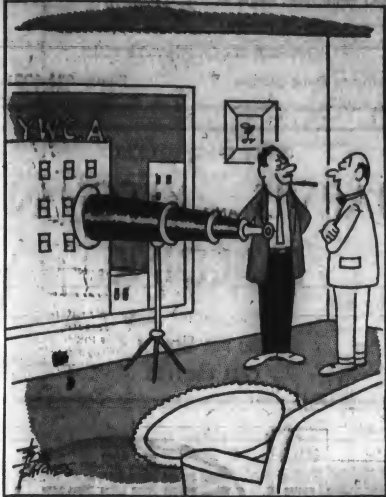

NO! BUT I'VE EATEN THEM ALREADY!

AMERICA'S MOST LOVEABLE LADDER

THE THREE RING CIRCUS is a rather rundown group, the star of which is the gorgeous bareback rider played by Vienna's sparkling Marisa Mell. Miss Mell was particularly well adapted for the role because she is, in fact, a noted horsewoman.

The young Arab prince in "Masquerade," whose kidnapping leads to the high jinx in the picture, is portrayed by England's Christopher Witty, a fourteen-year-old who is already a veteran of nine years in pictures.

ENTER TO SERVE-STAY TO LEARN

LITTLE CREEK — "Enter to Learn — Stay to Serve" is a familiar phrase about the U.S. Naval Amphibious Base at Little Creek, Va. A new phrase, not replacing the original one, is currently being heard at the U.S. Naval Amphibious School on the base.

"Enter to Serve — Stay to Learn." This phrase applies to the permanent duty officers who enter the school to serve and at the same time are taking part in a bi-weekly commanding officer's conference held at the school.

Captain H. H. deLaurel, commanding officer of the school, originated the conference, and signed the school instruction which states the purpose of the hour long conferences. That is, "The subject matter will be of a nature that is of interest to the recipients or that pertains to the mission of the school, amphibious operations, the armed forces or the nation. The material will be current, timely, controversial and challenging."

Of the seven departments at the school, six actually participate on a rotational basis in arranging speakers for the conferences.

Speakers are chosen from the school, other military activities and civilian organizations.

The objectives of the conference are to stimulate and improve interdepartmental relations, raise moral, prestige and the level of performance at the school.

4-H Activities and Events

C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"Consideration is the soil in which wisdom may be expected to grow, and strength be given to every upspringing plant of duty." — Emerson

Hello folks! With summer coming on, more of the 4-H Club members will be thinking about recreation at the Club meetings and other activities. With this in mind, I should like to relate to you means for making recreation more fun and more meaningful.

The Value of Games

"Games at Club meetings help to break down barriers of emotion, age, and social position. The shy boy often loses his shyness, and the slow boy may not be so conspicuous as to feel uncomfortable. The real qualities of a boy may come to the surface."

"Fun developed through recreation helps to bind individuals and groups together. Some members find that they excel in certain stunts, such as tossing a ball of tying knots, or in quiz games, and this gives them a feeling of satisfaction in being noticed by the group. This approval in the eyes of others is desirable and very important to the growth of personality and development of more self-assurance among the boys and girls of a community."

How to Teach Games

Teaching games properly is as important as planning them, because an enthusiastic approach is necessary to the success of recreation. In acquainting a group with games, the leader should keep in mind such considerations as the following:

(1) Know the game yourself and have the necessary equipment ready for the group; (2) Gain the attention of the group in a friendly but enthusiastic manner; (3) Name the game, then explain it briefly, clearly using the demonstration method if possible; (4) Feel free to modify the game to suit the group and the time and space available; (5) Teach the game, one step at a time, and, if necessary, stop while explaining a game to answer questions; (6) Stop playing the game while the players are still enjoying it and want more; (7) Play the game yourself, or observe the others with a sincere interest in their results."

Remember! Put more planned recreation into your 4-H program and everything you do will seem like more fun. Contact the Extension Office for more information on recreation and recreation planning.

LEGAL OFFICERS MEET

FORT STORY — The April meeting of the Tidewater Area Armed Forces Legal Officers was held recently at the Fort Story Officers' Open Mess. The group was composed of legal officers from all branches of the military assigned to the Tidewater Area.

Hosts for the luncheon were Lieutenant Colonel Earl M. Bradley, Staff Judge Advocate of Fort Eustis, Va., and First Lieutenant Patrick J. Milmos, Judge Advocate of Fort Story. Guest of honor at the meeting was Mr. Stanley C. Phillips, Acting City Attorney for the city of Virginia Beach.

The following military representatives were also present: Colonel William G. Easton, Judge Advocate of Fort Monroe; Colonel Thomas W. Isabell, of the Tactical Air Command Headquarters, Langley Field; Captain Rowland F. Schlegel of the Fifth Naval District; and Colonel Donald M. Davis of the 4th Transportation Terminal Command, Fort Eustis, Va.

Following the luncheon an amphibious demonstration was conducted by the 10th Transportation Battalion for the group.

LINCOLN MERCURY COMET

Shipyard Needs Students

PORTSMOUTH — The Naval Shipyard will employ a limited number of college students for summer work, Hervy L. Gray, employment division head, said today.

Gray said that applications are being accepted from students in engineering and science who have had at least one year of college work will be eligible for pay at the rate of $3680 a year; two years, $4005 a year; and three years, $4480 a year. High school graduates are not eligible for this program.

Summer student employees will be assigned to various departments of the Shipyard and will work with engineers and technicians. Persons in college in the physical sciences may be assigned to work with chemists, metallurgists, physicists or mathematicians.

Gray pointed out that college students who have either parent employed by the Navy Department are not eligible for summer employment in a Navy activity under recent regulations issued by the U.S. Civil Service Commission. He invited eligible college students to file application Form 57 with the shipyard employment office, 3rd and Edwards Streets, Portsmouth.

Forms may be obtained from the shipyard, Virginia Employment Commission or the Norfolk Post Office.

4-H CLUB WINNERS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three Virginia Beach 4-H Club members were blue award winners at the Southeastern Virginia District Demonstration Contest held in Petersburg, Virginia recently. Ruth Anne Oliver placed first in the Dress Revue, Stephanie Pecek placed first in the Foods and Nutrition Demonstration Contest, and Mary Bungard placed second in the Clothing Demonstration Contest.

All three girls will represent Virginia Beach and the Southeastern District at State 4-H Short Course, Blacksburg, Va. Other club members representing Virginia Beach at the District Demonstration Contest were Carol Brotherton (red ribbon winner in Home Ground Beautification), Sharon Kelly (white award winner in Public Speaking), and Jim Kelly (white ribbon winner in Public Speaking).

Girls Say Boys Pick On Them

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a real problem for you. My problem is boys. A couple of boys in my room are always getting after my girlfriend and me. We hate these boys and have told them so, yet they still keep pick-on us. We tell them to pick on someone else, but they say they are allergic to other girls. How can we get them off our minds? We hate them all."

OUR REPLY: Many of your schoolmates would probably be happy to exchange places with you. More often the complaint of teenage girls is that they get no attention at all from boys. Actually, the boys are not allergic to other girls. They are really "picking on you." They are just trying for attention and, because they are just boys, they get this attention by teasing you and your girlfriend. You shouldn't hate them for it. They probably don't tease you because they dislike you; instead it is because they like you... otherwise they would pay you no attention. If they "picked on" girls just for the fun of it, they would give their attention to other girls as well.

You and your girlfriend can adjust to their teasing. Begin by recognizing that it is done good-naturedly. Do not let them know that it annoys you so much. Ignore them if you wish — but don't tell them that you hate them. This only brings on more teasing, whatever their purpose. The best way to stop their attention, if you want to stop them, is to convince them that they are just wasting their time.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to THE ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND BUSINESS PRESS SERVICE, TRANSPORT, N.Y.

MOTHER HELD AT GUNPOINT AS MEN BURGLARIZE HOME

BIRDNECK ACRES — A 28-year-old Birdneck Acres housewife and mother of three was held at gunpoint for about 45 fearful minutes early Saturday morning while two burglars searched her home for valuables.

Police said that Mrs. Angela M. Nonnie of 1228 Blue Bird Drive was awakened, about 4 A.M. by a bright flashlight beam in her face. She found two men, estimated to be in their early twenties, standing over her bed.

One of the men told the frightened woman to lay face down, which she did, and demanded a diamond bracelet they claimed to have seen her wearing. Mrs. Nonnie told them she didn't own such a bracelet. They rattled off several facts about her and her family, all of which were incorrect.

"We must have the wrong house," one of the men said to his companion, the woman told police.

Mrs. Nonnie pleaded with the men not to harm her three sleeping children. They promised to leave the youngsters alone but one continued to hold a gun on the mother while the other man searched the house, police said.

They reportedly took a jewelry box and a diamond ring of undetermined value and about $230 from a wallet. Before leaving, they cut the telephone wires so that Mrs. Nonnie would be delayed in contacting police.

KELLAM HEADS OCEAN HIWAY ASSOCIATION

VIRGINIA BEACH — Sidney S. Kellam, Virginia Beach civic leader and businessman, has been elected president of the Ocean Hiway Association.

Kellam succeeds Roy A. Stevens of Southport, N.C. at head of the non-profit association that promotes travel on the north-south Ocean Hiway between New York and Florida. His election came at the 31st annual meeting of the Association in North Wildwood, N.J.

Other new officers are John Bouhan of Savannah, Ga. first vice president; and W. W. Dalling of South Dennis, N.J., second vice president. Vernon Derrickson, Sr. of Dover, Del. was re-elected chairman of the Board.

For the past year, Kellam has served as a member of the Association's executive board and vice president of Virginia. He is a member of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge & Tunnel Commission and a prominent leader in other civic and governmental affairs.

A variety of new promotion programs were adopted by the Association's Executive Board, following meetings of committees held during the annual meeting. They include Ocean Hiway information stations, an automobile club and tour bureau relations program, a Hiway improvement council, an expanded sign program, and a community promotion project that will provide closer links with the Association and local communities, chambers of commerce, and promotional groups.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge & Tunnel Commission received special recognition at an awards luncheon during the Ocean Hiway Association meeting for its outstanding leadership in making the Bridge-Tunnel a reality. The Association's award to the Commission was accepted by Sidney S. Kellam.

Sidney S. Kellam (center), newly elected president of the Ocean Hiway Association, here displays the Association's award to the Bridge-Tunnel Commission which he accepted. With him are Roy A. Stevens, outgoing president, and Clyde Morris, bridge-tunnel executive director.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Congressman Tom Downing will be the principal speaker at the Memorial Day services which will take place in front of the Coast Guard station at 24th and Atlantic Avenue May 31st from 11:30 to 12:30.

Virginia's congressman from the 5th District will be introduced by Virginia Beach Mayor, Frank A. Dusch as will the other speaker of the day, Captain D. C. Rumsey, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station, Oceana.

The ceremony will be a Fleet Reserve two bell service for departed members and was instigated and is being conducted by the Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 166 with the assistance of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and various branches of the military.

The ceremony will be made singularly impressive by a simultaneous wreath drop from helicopter and boat, in conjunction with a wreath laying on the beach by the Ladies' Auxiliary and cerebral palsy victim, Steve Dail.

After the wreath commendation there will be a rifle salute by a firing detail from Norfolk Naval Base and Chaplain S. B. Richards will close with a prayer.

Proceeding and following the services the Airland band from Norfolk will play.

Other military bands in the area will be represented by Captains J. L. Harrington, II, Commanding Officer of Dam Neck and an honor guard from the Fleet Marines at Norfolk. The public is invited.

The reportedly took five cameras, valued at over $315, and $112 in cash. Detective Sgt. A. E. Smith and Detective E. L. Knowles took the men into custody shortly after the burglary occurred.

BAYSIDE ATTORNEY SUPPORTS KELLAM, CHALLENGES BURLAGE

BAYSIDE — In a speech before the Bayville Park and Garden Civic League at the Chesapeake Fire Station last Monday, Garland Layton, Bayside attorney, threw his support behind the State Senate candidacy of William P. "Bill" Kellam, and challenged statements and criticisms made by Independent Candidate L. Charles Burlage.

Layton compared the capabilities of Kellam and Burlage, and said he has chosen Kellam because of Kellam's extensive political experience, and his endeavors for progress and total growth of Virginia and Virginia Beach. He cited Kellam's political connections on the State level, and briefly mentioned Kellam's positive feelings on increased aid to education. Layton said Burlage is an attorney practicing in Norfolk, completely new to the political arena, with no political friendships or working knowledge of other Tidewater communities. He said Burlage has attacked everything from President Johnson to the Virginia Beach City Council, but cannot seem to agree from day to day what he believes in. Layton added that Burlage has condemned the Democratic Organization at Virginia Beach, but said that Burlage appears to be seeking to become the head of his own organization and a dictator of both City and State governments.

Specifically, Layton challenged Burlage's charges concerning

P.O. BIDS DUE SOON

LONDON BRIDGE — The Post Office Department is seeking competitive bids to build and lease the new post office at London Bridge Station, Virginia Beach. Postmaster General John A. Gronowski announced today.

"The purpose of competitive bidding," Mr. Gronowski said, "is to encourage the most attractive and economical offer to the Government in line with President Johnson's economy program to achieve the best possible postal service at the least possible cost."

Under the Department's Lease Construction program, the sible postal service at the least Great Neck Road in London Bridge Park will be assigned to the successful bidder, who will purchase the property, construct the building according to departmental specifications and lease it to the Post Office Department for a basic period of ten years, with options to renew the lease for an additional twenty years.

The Department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bidding documents may be obtained from Herman A. Schmidt, Regional Real Estate Officer, P.O. Box 2386, Richmond, Virginia 23218. The Real Estate Officer will supply bidding forms, building specifications, lease provisions and other information. Bids must be submitted to the Real Estate Officer by 2 p.m. June 18.

CHARGE DISMISSED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Reckless driving charges against Thomas Hiram Jennings were dismissed Tuesday by Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab Jr.

A charge of leaving the scene of an accident drew a $50 fine, a 90 day suspended jail sentence and 12 months probation. Two manslaughter charges against Jennings were dismissed at an earlier hearing.

Jennings was accused of driving a car that sideswiped a second vehicle on Virginia Beach Boulevard last February, resulting in an accident that cost the lives of David Gordon, 24, and Alonza Hines, 25, both of Virginia Beach.

NORFOLK SHOOTING

NORFOLK — Robert N. Wilson, 39, of 25 Spartan Road, Virginia Beach is in serious condition in DePaul Hospital after being shot by a burglar Sunday in a Newport Avenue apartment.

Norfolk police have charged Connie Mack Jordan, 50, with attempted murder, housebreaking and grand larceny. The shooting occurred in an apartment occupied by Mrs. Nettie Marie Ciurci, 46.

BOOKLET SPOTLIGHTS ART SHOW

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia will spotlight the 10th annual Virginia Beach Boardwalk Art Show in the June edition of its "CAP Call."

The "Call" is the firm's small monthly brochure that goes out with the telephone bills to several hundred thousand subscribers. Each publication spotlights some special event or point of interest in Virginia.

It states: "The Boardwalk Art Show, featuring a colorful ten-block long exhibit of art, will observe its 10th anniversary this year at Virginia Beach."

From July 15 through July 19 paintings, drawings, graphics, sculpture and ceramics will be attractively displayed. Over 400 artists from all over the country are expected to compete for a Best-in-Show prize of $1,000 plus ten other awards.

"Many of the 100,000 spectators who viewed the Art Show last summer bought original art objects directly from the artists. They made these purchases at prices ranging from one dollar to over a thousand dollars. Participating artists themselves are sometimes the best customers. Last year one artist swapped a seascape for a side of beef. During the 1964 show, sales were reported in excess of $35,000."

The show is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Art Association, a nonprofit organization. This group provides exhibit space to the artists as well as programs that list their names and boardwalk locations. Hostesses "picture-sit" while artists have lunch breaks or view the works of other exhibitors."

CAR KNOCKS OFFICER DOWN

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police are looking for the driver of a car that attempted to run down a patrolman early Wednesday morning on Newtown Road after the officer had stopped the car.

Patrolman Ronnie Sawyer was approaching the car on foot when the driver suddenly swerved the vehicle around and headed toward the officer. Sawyer was knocked down but not injured.

The car sped away and out-ran police units pursuing it. During the chase a passenger in the car threw out several gallons of illegal whiskey, police said.

If the driver is taken into custody he will be charged with attempted felonious assault of a police officer, police said.

COUNCIL AGAIN DEFERS ACTION ON 3 STATIONS

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council has committed itself to a June 14 decision on whether or not it will approve several service station applications that have been so strongly opposed by two Princess Anne Plaza churches.

The applications, which already carry the Planning Commission's recommended approval, came before council for a second time Monday and again drew a large group of dissenting Plaza residents to the meeting.

Spokesmen for the Bow Creek Presbyterian and Princess Anne Plaza Methodist Churches presented maps and drawings of the area and arguments on why the applications should be denied.

The proposed service station sites are either adjacent to or across the street from the church properties. One is directly connected with a proposed shopping center in Windsor Woods, which the Presbyterian Church also has objections to.

Each church was reportedly built with the understanding that the property be reserved for use by the church, which would eventually serve the church's memberships.

"We bought this piece of property for the church thinking it would be in the middle of a residential area," John Harris, speaking for the Presbyterian Church, said. "Now we find it is going to be in the middle of a shopping center. If the developers are going to plan the city, I think all of us should stop and think what is going to happen to us."

Approved a zoning change request by Jacob H. Brady to allow construction of a 900-unit apartment complex on property adjoining the proposed Virginia Wesleyan College. Approval of a 696 apartment project on another site in the immediate area was given by council May 10.

Accepted Planning Director Mason Gamage's suggestion that a pleasure craft marina on Davis Island be used as a source of combining both the pleasure and commercial craft facilities of the Lynnhaven Inlet. The Dolphin Marina will have 300 feet of dock space, 58 pleasure craft slips and 10 for commercial craft.

Appropriately accepted the deed for four lots on proposed Independence Boulevard donated to the city by T. G. Christopoulos.

Agreed to purchase a 1.2-acre site on Providence Road adjoining Woodstock Elementary School for future school expansion. Cost of the property will be $29,500.

Passed on first reading an ordinance establishing a public law library at City Hall to be financed through a $1 fee on each civil case filed in Circuit Court and $50 cents on such cases filed in lower court.

Passed on second and final reading the following appropriations: $14,000 for drainage in North Virginia Beach; $15,000 for drainage at Shore Drive and Pleasure House Road; and $20,147 for the Seaback Volunteer Fire Department.

The very popular annual Luau of the Bay Harbour Club was held Friday night for members and guests. Johnny Pineapple with his famous orchestra and dancers made this Luau a complete success.

The decorations were beautiful and quite unusual. The pineapple was quite prominent in the decorations throughout the club. The foyer of the club decorations was the responsibility of E. J. Phillips and Travis Branch. In the center of the foyer was a silver fountain flowing where the guests could help themselves to mai tai, an authentic Polynesian punch. The table on which the fountain was sitting was completely surrounded by palm leaves and lotus blossoms and in the background were the beautiful bright colors of Hawaiian leis with fish of all colors intermingled. Our congratulations to E. J. Phillips and Travis Branch. Guests seen standing around talking in the early part of the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Gene Meekins, Mr. and Mrs. William McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. Verdon and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Albers.

Hawaiian shifts both long and short were worn by the ladies; the men wore sport shirts, slacks, Hawaiian straw hats and bright leis. Two of the most outstanding shifts were worn by Mrs. John James and Mrs. E. J. Phillips. Seen at the buffet table were: Mr. and Mrs. Pete Madden, Mr. and Mrs. F. Soles, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Teter, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Schumaker, Dr. and Mrs. J. Bowman, John Adenbrook, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Watson and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Miller.

Talking with the Hawaiian dancers, we were able to find out that these young ladies start dancing lessons and the art of Hawaiian dancing very young. Most of them start this art at the early age of eight. Nani Kaonohi, Leilani Gabeton and Leimomi Gabeton are sisters. Luana Tong joined the group. Nani is the only one married and she is married to the drummer of the band, Johnny Pineapple's brother. Miss Tong has an A.S. Degree in business, Leilani was a secretary at the University of California Medical center, Leimomi was with Philipino Ballet of folk dancing. Nani designs and makes all the costumes.

Johnny Pineapple studied at the Julliard School of Music and has made several recordings and albums. Phil Baker gave him the name of Johnny Pineapple.

Dancing during the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Travis Branch, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. R. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. William Kellam, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Fernald, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Consovo, Mr. and Mrs. John Law, Mr. and Mrs. K. V. Brockmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Callow, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Oglethorpe, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McClees, Mr. and Mrs. M. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Mahfeldt, Mr. and Mrs. George Clapen, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ikenburg and Mrs.

Ann Ikenburg

The floor show started with the Hawaiian young ladies singing with Johnny Pineapple and the orchestra. Then followed the Hawaiian dancing. The costumes of the dancers were outstanding in design and color. Luana Tong brought the house down with applause when she completed her dance "My Hula Rock and Roll Doll". The floor show completed, four ladies attending the Luau were asked to come up and dance with the Hawaiian girls as they showed them how to follow. Mrs. Mary Jane McCoy, Mrs. Elna "Potters", Mrs. Ole Strickland and Mrs. Nancy McClees were chosen. Mrs. Nancy McClees was given a bottle of champagne as a prize for the best participant. Next were the men and believe me it seemed a lot easier to get the women to participate than the men. The men were: Hank Callow, Clayton Schumaker, Jimmy Oglethorpe and Fred Soles. Some of the men being a little on the heavy side made it rather hard to get the grass skirts around them. Hank Callow was the winner of the champagne for the men. Both winners were taught as they danced by Nani Kaonohi. Aloha.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Drinking Drivers—A Real Hazard

When we first returned to Virginia Beach three months ago, we were astonished at the increase in traffic and the worsening of traffic conditions. We remember when there were lots less vehicles, lots less reckless drivers, and certainly lots less accidents. One astonished did not last long. We had to settle down to the serious reality of driving on the congested major roads. Congestion, speeders, inexperienced drivers, bike riders who do not obey the laws, impatient motorists, "toy-riders" and "thrill-seekers" are all bad enough, but add drinking drivers to all this, and driving becomes a major hazard. Virginia Beach is no different from any other place in the increased traffic problems, but being largely a resort area, we are faced with additional concentration of drivers in a relatively short period of time.

We have nothing against the use of alcohol. On the contrary, we will have much to say about its controlled use in the weeks to come. But do feel that alcohol has no place on the highway. The dangers of the driver under the influence of alcohol are obvious. Furthermore they have been stated over and over again. However, in many cases the warnings are simply ignored. There are nearly three thousand arrests for drunk driving in the State of Virginia each year. This is appalling. But how many are not caught? And how many are involved in accidents causing injury and death? The use of alcohol causes a certain uplift and feeling of power. With crowded highways and congested automobiles, uplift and a feeling of power are not needed. They are just more deterrents to safety.

We are absolutely against the drinking or drunk driver. We believe any punishment he gets, if and when apprehended, he richly deserves. We have no sympathy for drinking drivers.

One of the biggest problems that exists is conviction of those arrested. The so-called "Implied Consent" law, which requires a sample of the offenders blood to be taken for analysis, has a great number of loopholes in it, and convictions have dropped off sharply since its institution, and even further since its recent revision. The Police Chief of Virginia Beach has said, "It (Implied Consent) ties the hands of policemen. It protects the criminal rather than the public. It's time to give the policeman a freer hand." We certainly agree, and advocate an airtight law, designed to rid the roads of the drinking driver menace. A Norfolk Judge says he believes jail sentences should be mandatory on the first conviction of drunk driving. Again we agree. In fact there are few penalties suggested that we cannot agree with. But there is one. In Bulgaria, second drunk driving convictions are punishable by death, and the sentence is invariably carried out. Although we would have some difficulty agreeing with that, it may not be as harsh as it sounds. Habitual drinking drivers in America are generally sentencing themselves to death. The pathetic and useless part of this self-imposed sentence is that so many innocent drivers and pedestrians are sentenced to death also in the fulfillment of the drunk driver's sentence. Many other innocents are maimed or crippled for life.

The time has come to take a searching look at this problem and to do something about it. It must begin with good laws and good law enforcement. Apparently this is the only way out, since the drinking drivers themselves choose to disobey the existing laws, and continue to be a real hazard.

A "Warm" Welcome

Well, at least, we hope it is a "warm" welcome to the tourists, that is. But regardless of how the elements of nature and the weatherman team up on the forecast, we would like to take this opportunity to leave our own "warm" welcome to the tourists and the new tourist season. It all begins this weekend. It will really move into high gear early next month, and it won't end until after the Mid-Atlantic Shrine Convention in late September.

There is no single industry as important to the economy and to the people of Virginia Beach than the tourist industry. Not only is it important to the businessmen along the oceanfront, but it is an all-important season to all the merchants of Virginia Beach, regardless of location. Obviously the tourist season is a boon to the economy of the Virginia Beach Borough. This is the resort area, and the area where the concentration of tourists is most evident. It is the time of the year when the hotels, motels, restaurants, gift shops and the like are in full swing, but this does not tell the full story of the importance of our tourists.

The merchants all across the sprawling city of Virginia Beach can expect an upswing in business, simply because of the influx of part-time residents. To reach the oceanfront, the tourists must pass through areas where large and small shopping developments are. Certainly they will do much shopping there. And it must be faced, the money which comes into Virginia Beach during the summer months, the more investments can be made in the tourist city during the rest of the year.

Virginia Beach is still not a large industrial center, although there are distinct signs that this will change in the not too distant future. In the meantime, tourism is our largest industry. It behooves all of us, who enjoy permanent residence in the World's Largest Resort City, to greet the summer residents with open arms, and to encourage their favorable impression of us. Only in that way can we expect them to come back again next year, and for many years to come.

For our part, we welcome the tourists to our fair city and offer any help we can give them to make their stay just that much more enjoyable. Of course, it goes without saying that we welcome the additional summer readers and any comments or criticisms they may have.

Let us sound entirely mercenary through the tone of this commentary, we want to say to the tourists, "Welcome. We are glad to see you, and we hope you will enjoy all the facilities of our city. We hope you will take time to see ALL of our city, not just the oceanfront. We feel we have much to offer you, and we feel that you, simply by coming here have much to offer us. We are not just interested in how much you can offer our economy. We are interested in making Virginia Beach your home away from home. We are interested in having you leave with a "warm" glow where we are concerned and in having you come back often, not just during the summer season. Take a good look around while you are here. It's a wonderful place to live, twelve months of every year. Let us know how we may be of further service to you. We repeat, you, the tourists, are very important to us, in every way."

As the 1965 summer tourist season gets underway, let all of us extend to you a most "warm" and cordial welcome. We're glad to have you here in one of the fastest growing areas on the East Coast.

THE LONG HOT SUMMER

Renewed War On Litterbugs

There is a peculiar species of bug that inhabits our land; and that can best be described as one of the most despicable insects that roams the earth. This bug has utter disregard for beauty, and has no thought for other species. This bug has been around for centuries, and there have been unending efforts to exterminate him, all to no avail. Threats of fine and imprisonment have failed to deter him. Conventional bug killers do no good because he is too large. His species seems to be quite prolific. His number is increasing even more. The problem remains. Only the human animal has the ability to reason. This bug does not. The LITTERBUG is with us, and is a real social problem. He must be stamped out. Efforts are afoot at least to control him right here in Virginia Beach. But, in addition, we must appeal to the bug himself to leave Virginia Beach alone. If there is any quality of the human animal left in him, perhaps he will heed our appeal.

In recent weeks, we have commended the efforts of the Virginia Beach Beautification Commission on its formation and its long range plans and aims. Besides beautification, one of the major purposes of the ambitious organization is "to take all such reasonable action as may be appropriate to condemn and discourage the careless disposition of trash and all other kinds of litter." This is all the commission can do. The rest is up to the litterbug. There are monetary penalties imposed when a bug is caught, but since there is such flagrant disobedience to the law, enforcement is at best, difficult.

We, who live at Virginia Beach have many roads and streets of which we can be proud. The wide boulevards create an attractive setting for the resort city. But it is hard to see the grass, shrubs, and sand for the waste paper, beer cans, and empty cigarette packs.

There is another inherent danger in littering at Virginia Beach. Broken bottles and twisted cans get buried in the sands of our beaches for others to find through an injury. Picnics on the non-patrolled beaches think nothing of leaving their garbage for the next picnicker.

There is nothing that we can do about this problem, except appeal to the litterbugs to practice the rules of good common sense. Any list of rules would be redundant. All we want to see is a clean and beautiful Virginia Beach.

The Fairest of The Fair

We are not sure who to blame, and we are sure who is at fault, but the controversy surrounding the runner-up in the Miss Norfolk contest qualifies as a big mess.

It all started with a young Virginia Beach resident entering the Miss Norfolk contest. She is a graduating senior at Princess Anne High School (Virginia Beach), and has been accepted as a student at Old Dominion College (Norfolk) this fall. She came in second in the Miss Norfolk contest, and became next in line to represent Norfolk in the Miss Virginia Contest, should there be any reason why the winner could not serve. A storm of controversy grew out of a Norfolk resident's protest that a Virginia Beach girl could be representing Norfolk. The tempest in the teapot grew so that the young lady in question was disqualified.

First of all, perhaps a Virginia Beach girl should not have entered the Norfolk contest, but because she had already been accepted at a Norfolk College, she apparently thought she was in the right. The officials of the Norfolk contest apparently ignored the fact that she should have been enrolled, not just accepted. One official had the audacity to imply that the rule was ignored because the girl's talent served to round out the Contest. To our way of thinking, that's one heck of an excuse.

Because the Miss Virginia Contest is being held so late in the summer, this same young lady, now eligible to enter the Virginia Beach contest could not (if she should win) be in this year's Miss Virginia

Contest. The Virginia Beach pageant is too late. We firmly believe that Virginia Beach should have its own contest in time to supply a contestant in the Miss Virginia pageant every year.

But back to the single young lady in question. Upon her disqualification as Miss Norfolk runner-up, she reportedly said: she would try again in a couple of years, when she is a Norfolk college student. We wonder why she had not considered becoming a contestant in the Miss Virginia Beach contest, since she actually does reside in Virginia Beach; particularly since Norfolk had showed such lack of interest in her qualifications.

But be that as it may, we will welcome the entrance of Miss Jo Anna Smelser, into the Miss Virginia Beach contest this August, regardless of her apparent partiality to Norfolk. And should she win, we will support her wholeheartedly in next year's Miss Virginia Contest.

We may sound like we are pounding out our old familiar theme once more, and we are. The time has come for Virginia Beach residents, regardless of where they have been accepted in college, to start "thinking Virginia Beach". As was obvious in this case, there is little love lost between the residents of Norfolk and the residents of Virginia Beach. So the time is here that we Virginia Beach residents stand up and be counted on our own. And let us forget, the City of Virginia Beach includes ALL of the city.

OVERLOAD PROTECTION FOR ELECTRIC MOTORS

One important item is often overlooked when electric motors are installed. This is overload protection for the motor. Such an oversight can cause expensive repair bills.

An electric motor is a willing worker—it keeps right on trying no matter how much it's overloaded. Most electric motors will develop twice their rated horsepower for a limited time.

If overloading continues, however, the motor gets hot enough to burn the insulation off the windings. When this happens, the motor is "burned-out" and ready for the junk heap, or an expensive rewinding job.

Motors can be protected by a device that automatically stops it before windings get hot enough to cause damage. What it amounts to is a form of insurance—insurance against motor burn-outs.

There are four ways to protect motors against overloads. They include: built-in overload protection, time-delay fuse, manual starting switch with overload protection, and magnetic starting switch with overload protection.

As the name suggests, built-in overload protection is put in the motor by the manufacturer. If protection is not built in, you must use one of the other three methods to protect your motor.

There are two types of built-in protectors—the automatic reset and the manual reset. These devices sense the heat of a motor and stop it before damage is done.

The automatic reset type will re-start the motor after it cools down. It's dangerous to use a motor with automatic reset overload protection for certain applications. A bench saw is a good example. In this case, the motor might start automatically after an overload and could possibly cause injury. The automatic reset type is a good choice where motors work unattended. Examples of this type application are motors which drive water pumps and refrigeration compressors.

If a motor has manual reset protection, you'll find a reset button on the motor. If the motor is overloaded and stops, you must push the reset button before it will start again.

A motor with automatic reset gives no outward sign it has built-in overload protection. You must look on the nameplate to determine whether it has built-in protection of the automatic reset type.

DRAWS COMPLAINTS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Those who ventured to the ocean's edge last weekend, from approximately 14th Street to 84th Street, found much evidence of an old enemy. Oil, dumped from a ship, all but covered a large area of the shoreline. Complaints from bathers and residents of Virginia Beach poured into the offices of the Chamber of Commerce and the City Manager.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers District Office in Norfolk was notified and on Monday was investigating the incident. The District Engineer's Office is charged with preventing such occurrences and, in conjunction with the Coast Guard, with rigid enforcement of offenses.

A spokesman for the District Engineer's Office says that letters are sent to all major domestic and foreign shipping companies stating the laws and the penalties. Penalties range from a fine of $500 to $2500, up to a year imprisonment. In the past, several shippers have received the maximum fine for dumping oil and other refuse off Virginia Beach.

According to the spokesman, patrol boats and planes are employed to enforce the law and to spot offenders; however, it is impossible to apprehend every lawbreaker. He says the law

BEACH JAYCEES

AT CONVENTION

NORFOLK — The Virginia Beach chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was well represented at the State convention held at the Golden Triangle last weekend.

The joke of the year seemed to be that the Beach Jaycees in opening their hospitality suite at the hotel found that they had reserved the bridal suite. In these lavish surroundings, they entertained some 500 Jaycees and their wives.

Seen dining and dancing at the annual banquet and dance were the following Jaycees from the Beach: Maurice and Mike Hunger, Dan and Jean Hefflin, Charlie and Nancy Thomas, Bob and Marietta Shelly, Don and Sara Fentress, John and Joan Perry, Jack and Temple Gannett, Ducky and Mary Lou Darden, Joe and Linda McDaniels, Paul and Sonja Vance, Wiley and Beth Harrell, Bill and Mary Gasper, Tyrone and Daisy Evans, Earl and Sara Long, Chuck and Gail Dask, Bob and Frances Stanton, and Andy Evans and Kenneth Skinner.

Local Fishermen Hang Up Big Catch

J. C. (Jack) Jackson, left, and Tommy Sawyer pulled in two fine sailfish during a recent fishing trip to Florida in Jack's boat, the "Lora-B". Dropping their lines off Pompano Beach in Hillsboro Inlet, Tommy successfully landed his more than 53 pound sailfish which was over 7 feet long. Jack's catch was a little smaller, at about 28 pounds, but the battle to bring him aboard was just as exciting and gratifying.

In entertaining at home, remember that your own appearance deserves at least as much time and attention as you give to planning the refreshments.

WILL YOUR DAUGHTER DEVELOP GOOD TASTE?

Why do some girls display fashion flair and good grooming almost from the time they can walk — while others, perhaps equally pretty, never learn to make the most of themselves?

The answer, according to Jane Brown, Director of Sears National Fashion Board, is often in the kind of influences a youngster has encountered at home. Some mothers, says Miss Brown, show an impressionable child that they consider fashion, grooming and manners secondary — even though they may tell her the exact opposite!

They do this in various ways: by making children dress neatly for school while they themselves walk around in curls and stoppy attire; by dressing up only on state occasions or setting a pretty table only when company's coming.

A child of any age loves to be proud of mommy — and she is seen through the eyes of the youngster's contemporaries. But when mommy picks up her daughter at school or club meeting, does she justify that pride and set an example her child will subconsciously remember? Or is she looking her most careless self — in old slacks, worn jacket and rolled head?

"If there's one single thing that's the signature of the 'I don't care how I look' approach," says the fashion executive. And by "public," Miss Brown means anywhere outside the bedroom or beauty salon. Mother should not condone this all-too-common practice, let alone set the example herself.

On the positive side, there are countless ways, big and little, in which you can help a daughter grow up with fashion flair — which is, actually, a combination of good taste and good grooming. Fresh little white gloves, for example, are a sort of symbol of the well-dressed girl. When you wear white gloves, are they immaculate?

Do you show your child, in every other detail of your dress, that you are fussy about having your clothes drycleaned regularly? One glimpse of you in a spotted blouse or rain-wrinkled coat can undo many earnest lectures about neatness!

Do you carefully coordinate accessory colors to your costume? The unfortunate tendency to wear a black coat with navy handbag and brown shoes seems to run in families! Instead of one all-purpose bag for casual outfits, one for city clothes, another for after-dark wear?

All of these good habits, practiced faithfully by mama, can help nurture sound fashion sense in the young. But good taste is more than a matter of dress and grooming; in a broader sense it applies to every facet of living.

Candlelight and fresh flowers — "good" linens, china and silverware gracing the table — these symbols of gracious living mean much to a child if the only meals they trotted out when mother entertains. The young learn from day-in-day-out habits, and far too often, what they learn goes something like this: milk on the table in a carton, the plastic tablecloth at dinner-time, paper napkins all the time, TV dinners served in their foil containers. Oh yes — and mommy at the breakfast table in sporty robe over rumpled nightgown.

As Director of the Sears Fashion Board, Jane Brown is often called upon to give fashion talks to groups of teen-age and junior girls. She claims that one glance will tell her which girls come from a home where mother sets the example of good taste and fashion flair — and which girls see just the opposite example.

The "dead giveaway" signs are hair: is it shining clean and worn in an appropriate young style — or badly teased, elaborately styled, hanging lank and oily — or even worn with scraggy rollers? Hands: are they neatly groomed — or wearing claw-like, violently painted nails? White blouses: are they really white, or tattle-tale gray? Shoes: neat, well-kept, with low heels — or shapeless, shabby, run-over — perhaps even spike-heeled? Dresses: charmingly young and simple — or overdone and "sexy"?

Is looking at football America's favorite pastime? No. We say it's looking at other people's homes.

Lilacs bring back memories of Memorial Days past . . . In a small town, Decoration Day, as it was called then, was the first real holiday. The sun shone warm, previewing summer, and the lilacs always bloomed in time. The trees in the front yard hung heavy with the sweet purple blossoms.

How proud you felt when you were considered old enough and responsible enough to be given the clippers and allowed to select and cut the branches for bouquets. Lilacs of the Valley were often intermingled to create prettier and more fragrant arrangements. And the roses from the climbing vine along the side of the old house were perfect though prickly . . .

It was also a day of reunion. Aunts and uncles and cousins came back home, making the family complete. Everything and everyone brought excitement—the blooming flowers, the special meals, the hospitality.

The day began early in the morning, right after breakfast with a trip to the family plot at the cemetery. The bouquets in their special spiked-bottomed vases were stuck in place, wreaths of real flowers stood in the sun (soon to wilt), and the bright red potted geraniums were everywhere. This usually quiet area of town was beautiful. It seemed a little strange that no one really seemed happy . . . though they talked about the people whose names were on the monuments, and they laughed, but it was not exactly that feeling you felt. You were having a good time, but you didn't really let it show. Their solemn smiles placed them in a grown-up world beyond your understanding.

The parade was the highlight, and you followed it all over town. The World War I vets were young then and they marched with vigor and serious faces, the old "boys in blue" (there weren't many left) also shuffled along holding shoulders straight, eyes front, and too proud to rifle. There was a high school band, ladies who were widows or Gold-Star mothers, and the boy and girl scouts. The most interesting group was the rifle-acting squad who, after the placing of the military wreaths and small flags on the graves of fallen comrades, aimed their rifles high and the salutes cracked with startling staccato, followed by the buglers' poignant "Taps," causing a momentary hush to fall. The march ended at the harbor by the park, and the last gesture of tribute was given by the throwing of bouquets and wreaths into the water in memory of the ones lost at sea.

You remember Decoration Day as heralding summer-time fun to come. It is only years later that it becomes Memorial Day. If you cannot make it "back home," you send flowers to make the cemetery bloom . . . you remember the good times, the joys and the sorrows of times past . . . you think about the one or ones who are only names on a monument now . . . and you can smile too. But it is of nostalgia and not of joy. You remember. It is Memorial Day.

MARINES GIVE PHYSICAL READINESS TEST TO STUDENTS

VIRGINIA BEACH — The United States Marine Corps as America's "Force in Readiness," demands of every Marine that he "Be Ready" to meet any challenge to freedom.

Throughout the years the Marine Corps has prided itself on its high training standards and the ability to attract young Americans capable of meeting the demands of training or who can become conditioned in a minimum length of time.

The Marine Corps Physical Readiness Test is administered at Virginia Beach High School by members of the Inspector-Instructor Staff, Material Supply and Maintenance Battalion, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, Norfolk. The examination, which is administered twice a year, was first given here during the fall term of the 1963-64 school year. By using the two scores as a measuring stick an individual's improvement over the entire school term can be determined.

The test which has a maximum score of 500 points consists of five basic exercises: pull-ups, push-ups, sit-ups, squat thrusts, and a 300 yard run. These exercises parallel the compulsory exercises which are required by the Virginia Board of Education.

During the recent Spring testing phase Reggie Ryals of 420 Virginia Beach Blvd., turned in a perfect score of 500 points. This marked the first time that a person has accomplished the feat at Virginia Beach High School. Ryals was presented with a plaque, citing his achievement by Captain F. J. Snyder, USMC, during a recent school assembly program. Ryals who takes physical fitness seriously is also a member of the Seahawks' football, wrestling and track squads.

Assistant Football Coach, Mickey Byrd feels that the Marine Corps Physical Readiness Test is an outstanding motivation factor for physical education students in that it stimulates a competitive spirit in what might be otherwise a grueling experience.

PA Debaters State Champs

THALIA — For the second consecutive year, the Princess Anne High School debate team took the state championships at the annual tournament held recently at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

Competing in both the affirmative and the negative, the team debated the subject "Resolved: That Nuclear Weapons Should Be Controlled By An International Organization."

Tim Finchem and Maurice Stocks made up the affirmative team and Randy Henderson and Rodney Pennington were the negative team.

The team won the state award in both the affirmative and the negative. It was the first time Princess Anne had taken the championship.

The team has chalked up an impressive record this year, paving the way to the state titles. It took first place over 20 schools in the Wilson Tournament; third place over 47 schools in the Richmond Tournament; first place over 56 schools from two states and District of Columbia at George Washington University; first place in the Eastern District Tournament; and second place over 15 schools in the Windsor High School Tournament.

In the state tournament the team was competing with five district winners of 10 teams.

Team members also have an impressive list of individual awards as top speakers at various tournaments. Randy Henderson has taken two first places, one second place and one sixth place. Rodney Pennington has won a second, third and fourth place. Maurice Stocks has two first places and one second place. Tim Finchem has captured the first, second and eighth. The four walked off with top honors in the district.

V.B. Council on Human Relations

VIRGINIA BEACH — "As a community becomes financially healthy, everyone benefits. An integrated society is good for the majority as well as the minority." So said Harvey N. Johnson, director of Public Relations, Virginia State College at the most recent meeting of the Virginia Beach Council on Human Relations, Virginia State College at the most recent meeting of the Virginia Beach Council on Human Relations.

Johnson's topic was "Consumer Buying." After pointing out that much advertising is misleading and deceptive, he went on to show how financial stability can come about through the intelligent use of one's earnings. Too many people have no understanding of investment and saving and often they do not think about variables such as poor health, catastrophe or loss of job. To bring about a prosperous society, Johnson concluded, the same of success should be the same for everyone.

The Virginia Beach Council on Human Relations is an interracial group working for harmony and understanding in our rapidly changing society. The next meeting will be held at the Hairston Funeral Home, Seaboard, on June 2, at which time Miss Mary Finch, former Methodist Missionary to Denmark and currently Director of Extension for the Virginia Council on Human Relations, will speak.

Realtor Week in Virginia

May 13, 1965

By the nature of their profession, Realtors of Virginia have aided materially making the benefits of home ownership available to the majority of our citizens, thereby assisting in emphasis on the family as the basic unit of our society.

In addition, both by the development of commercial and industrial properties and by supporting the elimination of blighted areas, Realtors have helped to make their communities and this state better places in which to live.

I take pleasure in calling to the attention of our people the period May 23-29, 1965, during which the Realtors of Virginia join their counterparts in other states in observances of "Realtor Week".

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

NOON by the Chapel Clock

One...two...three.
Four years Connie and I have listened to that deep, resonant chime counting off the hours of our college days. Sometimes it was just part of the setting at State—like the Commons, and the Quad, and Moonlight Walk. But often it called us to high moments of worship and thought and prayer.

Four...five...six.
Today we pause, and count! Exams are over. Trunks are packed. Books are on their way back to the Library. Tomorrow—Commencement.

Seven...eight...nine.
Again we're reading each other's thoughts. Let's walk once more through that graceful arch, hand-in-hand and smiling. Let's kneel together in the sacred stillness, breathing our thanks...our hopes...our needs...our dreams. For life and love await us. And these we will share with God! It is Noon by the Chapel Clock.

Ten...eleven...twelve.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily.

1. To help support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Former Beach Surgeon Cited

EUSTIS, Fla. — Dr. James W. Todd, formerly of Virginia Beach, was recently installed as a fellow of the International College of Surgeons at a meeting in Las Vegas.

The organization is devoted to the elevation of surgical standards throughout the world, and fellowship is reserved for those who can meet the rigid requirements in academic achievement, professional excellence and ethical conduct.

Until his move to Eustis in 1962, Dr. Todd was chief surgeon for Virginia Beach Hospital for 14 years. He and his family still spend the summers in Virginia Beach at their home on 70th Street.

A 1940 graduate of Emory University, Dr. Todd is an overseas veteran of World War II and is a diplomat of the American Board of Surgery and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

In 1958-59 he spent a year as a fellow on cancer surgery at the M. D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, Tex. He is a former state director of the Virginia Division, American Cancer Society, and served as vice president of ACS's Princess Anne County Unit for five years.

Dr. Todd is on the staff of Waterman Memorial Hospital and the Leesburg General Hospital. He and his wife, the former Marjorie Wing of Norfolk, have four children: Marjorie Wing Todd, an exchange student from Sweetbriar College to the Sorbonne in Paris; Eleanor; William and Stephen, who attend schools in Eustis.

BASKIN IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

Well, now! I have just finished reading the most interesting thing that has happened in the space program since it began. Seems as how Grissom and Young smuggled a corned-beef-on-rye on board the Molly Brown and ate it during one of the three orbits. For this little gamesmanship these two clowns are placed in the first rank of my kind of heroes.

I see where NASA is some kind of upset by their little joke. It figures. NASA is run by bureaucrats and they are not noted for getting the point of any humor. As a matter of fact when a man is about to be elevated to the bureaucratic level, the first thing they do is to check him into a hospital and out out his sense of humor with a dull knife. Men who can see the silly side of life couldn't possibly be allowed to have anything to do with such a sacred cow as the federal establishment.

Never expected to see one of our astronauts exhibit any fondness for fun. They have been pictured as serious minded men. I can guess why. After all, they start all their trips lying down on top of a rocket, the components of which have been furnished by the lowest bidders. That is enough to make anyone serious. We're lucky they don't run screaming to the nearest bar.

Not only was NASA upset; Congress got into the act. They held a small investigation. Don't they always? At least they were spending some time discussing hot pastrami sandwiches. This is a significant gain over some of the things they have investigated lately. Maybe if Congress made a few more trips to the local delicatessen and stopped stopping up that bean soup the country would run a little better.

Easy does it NASA. Those two jokers were riding in a capsule named for a broad. You're lucky they didn't smuggle a couple of dames on board for fun and games in orbit. Better stop worrying and start laughing.

Really, folks. As humorless an outfit as NASA should prefer sandwiches to tomatoes.

The Mixing Bowl

It's Fun To Cook

By LUCILE CLARK

Virginia Beach SUN Food Editor

APPLE CRUNCH PIE With Rich Nut Crumble Top

Apple Crunch Pie is solid with plump, juicy canned apple slices, with the extra syrup from the can right along with the slices in the pie. There's brown sugar and lemon juice, cinnamon and nutmeg. And the whole affair rests under a deep, buttery, nut-crunchy crumble top!

This is a pie in which each wedge stands up firm, the juice clinging to the apple slices.

Men, especially, will doze on Apple Crunch Pie because it has a solid base, is not overwet, and is positively bursting with apple flavor and spicy tang. . . to say nothing of the rich nut crumble that tops it all off.

- | | |
|--------------------------|---|
| 1 unbaked 9" pie shell | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| 2 tablespoons cornstarch | 1 tablespoon lemon juice |
| 1 cup brown sugar | 1/2 cup water |
| 1 teaspoon cinnamon | 5 cups canned apple slices (do not drain) |
| 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg | |
- The Crumble Top
- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup chopped walnuts or pecans | 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg |
| 1/2 cup flour | 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves |
| 1/2 cup brown sugar | Pinch salt |
| 1/2 cup cinnamon | 5 tablespoons butter or margarine |

Chill pie shell while preparing filling. In a saucepan, mix cornstarch, brown sugar, spices, salt, lemon juice and water. Stir over moderate heat until smooth and slightly thickened. Add apple slices and continue to cook and stir for 10 minutes. Cool apple filling mixture to room temperature. Turn into chilled crust. Mix topping ingredients and work with fingers until mixture is crumbly and butter thoroughly distributed. Sprinkle topping over pie filling to make an even layer. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, 35 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake an additional 30 minutes, or until apples are very tender and topping well browned. If desired, top with sauce of vanilla ice cream or pour cream on the warm pie, or a generous chunk of sharp cheese to the cold pie. Makes 8-9 servings.

Now that's a real dessert treat—after you've had a "Help yourself to the Soup Tureen" supper.

Every week is a busy one but at times draws near for getting things in order for the summer ahead—easy menus are in order.

I hope this suggestion will prove helpful with your menu planning.

Supper's ready! Help yourself! These are familiar words when the "eating" is informal . . . be it family or guests.

Stars on the menu tonight are favorites . . . soup and sandwich. The tureen is brimming with a luscious mixture of chicken noodle dry soup mix, Italian green beans and rosy tomato. Look for this tempting soup mix in single cans with bright red labels. You'll find a wealth of goodness in each little can.

The sandwich . . . to go along with the soup . . . is an open faced grilled cheese and bacon.

BUFFET SUPPER SOUP

- 1 can (1 1/2 ounces) chicken noodle dry soup mix
 - 5 1/2 cans (3 cups) cold water
 - Generous dash thyme
 - 1 cup cooked Italian green beans
 - 1/2 cup chopped cooked tomatoes
- Empty soup mix into saucepan. Add water and thyme. Bring to boil; stir often. Partially cover; simmer 7 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add beans and tomatoes; heat. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

As I See It

by Betty Deal
Home Demonstration Agent

Can you stretch out after work in "the perfect lounging chair?" You have a good chance of greeting the perfect chair for yourself if you follow these rules:

In as much as seat height and depth are the most critical dimensions, make sure your feet will reach the floor while your back is easily touching the chair back. Be sure there is no pressure under your thighs close to your knees; this can hinder circulation.

The seat should slant somewhat from the front to the back and be flat or slightly curved from the sides. It should meet the back at an angle greater than 90 degrees.

The back should curve in to meet and support the curvature of your spine about six or seven inches above the seat. The back also should be high enough to support shoulder blades, but not so high that it pushes your neck forward. And it should be flat or slightly raised in the center so that your shoulders are not pushed forward.

Arm rests should support elbows and lower arms. If the rests are too high, they'll push your shoulders up and forward. If they're too low, they'll be useless.

The seat should be wide enough to permit movement, but not so wide that you must stretch for arm rests. The center of the seat should not be too soft, nor the front edge too hard. A firm, resilient material is the best cushioning.

Research on average physical measurements suggests that most adults will be comfortable in chairs that conform to these general rules: Dimensions will usually run: seat—15 to 16 inches high (when the cushion is depressed), 18 to 19 inches deep, 20 to 22 inches wide; back—at least 18 inches high; arm rests—about 14 inches long, 7 to 9 inches above the seat.

"When you're buying a chair, take your time. Try it several times and sit in it for awhile. A chair that feels comfortable when you first sit down does not always remain so.

Have a nice week-end!

Shadows To Open Tonight

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Shadows, Virginia Beach's Most Exciting Night Club, premieres its 1965 Season tonight with the vibrant sounds of the famed "The Phoenix Singers," directed from an engagement at The Cedar Door, entertainment showcase in the Nation's Capital.

The "Singers" have made a tremendous impact on the following scene in a few short years. This great success is due to the skillful blending of three unusual vocal talents—three young men who were born in music, three boomer, masculine and fervent voices. From a lullaby to a rocker's chant, they mesmerize the listener and bring down the house. "Elements of gospel, spiritual and ballad styles are skillfully merged in their singing, which has vigor, musicality, and enormous potency," quoting The Saturday Review.

Recent guests of President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House, "The Phoenix Singers" bring to the Beach a completely new repertoire of folk music and an advance preview of their new album, soon to be released on the Warner label.

Alternating with the area's first dancing-discotheque and movies entertainment, "The Phoenix Singers" will be featured at the Shadows through June 10.

Seaview Beach Opens Saturday

VIRGINIA BEACH — Seaview Beach, Tidewater Virginia's famous bathing and amusement resort, will open for its twenty-second season of continuous operation Saturday.

The resort is on Shore Drive at London Bridge, Virginia Beach. All its facilities—which include a 40-room hotel, a fireproof bathhouse, ballroom with a capacity of 500, six restaurants, amusement games and 10 rides—have been refurbished, painted and decorated in preparation for the new season.

The hotel boasts 40 rooms and all the usual resort hotel conveniences. The bathhouse offers such services as bathing suit, umbrella and blanket rentals. And the beach, one of the cleanest and safest on the East Coast, is at all times patrolled by competent, alert lifeguards.

More than 50 trained personnel staff the Seaview Beach resort, and all are experienced in the operation of the rides and in catering to the patrons' comfort, convenience and pleasure.

A special feature of the beach is a tiny tot's free wading pool, which offers grown-ups an opportunity to leave their children in perfect safety in the care of experienced lifeguards while themselves sporting in the waters of the Chesapeake Bay.

Another special feature is the Hundred Dollar Cash Give-A-Way every Friday night to some lucky person.

Girl Is Told She Is 'Second Choice'

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am in the tenth grade. A particular boy, whom I happen to like very much, asked me to be his date for a class party. Then, the boy, who happens to be my brother's best friend, told me that he was trying to get another girl to go with him and if she did not agree, then he would take me. I don't think this is right, since

I should wind up without a date. I'll be more than happy to take you."

It is likely that the boy considers you a friend, just as he is a friend of your brother. His may even think that he is doing you a favor by taking you somewhere. Let him know, in a friendly way, that he is mistaken — and that you don't want him to ask you — or take you anywhere... unless it is something that he wants to do.

Quite often, a girl is "second choice" — as a boy might ask two or three girls before he gets a date. A girl may already have a date; she may have a previous engagement, etc. But, a boy never tells a girl that he has asked someone else first. It just isn't good manners. And, it isn't wise for a girl, being told she is second choice, to indicate that it doesn't matter by going with the boy a date.

If you have a date, you want to choose, or an alternative, you should tell him. For AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, please write to: C. D. Smith, P.O. Box 100, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23461.

he asked me first. What should I do about this?"

OUR REPLY: You should very politely tell this boy to just forget about the whole thing. His manners leave something to be desired if he asks a girl for a date, then tells her he would prefer to go with someone else and will do so if the girl is agreeable. This is somewhat like saying, "If

City Probation Officer Speaks

VIRGINIA BEACH — "Where are we as adults placing our values, when a teacher earns $4300-$4600 per year and a rock 'n' roller earns $150.00 an hour?"

Chief Probation Officer Gordon Turner put it to the Virginia Beach High School Parents League quite boldly, "as the twig is bent the tree will grow." Parents must assume responsibility for their children's delinquency. If youngsters have constructive activities available they will not be vulnerable to the lower forms of entertainment.

One parent spoke out: "We are alarmed about the change in values. What advice can you give us?"

"There is nothing stronger than public opinion," Mr. Turner stated. He urged parents to raise their voices in protest to all sex emphasis on the newsstand, movies and TV.

"Mr. Turner, do you feel there are enough youth activities at Virginia Beach?"

"No, I'd like to see a good Boys Club, a YMCA and a YMCA."

Warren Sivertsen: "I've just returned from Baton Rouge, La., where we built three YMCA's. Why don't we build one here? Let's show our youngsters that it is more fun to do what is good."

"What about sororities and fraternities?"

"They are always a headache to us," Mr. Turner said. Parents should not permit high school students to go to week-end house parties. It is the parents' lack of responsibility.

New officers elected for the Parents' League are: president, Mrs. Vi Regan; vice-president, Lt. Col. Warren Sivertsen; recording secretary, Mrs. Mabel Goranson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anne Dennis; and treasurer, Mrs. Hilda Casey.

C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"The immature mind hops from one thing to another: the mature mind seeks to follow through."—Harry A. Overstreet
Hello folks! Many boys and girls are not joining 4-H today because they feel that 4-H is for rural young people only. Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 19 can join 4-H, and enroll in project work that is as adaptable to urban conditions as it is to rural conditions. Today, I want to tell you about one of these projects:

4-H Members Take Over Home Improvement Jobs

Remodeling a home is usually considered to be an adult task. However, in 4-H families the younger members devote much time to beautifying and improving their homes.

They are the 201,000 boys and girls throughout the nation enrolled in the 4-H Home improvement program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The youngest 4-H'ers usually experiment with paints, paper materials, picture and furniture care. Members between 12 and 14 years of age learn to sew curtains, frame pictures and redecorate their rooms.

Older members learn how to upholster and refinish furniture, build tables, improve lighting, make lamps, judge home furnishings, add storage space, arrange and remodel rooms.

Many become experts at refinishing furniture. Recently a Colorado 4-H girl was asked to refinish a 100-year-old candlestick table for a museum.

Various methods of teaching are employed by the club leaders. Among them are tours of fabric shops, furniture and department stores, hardware stores, galleries, museums, and places featuring weaving, woodworking and related handicrafts.

Each year the best home improvement project completed in a state brings the club members one of the most sought after awards 4-H has to offer: a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago, and a chance for one of six $500 educational scholarships. But before the boys or girls reach the state competition, they usually have qualified for a county medal award.

Sponsor of these awards, plus 17 educational grants of $300 each, is the S&H Foundation, Inc.

This is one of the modern 4-H projects undertaken with equal success by both rural and urban 4-H members. And it is also a project that saves money and improves the value of the home.

Additional information about the home improvement program may be obtained from your Agricultural Extension Office.
